CIO ULTIMATUM TO STEEL MILLS: A CLOSED SHOP!

'Dues Inspection' Is Set Tomorrow.

BY WAYNE THOMIS.

At 5 o'clock tomorrow morning members of the Steel Workers' Organizing committee [CIO] will station a line of pickets outside the Carnegie-Illinois Steel corporation's gates in Gary, and groups of union leaders will conduct a "dues inspection" inside the plant and during working hours. Every worker in this, the world's greatest steel mill, must show a CIO union card or quit his job, the union decreed.

This ultimatum was given the management of the mills in conferences held yesterday afternoon by union and company representatives. The SWOC officers boasted that they will convince every one of the 30,000 Carnegie-Illinois employès that the only way they can continue to work is to belong to the CIO affiliate.

Held Contrary to Law.

Steel men said last night that tomorrow's "dues inspection" represents virtually the final stage in a program that is planned to place the nation's steel industry at the mercy of the CIO labor front. Inside dues picketing is, by ruling of Federal Judge Thomas W. Slick, contrary to law and a violation of the rights of the individual workers in the plant. The ruling was made last March 31 in connection with "dues picketings" conducted at that time.

Observers and executives of other steel companies who have watched the developments that led to this crisis hold that the SWOC's plan parallels the communistic growth that ruined French industry in 1936 and 1937. If it is successful the SWOC will have won its fight to force the closed shop on the United Steel corporation, parent company of the Carnegie-Illinois organization.

Record of Work Stoppages.

Just how this situation arose, how the CIO union with gradually increasing boldness took step after step, is revealed by the record of incidents at the Carnegie-Illinois corporation mills since last February. There has been a succession of "work stoppages," which are strikes of short duration, never exceeding 48 hours.

These interruptions, however, have cost the Carnegie-Illinois corporation 38,000 tons of steel production. None of this loss can be recovered as long as the steel industry continues to operate at maximum capacity as at present. The majority of this lost steel was for the nation's armament program, the steel being intended for ordnance plants, air field hangars, airplane factory buildings, and naval bases.

Jeer at Appeals to Patriotism.

Appeals by management officials to union leaders that the stoppages or strikes are un-American and unpatriotic at this time have been answered with jeers. CIO leaders have replied that they are going to gain their objectives now while the strike is most effective and while the need for their products is greatest.

None of the current labor troubles besetting the steel industry is concerned with wage increases or concessions concerning working hours. In fact, the industry today is paying the highest wages in its history with the average hourly earnings, according to Iron and Steel Institute figures, at 97 cents, or $165 a month.

Wage increases were given only last April 1, when the existing contract between Carnegie-Illinois and the SWOC went into effect. At that time wages were upped 10 cents an hour or $4 a week.

The highest previous wages were paid in 1929 when, according to the same sources, the average was 65.4 cents an hour. At that time a 48 hour week was standard and weekly wages were $31.62. Today the weekly wage average is $38.

Campaign Started in February.

The campaign for a closed shop at the Carnegie-Illinois plant began during the last few days of February, when "dues picketing" was introduced in the Chicago area for the first time. This is a type of picketing in which the union seeks no objective with employers but instead attempts to force employés into its organization. It was applied at the Carnegie-Illinois mills in Gary on Feb. 26.

Sporadically it was continued until March 31 when Federal Judge Slick of the Northern Indiana District court asked the SWOC to drop its

FIRST CARGO OF FOODS FOR GREECE'S HUNGRY SAILS FROM ISTANBUL

ANKARA, Turkey, Oct. 13.—The small Turkish freighter Kurtulush sailed from Istanbul today, bearing the first shipment of a total intended cargo of 50,000 tons of foodstuffs bound for the hungry population of occupied Greece.

Representatives of the Greek War Relief committee, of which Harold S. Vanderbilt is honorary chairman, and officials of the United Kingdom Commercial corporation, as well as Red Cross authorities, supervised the Kurtulush's loading and departure.

The Kurtulush, which will proceed only in daylight, putting into island ports overnight to avoid belligerent bombers and submarines, is carrying potatoes, onions, fish, beans, peas, and wild boar meat to Piraeus, Port of Athens. Later the vessel will return for additional foodstuffs and 40,000 head of live goats, which will be ferried to Piraeus in several trips.

PALEFACE COURT HOLDS AN INDIAN FOR HORSE THEFT

A young Sioux warrior stood yesterday before United States Commissioner Edwin K. Walker in the great white father's stone wigwam [the old postoffice building]. Tho he is a descendant of Sitting Bull and Spotted Tail his name is disappointingly unimaginative. It's Dale Packard.

The story told by Assistant United States Attorney John M. Kiely indicated, however, that if Warrior Packard had an Indian name, it should translate into something like Wily-Man-Who-Other-People's-Horses-Stick-to-His-Fingers.

Warrior Packard stands accused of stealing two horses from the ranch of his uncle, Orson Packard, on the Crow Creek reservation near Wagner, S. D. A Sioux Falls federal grand jury has indicted him on a charge of removing live stock from the reservation without the permission of the superintendent.

The white haired commissioner continued until Friday the hearing on the petition to take Packard back to South Dakota and remarked he remembers the last Indian to face him but can't remember the last horse thief. Warrior Packard maintained stoically that he was part owner of the horses he took, but his face was red—which was quite natural.

Fines British Coffee Firm $2,400 for Using Ship Space

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Oct. 13.—E. Brings Co., Ltd., coffee importing firm, was fined $2,400 today on charges of using vital Atlantic shipping space for private profit. The court also confiscated 130 bags of coffee. The value of the confiscated coffee was $2,760, but because prices here have risen it sold for $6,800.

State Forbids All Gambling in Night Spots

BY EDWIN KENNEDY.

The Illinois state liquor commission yesterday issued a drastic order barring all forms of gambling from taverns, including slot machines, punch boards, and baseball pools. The commission announced that the licenses of taverns will be revoked where violations are found.

William M. Devine, the commission secretary, said that the order applies to Chicago as well as downstate communities. The police have barred slot machines and punch boards from Chicago taverns, but have condoned dice games. It was estimated that nearly 75 per cent of Chicago's 9,000 taverns operate dice games, either the so-called 26 games, or those in which the customers shake for drinks with the bartender.

Viewed as Stimulant.

The police have always looked upon dice games as merely a trade stimulant and have allowed their operation in taverns, cigar stores and other places of business, one police captain explained. He estimated that more than 5,000 dice girls employed in taverns would be thrown out of work if the commission enforced the order.

"How will the commission enforce the order in Chicago and thruout the state?" Secretary Devine was asked.

He said that instructions have been sent to the commission's 36 investigators to report all violations. Each investigator, he said, is given a certain district and will be held responsible for violations in that district.

Revoke Tavern Licenses.

When the commission receives the report of the violation, the tavern owner will be called to the commission's office and informed that his state license has been revoked, Devine said. This will automatically revoke his city or county license.

"If the commission finds that a tavern has violated the gambling laws and the investigator has not reported it the investigator will be suspended," the secretary said.

He said that there are 18 investigators in Chicago and nearby towns and 18 covering the rest of the state.

"Will that number be adequate to enforce the law thruout the state?" he was asked.

Could Use More.

"The commission could use more investigators, of course," he said, "but it feels that it can enforce the law with that number."

"Suppose the tavern owners refuse to comply and all demand a hearing. Will that tax the commission's facilities?" was the next inquiry.

"We do not believe that the tavern owner will jeopardize his license by refusing to comply," Devine responded.

The action was taken at a meeting held in the liquor commission's Chicago office after a survey of taverns in Cook and downstate counties. Attending the meeting were Chairman Arthur S. Smith of Bloomington, Commissioners Charles J. Fleck and Paul Rothenberg of Chicago and Secretary Devine.

The commission said that its jurisdiction in gambling extends only to places licensed to sell liquor and could not extend to cigar stores and poolrooms that do not sell liquor.

The commission yesterday ordered the owners of night clubs in La Salle to appear before it on Oct. 23 to defend an action to revoke their licenses. Fleck and Devine reported that they found slot machines, dice and roulette tables in operation in both places.

NAVY OFFICER PROVES A FAKE; BUT PRISON TERM IS REAL THING

Thomas A. Cotter, 27 years old, 6959 Schubert avenue, was sentenced to a year and a day in the penitentiary yesterday by Federal Judge John P. Barnes after he pleaded guilty to a charge of posing as a naval officer. Cotter, on leave of absence from the county assessor's office, was so clever an impostor that he attended a naval officers' dinner and inspected the naval armory here without arousing suspicion.

He offered no defense yesterday, altho his attorney stated that he was a former Andy Frayne usher and a would-be policeman and was suffering from a "uniform complex." Both his lieutenant's uniforms were bought with bad checks, according to Edward J. Ryan, assistant United States attorney, as were a number of drinks here and there.

Lieut. George D. Crowley of the naval intelligence said that the offense is a serious one. He said that when secret orders were issued during the last war that naval officers did not wear uniforms during a designated 12 hour stretch, 5,000 phony officers were arrested thruout the country. Cotter, he added, "is the saltiest sailor I have ever met."

FAIRBANKS JR. TO TAKE A DESK JOB IN THE NAVY

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Oct. 13.—Douglas Fairbanks Jr., son and namesake of a famous movie actor, is expected in the capital in the next few days to take over a desk job in the naval department as a lieutenant, junior grade, a commission which dates from shortly after the beginning of his friendship a year ago with the eldest son of the President, Jimmy Roosevelt, who also holds a commission.

Young Fairbanks is fresh from a "good will" tour of South America under the auspices of Nelson Rockefeller, the New Deal coördinator of inter-American affairs.

Fairbanks will join a growing list of movie and other celebrities being assembled in the naval department. These include: Lieut. Robert Montgomery, Lieut. Comm. Gene Markey, former husband of Hedy Lamarr; Lieut. [J. G.] Wayne Morris, Lieut. Comm. Wallace Beery, Lieut. Comm. John Ford, director for 20th Century-Fox; Lieut. Comm. Lloyd Bacon, director for Warner Brothers pictures, and Lieut. Comm. Walter Winchell, a Broadway columnist. Montgomery and Markey are in active service, the others in the reserves.

ARM U. S. SHIPS, 3 CABINET MEN URGE IN HEARING

Give Opponents Only One Day.

BY WILLARD EDWARDS.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Oct. 13.—A gag rule, extraordinary even to a congress inured to rigid restrictions on consideration of important legislation, was enforced by the house foreign affairs committee today as it heard the secretaries of state, war, and the navy urge repeal of the neutrality act.

Rep. Sol. Bloom.

Committee Chairman Sol Bloom [D., N. Y.] introduced something new in the line of regulations prohibiting adequate discussion of a bill affecting the future course of the nation He ruled:

1. That the administration's witnesses might cover as much ground as they wished but that committee members could not cross-examine them except on the one point dealing with repeal of the provision banning the arming of American merchant ships. Thus, altho all three cabinet members also advised repeal of the present restriction on the sending of American ships into belligerent ports, generally conceded to insure shooting between the United States and Germany, questioning on this proposal was not permitted.

2. That the formal statements, or "handouts" printed by government agencies, of the witnesses could be released to the press but reporters could not be admitted to listen to the questioning of witnesses. This, in effect, left only the administration's case to be given the public.

Call Plan "Self Defense."

Secretaries Cordell Hull, Henry L. Stimson and Frank Knox in their statements sounded the familiar theme that self defense against "German piracy" necessitated arming of merchant ships. All went further to advocate sending of the ships into war zones. This latter provision is not in the present bill but may be added as an amendment in either house or senate.

The same line of reasoning was followed by Adm. Harold R. Stark, chief of naval operations, and Adm. Emory S. Land, chairman of the United States maritime commission, the only other witnesses appearing for the government.

Bloom then announced that the administration's position had been stated. Tomorrow has been set aside, he said, for the opposition to present its case. But it appeared that because of the throttling parliamentary rules in force and the short space of time allowed, there would be few, if any, minority witnesses.

Bloom later announced that he had received a number of telegrams from persons who wished to testify and that he had wired them permission

CLAMP CENSORSHIP ON ZEALAND HUNT FOR SLAYER OF SIX

BY QUENTIN POPE.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

WELLINGTON, N. Z., Oct. 13.—Strict censorship was clamped on New Zealand's most remarkable man hunt today as reënforcements combed forest and cave in the Mount Camelback area for Stanley Graham, 40 year old farmer and marksman who has killed six persons in five days.

First to die under Graham's "dead eye" aim were four policemen investigating neighbors' complaints last Thursday that Graham had accused them of poisoning his live stock. They fell before reaching his door. Next he wounded a field officer of the department of agriculture who came to find out about the shootings. Heavily armed, Graham fled into the brush.

On Friday Graham shot and killed two home guardsmen hunting for him. Since then sharpshooters and skilled foresters have been flown to South Island to join the search. Schools have closed and women and children sent out of the area.

U-BOAT GIVES 4 A RIDE AFTER IT TORPEDOES SHIP

LISBON, Portugal, Oct. 13 (AP).—The Portuguese steamer Corte Real, bound for the United States with an American doctor among its six passengers, was sunk Sunday by a German submarine. The U-boat towed the ship's lifeboats 20 miles in toward the Portuguese coast and gave two boat shy women and two children a ride aboard the submarine itself.

Shipping circles here reported also that a British convoy was attacked by a submarine in the same waters today and that one ship was sunk and six others would put in at Lisbon later.

The story of the Corte Real was related by Capt. José Narciso Marques Jr., when he and the passengers and crew of 36 arrived here this evening.

Six Passengers on Ship.

The Corte Real, 2,044 tons, sailed from Oporto Saturday morning for the Azores and the United States.

The passengers were two Portuguese women with their children and Dr. Charles Cant Buffinger, 26 years old, of the United States, and Jean de le Gillardie Renee, 32, a Frenchman.

Capt. Marques said that a German plane flew low over the ship Sunday noon and shortly afterward a German submarine came to the surface nearby.

The submarine captain came aboard and inspected the Corte Real's papers and her cargo of tungsten ore, cork, canned fish and Swiss watches, and then ordered all aboard into the lifeboats.

First the Germans opened the seacocks. The vessel did not settle quickly enough to suit them, so they opened fire with their deck gun and finally dispatched her with a torpedo, altho the U-boat skipper had explained that he wanted to save his ammunition.

Women Panic Stricken.

"Seeing that the women were panic stricken over entering the small boats, the German officer decided to take them and the children aboard the submarine before firing the torpedo," said Capt. Marques.

"We were in three lifeboats, but one was badly smashed and went down with all the ship's papers, and the passports and documents of the passengers.

"The submarine then towed our two remaining boats about 20 miles toward the Portuguese coast and there returned the women and children to us, saluted and submerged.

"We rowed all Sunday night until we met a Portuguese fishing trawler, the Adeus, which towed us to Lisbon.

Play with Children.

"The women passengers said that while they were aboard the submarine the Germans tried to cheer them up and played with the children, one of whom is four years old and the other only a year.

"Some of the officers remarked that they had babies like these at home.

USED TO GET IMPORTS.

The Corte Real, a 19 year old vessel, was one of 14 steamers requisitioned by the Portuguese government to assure transportation of imports from the United States.

She last arrived in New York on Sept. 2, and sailed a week later for Ponta Delgada, the Azores, her home port, and Lisbon.

The 281 foot vessel was once named the Peursum.

FRICTION GROWS BETWEEN BRITISH AND REDS IN IRAN

BY E. R. NODERER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

TEHERAN, Iran, Oct. 13.—Ill feeling between British and Russian troops in Iran [Persia] reached a new high today when a Red political commissar gave a British colonel and a party of Ghurkas [Indian soldiers] one hour to get out of Chalus, a resort town along the Caspian sea. A British military spokesman said the British minister would be requested to protest to the Red embassy.

Col. Briggs took two truckloads of Indian troops on a 48 hour leave to the Caspian and into a sector for which the Reds previously had informed the British no pass was needed. As the Ghurkas were preparing for a swim, the commissar appeared and demanded a pass.

As the colonel protested, the commissar said, "How do I know you are not German?" He then pointed to his wrist watch and ordered the Britishers to depart within an hour. The British deplore the incident, not only because of increased friction between the Reds and British, but because they felt the colonel lost face with the Indian troops.

3 DRIVES TEAR THRU MOSCOW DEFENSE: NAZIS

Claim Some Units Go East of Capital.

BERLIN, Oct. 13 (AP).—German tank and motorized infantry divisions were declared by authorized sources to be beating forward at top speed tonight thru Russian defenses which no longer were able even substantially to delay the invaders, and some military experts expressed belief that certain far-advanced Nazi formations were operating east of the longitude of Moscow.

[German forces operating from Orel, which was captured last week, might have sent advance units well to the east. Orel is 200 miles south of Moscow.]

Official military maps published in the German press indicated that the main German lines were within 100 miles of the capital.

Adolf Hitler's field headquarters announced that in the principal battle areas about Vyazma and Bryansk—the former some 125 miles west of Moscow and the latter 220 miles below—the number of Red war prisoners now in hand had gone beyond 350,000, and was "growing steadily."

Third Offensive Unloosed.

Not merely two, but three powerful German columns, it appeared from Nazi accounts, were striking forward toward Moscow's gates. The third—aside from those based in the Vyazma and Bryansk vicinities—was reported smashing to the southeast from the headwaters of the Volga river in the Valdai hills toward the town of Rzhev and standing, by late reports, within 140 miles northwest of Moscow.

The third offensive, said military informants here, was one of Hitler's major surprise movements of the campaign and had caught the Russians wholly unaware. It was synchronized to begin, they added, just after the great Bryansk push.

Claim Reds Lack Reserves.

While in earlier stages of the campaign the German thrusts had been somewhat retarded by soviet reserves pouring into the line by the thousands, it was claimed that now the Red command no longer had fresh troops to fill the wide breaches left in the Russian lines.

The German strategy, it was stated here authoritatively, has in consequence been sharply changed. Previously, German tank and motorized infantry columns advanced in a series of darting lunges, which were halted after each breakthru to permit running a half-circle of steel about the Russian forces involved.

Now, however, it was stated, these vanguard forces are not stopping at all, apparently regarding the Russians as sufficiently retarded in retreat by bombing action.

Aim to Starve Leningrad.

As to the Leningrad front, it was claimed that repeated Russian attempts to break a tightening encirclement had been broken and it appeared that the intention now was to try to starve that former czarist capital into capitulation.

In the south, German informants asserted that Marshal Semeon Budenny's forces had been utterly routed and the stated Nazi aim in the Ukraine was to "open all accesses to the [industrial] Donetz basin.

CIO ULTIMATUM TO STEEL MILLS: A CLOSED SHOP!

Dues Inspection Ordered for Tomorrow.

Signing of the new contract brought a lull in the union's trouble making. The contract did not grant the union a closed shop. It recognized the union as bargain agent for its members, but stated: "The union agrees not to intimidate or coerce employés into membership."

On Sept. 18 the union leaders again began finding "incidents." Thirty SWOC members in the power department of the Gary steel production mills turned off valves on waste heat boilers. This cut off power from the rolling mills, and if continued for a period of more than a few hours would have left the entire city of Gary without gas or electricity. This stoppage lasted two hours.

Inspectors Escape Death.

When the rolling mills stopped electricians crawled into the machinery to discover why—not knowing that the power department crew had gone on strike. Luckily these electricians had finished their inspection of the machinery when the power was turned on again or several men might have been fatally crushed.

On Sept. 25 a second incident occurred. Fifty union men, 35 of whom had finished work and 15 from the current shift appeared and demanded instant correction of a long list of grievances. This group was persuaded to go home or back to work without interrupting production schedules, but the CIO campaign was beginning to roll.

Next came a two day walkout—Oct. 2 and 3—at the American Bridge and Iron works, also a Big Steel subsidiary. This walkout was caused solely by a "dues picketing" performance that kept workers away from their jobs.

Simultaneously in United States subsidiary plants all over the United States similar incidents were occurring. There were several at Youngstown, O., at Clairton, Pa., which affected all the plants in the Monongahela valley, and at Birmingham, Ala.

Picket's Arrest Brings Strike.

The drive reverted to Chicago on Oct. 7, when pickets appeared outside the Carnegie-Illinois corporation's Gary sheet and tin mill. This resulted in the arrest of Dale Clingan, grievance committee chairman of the SWOC lodge 1066, the tin mill's unit. Clingan kicked the shins of two Gary policemen when they tried to keep him from manhandling two women who tried to walk thru the picket lines and go to work.

Clingan's arrest was immediately followed by a strike call. Clingan was seized at 6:45 a. m. By 7:15 a. m. nearly 50 per cent of the tin mill was inoperative and half an hour later operations ceased and nearly every union employé in the plant left for home.

Following this walkout negotiations were opened and the union demanded a disarming of company police, an agreement not to call on Gary police for future assistance in time of picketing or strike troubles, and an agreement to permit dues inspection on plant property.

The company hedged by explaining that its plant protective force is never armed except when patroling remote areas at night or guarding pay rolls. It agreed not to call on Gary police unless the union also asked for them, but refused to concede the dues inspection inside the plant.

After this agreement workers returned to their jobs but picketing continued.

Girls Defy Pickets.

On Oct. 9 and 10 girls in the tin mill's sorting plant defied pickets to get to work. Union girls in the sorting rooms protested but finally agreed to work alongside the non-unionists. The following day, Oct. 11, the SWOC called out all union members in the tin mill when non-union girls again got past pickets. These employés, however, returned to work at 11 p. m. on the 11th and worked yesterday.

The final difficulty arose on Oct. 11 at the South Chicago steel production mill, second largest unit of its kind in the world. Three hundred operators of narrow gauge railroad locomotives in the plant walked out, upsetting production seriously for about 12 hours, after which they, too, returned to work.

It is the boast in Gary that the picketing tomorrow morning will be a field day that will finally win the closed shop battle. If it does the SWOC [CIO] will finally have dictatorial control of workers who draw a monthly pay roll of seven million dollars, and, so the steel men say, every other steel company in the nation can expect immediate pressure to be exerted upon it for similar control of its employés.

Hamilton Field, Cal., Oct. 13 [Special].—Thompson submachine guns, known as "tommy guns" in gangster days, have been issued to United States army air force soldiers, to be used against parachute attacks on air bases in event of war. The guns are constructed to shoot 500 slugs a minute.

HIGHEST COURT REJECTS PLEA IN GOON CONVICTION

The United States Supreme court yesterday refused to review the conviction of Joseph Kopke and Harry Hlavacek, officials of local No. 638 of the Amalgamated Meat Cutters and Butcher Workmen of North America, who are now serving a 1 to 14 year prison term for the goon assault on a former union member.

Kopke and Hlavacek were found guilty a year and a half ago by a Criminal court jury of kicking and beating Czeslaw L. Mikolajczyk, a former union member who had obtained a job in a butcher shop as a porter and not as a butcher. Mikolajczyk, 51 years old, testified Kopke pointed a gun at him and then both men beat him until he "saw all the stars in heaven."

The conviction has been upheld by the Illinois Supreme court and last May the two men filed an unsuccessful plea for a pardon. Attorney William Scott Stewart, counsel for the union agents, indicated no further action would be taken until the cases of the two men automatically are called before a committee of the state pardon and paroles board after they have served 11 months of their prison sentence.

ELECTION BOARD SENDS OUT 300,000 SUSPECT NOTICES

John S. Rusch, chief clerk of the board of election commissioners, estimated yesterday that as a result of the canvass of election registers, made last Friday and Saturday, suspect notices have been sent to 300,000 persons. He said many of the notices could be attributed to changes of address. Rusch said the notices must be answered at the board office in the city hall not later than Oct. 21 in order that the persons who receive them may vote in the judicial election, Nov. 4.

Frank A. Fahrenwald, 11538 Longwood drive, president of the Fahralloy company in Harvey, was killed yesterday when his car was struck by a Rock Island railroad suburban train at 119th street and Vincennes avenue. He was on his way home from his foundry at the time. Police said that the crossing signals were working. Fahrenwald was a metallurgical engineer.

Floyd E. Boller, 38, of Reynolds, Ind., was pinned for 30 minutes in the cab of his truck when it overturned against a tree after leaving the South Chicago road on a curve near Glenwood. The tree smashed the cab down against Boller. County highway police from the Homewood station labored with crowbars, levers, jacks, and a block and tackle before he was released. Boller was taken to St. James hospital, Chicago Heights, where his condition was reported serious.

Seventy stitches were required last night to close head cuts incurred by Elbert Summers Jr., 30 years old, 633 Crofton avenue, Highland Park. Summers, who was divorced last December by Mrs. Carol Summers, daughter of the late Lawrence T. Baker, loop broker, was on his way to rejoin his regiment in Louisiana when his car skidded at Irving Park road and Monticello avenue and hit a parked car. He was taken to Highland Park hospital.

Frank Brown, 31 years old, 1749 West 58th street, a real estate salesman, was fatally injured yesterday when he drove his car against a viaduct abutment at 87th street and Kimbark avenue.

John Smith, 78 years old, 6717 Lafayette avenue, died in the County hospital of injuries suffered last Wednesday when he was run down by an automobile in front of 22 West Marquette road. The driver was John Loeperbeck, 27, of 4161 Wells street.

Graham Swanson, 43, colored, of 4800 Calumet avenue, died in the County hospital of injuries incurred Sunday at 49th street and Prairie avenue, where he was struck by a hit-run auto.

Up to 4 p. m. yesterday, 730 persons had been killed by automobiles in Cook county since Jan. 1. Of these, 505 were killed in Chicago, where 19,980 were injured during the same period.

HOD UNION FUNDS FROZEN BY COURT IN FRAUD INQUIRY

Leaders Manage to Make Last Minute Deposit.

St. Louis, Mo., Oct. 13.—Circuit Judge Joseph J. Ward today issued a series of orders freezing the bank accounts of local No. 42, International Hod Carriers, Building, and Common Laborers' union [AFL], to give police and prosecutors time to complete their investigation of the financial dealings of the local.

Shortly after the first order was read to officials of the Telegraphers' National bank, where the local's books show it to have $67,000 on deposit, representatives of the union appeared at the bank with a little black satchel, and endeavored to add an unspecified sum to this account. Bank officials demurred, but finally accepted the deposit, with the stipulation that the new deposit be kept separate from the regular union checking account.

High Officials in Group.

The group making the new deposit included Edward J. Hill, president of the local; Paul A. Hulahan, a business agent of the local; William Bartley, the local's attorney, and Theodore Mischwitz, identified as an international officer who had been designated to take over the local's affairs following Saturday's sensational developments.

On Saturday, Hill and Hulahan, together with Orville Golden, secretary-treasurer of the local, and Earl Jenkins, another business agent, were arrested on warrants charging embezzlement of union funds. They were released a short time later on bonds of $10,000 each.

Golden told Acting Circuit Attorney Henry G. Morris how the four had split $6,000 sequestered from the union treasury thru the simple act of charging $25 for admitting new members into the union, and entering only $15 of this fee on the union's books, the other $10 going into a safe deposit cache until they were able to cut the $6,000 melon.

Explaining a Shortage.

At the same time Golden tried to explain a $41,750 shortage in union cash assets by saying it had been taken by two well dressed men posing as agents of the United States internal revenue bureau.

Another of Judge Ward's orders was directed to the Lindell Trust company. It freezes any and all accounts of the union, and forbids access to safe deposit boxes. The union is reported to have $12,000 cash in a Lindell Trust company safe deposit box.

Still another order ties up the personal accounts of Hill, Jenkins, Hulahan, Golden, and Golden's wife, Mary. Mrs. Golden is understood to have withdrawn $500 from her personal savings account shortly before the new account was opened by union officials at the Telegraphers' National bank. This withdrawal reportedly left Mrs. Golden a balance of $12.

Revolt by Union Members.

A group of members of the union appeared before Acting Circuit Attorney Morris today to complain that three men outside the union membership exercise an undue influence on the affairs of the union. This group complained especially about the activities of Charles Barnett, who conducts a saloon on the street level of the building which houses the local's union rooms; another saloonist, and a former Cuckoo gangster.

The rebellious union members told Morris that Barnett's approval is all that any member needs to get immediate work; but without his approval a man may cool his heels for a long time between pay days. The complaint said that on one occasion, the former gangster arbitrarily compelled the union to give jobs to 20 men loafing in front of Barnett's saloon.

Incidentally, they told Morris, Barnett is reaping a harvest of dollars in his saloon, due to the large number of union members now working in the St. Louis industrial area.

Actress to Wed

TERESA WRIGHT.

Hollywood, Cal., Oct. 13 (AP).—Film Writer Niven Busch and Actress Teresa Wright said today they plan to marry after Busch's divorce from Phyllis Cooper of Pasedena becomes final in about a month. Miss Wright, who is 22 years old, met Busch about six months ago when she came here from New York to play her first movie rôle as the daughter of Bette Davis in "The Little Foxes."

SCIENTISTS SEE LAMPS TOO TINY TO SHOCK A BEE

Madison, Wis., Oct. 13 (AP).—Artificial lightning strokes so tiny they might shock a fly but would not kill a bee now are harnessed to use in dim electric lights. They could be used in a blackout, indoors, without pulling down the window shades.

These lamps were shown to the National Academy of Sciences here today by Dr. Zay Jeffries, technical director of the lamp department of the General Electric company, Cleveland.

The light is only about one-six hundredths of a candle power. Going up the scale in brightness, Jeffries said, lamps built on the lightning stroke principle now regularly give 10,000,000 times more light than these small ones. One in Holland gives 60,000,000 times more light. Some of these lamps have surpassed the surface brightness of the sun.

In the bee-power lightning the strokes pass thru a very rarified atmosphere of neon and argon. The electric flow causes these gases to glow. The little lamps are the size of the end of a man's thumb.

They have many practical uses as indicators in the dark for theater seats, location of electric light switches, and exits.

WOMEN'S GROUPS PLEDGE TO ASSIST ARMS EFFORTS

Washington, D. C., Oct. 13 [Special.]—Coöperation with the nation's armament effort was pledged here today by the organized women of the country whose leaders in a conference welcomed and addressed by Mrs. Franklin Roosevelt and Gen. George C. Marshall, chief of staff of the army, constituted themsleves an advisory council of the women's interests section of the war department's bureau of public relations.

Thirty-one national organizations with 10,000,000 members were represented by their presidents or other officers at the conference which opened this morning at the war department and ended late today at a tea given for them by Mrs. Roosevelt in the White House.

Brig. Gen. Frederick H. Osborn, chief of the morale branch of the army, Brig. Gen. A. D. Surles, public relations chief, and Mrs. William P. Hobby of Texas, chief of the women's interests section at whose joint invitation the conferees met, and Mrs. Dwight F. Davis, national director of the volunteer services of the American Red Cross, were among the speakers.

SUPREME COURT WEIGHS 2 ISSUES OF FREE SPEECH

Hears Appeals of Paper and of Bridges.

Washington, D. C., Oct. 13 (AP).—The Supreme court heard nearly four hours of argument today on the right of newspapers or individuals to publish comment on court proceedings prior to the rendition of final judgment.

The Los Angeles Times and Harry Bridges, west coast CIO leader, both argued the right of free expression in separate cases growing out of contempt convictions in the Supreme court of Los Angeles county.

Convictions against the Times and L. D. Hotchkiss, its managing editor, grew out of editorial comments on cases in which guilty verdicts had been rendered, but prior to court action on either new trial motions or applications for probation. One of the editorials expressed belief that a judge would make a serious mistake if he granted probation to two men convicted of assault in a labor case.

Bridges was convicted for sending a telegram to Secretary of Labor Perkins terming an injunction against CIO men in a labor dispute "outrageous" and saying it might lead to a longshoremen's strike which might blanket the entire coast.

"Pendency" Becomes Issue.

The black robed justices directed attorneys to lay stress on what constituted "pendency" in a court proceeding and the question of the possible, as well as the actual effect, of the editorials and the telegrams.

T. B. Cosgrove, attorney for the Times, was in the midst of his argument when the court recessed for the day.

Cosgrove protested a California Supreme court ruling. He said the court had taken the position that a simple showing that an editorial is capable of being considered an obstruction to the administration of justice is sufficient to hold it contemptuous.

Cosgrove also argued that a new trial motion or an application for probation, made after a jury has rendered its verdict, "is in no sense a part of the trial."

Tells Bridges' Argument.

Osmond K. Fraenkel, counsel for Bridges, contended his telegram to Secretary Perkins was made in an effort to obtain a solution to the labor dispute and was not directed to the judge who issued the injunction.

Allen W. Ashburn of counsel for the California courts replied that Bridges was not in contempt for sending the telegram, but for offering it to the press for publication.

The telegram, he declared, was not only a criticism of the issuance of an injunction to one group, but it was a "threat that the ports of the entire Pacific coast" would be tied up if the ruling stood. Such a telegram, he said, confronted the judge with a threat of a strike "unless you change your decision."

Counsel for both the Times and Bridges argued that there was no attempt in either case to influence the action of the courts and that a contempt conviction should be based on more than "a reasonable tendency" to influence. Moreover, they disputed the state's showing of a "reasonable tendency."

SMETONA SPEAKS AT LITHUANIAN RELIEF DINNER

Antanas Smetona, president of the Republic of Lithuania, spoke last night in the Palmer House at a Lithuanian National Relief Fund dinner attended by Mayor Kelly. Circuit Judge Harry M. Fisher, a member of the fund's honorary committee, which is headed by Wendell L. Willkie, presided. President Smetona spoke on "Lithuania and the Changing European Trends." He said that, altho aid for the people of Lithuania is the most urgent problem, the fight for Lithuanian independence will continue.

"The recent Roosevelt-Churchill declaration," he continued, "based on President Wilson's principles, has given added courage and reassurance to small nations. The principles of that declaration suggest the creation of a world wide political instrumentality to reconcile the relations of large and small nations and to foster and preserve peace.

"While we all hope for an early end to the war, so that peace may follow and normal world wide cooperation may be resumed, such hopes cannot be automatically fulfilled. Willingly or unwillingly, all must take an active part in the restoration of world order. Those who desire freedom must stand with those who fight to preserve freedom."

German Jailed for Letting Weeds Grow on His Farm

BERLIN, Oct. 13 (AP).—A farmer of Bad Wilsnack, northwest of Berlin, was sentenced today to three weeks in jail for letting weeds grow in his 18 acre field. The court said the ground might as well have been occupied by the enemy as far as benefits to the German people were concerned.

REDS SURRENDER CITY ON MOSCOW FRONT TO NAZIS

Quit Vyazma After Days of Fierce Fighting.

MOSCOW, Oct. 14 [Tuesday] (AP).—The Russians announced early today the retreat of Red forces from Vyazma, key rail junction 125 miles west of Moscow, but front-line dispatches said a steady flow of veteran reënforcements had slowed, altho not yet stopped, the German onslaught against the soviet capital.

A soviet information bureau communique said Red forces withdrew from Vyazma "after many days of fierce fighting, in which the enemy sustained tremendous losses in man power and armament."

[The Germans said several days ago that Vyazma was the center of an encirclement battle.]

This town of 17,000 population at the confluence of the Berba and Vyazma rivers was the second hitherto strong point of Russian assistance whose abandonment the Russians have announced in two days. A withdrawal from Bryansk, 220 miles southwest of Moscow, was announced yesterday.

Massive Fighting Rages.

Fighting of massive proportions still is raging along the whole front, today's official announcement said, with especially bitter conflict continuing in the Vyazma and Bryansk areas.

One town near Bryansk was reported won back by the Russians as well as gains by counterattacks north of Orel, 200 miles south of Moscow.

The government newspaper Pravda, reporting a stiffening defense against the Nazi onset, said the Moscow front appeared to be stabilizing altho the Germans, too, were pouring in reenforcements.

[The Moscow radio in a broadcast heard in America reported that Russian marines made a successful landing from warships in the rear of German troops besieging Leningrad. The broadcast said strong attacks and counterattacks were raging on that northern front.]

Issued Winter Overcoats.

In far-ranging aerial warfare the Russians reported the destruction of 122 German planes on Saturday against 27 soviet losses.

Pravda described the fresh Russian reinforcements at the approaches to Moscow as battle-seasoned veterans returning to the fighting lines rested and well-equipped.

Their equipment was said to include warm winter uniforms, long grey overcoats and fur hats as protection from the snow and cold already setting in along the front.

[An authoritative source in London said that in the north the German siege army apparently had settled down to an effort to starve out Leningrad. In the south, he said, German advance units might have penetrated as far along the north shore of the Sea of Azov at Taganrog, 45 miles from Rostov-on-Don.]

Germans Claim Gains on Eastern Front

Captions indicate developments in German attack on Russia along the entire eastern front. The Nazis announced particular success in efforts to take Leningrad and Moscow.

MYSTERY VOICE HECKLES BRITISH, CANADIAN RADIOS

LONDON, Oct. 13 (AP).—An axis counterpart of Russia's "Ivan the Terrible," the crackling kibitzer on German broadcasts, broke in on British and Canadian broadcasts today with some intelligible and at times incoherent heckling.

"Why the hell should we go without milk because the bolshies want milk," said the phantom voice during one interruption. This comment apparently was aimed at the food ministry's milk distribution scheme, effective today.

"We want a national government, not an American government or a Jewish government or a government of the press," it said during another break-in.

While a Canadian Broadcasting corporation news period for Canadian overseas forces was in progress an interloper interrupted and asked: "What's America going to get out of this?"

A BCC statement said the interruptions, first experienced by the British and Canadians since the war's start, "presumably are of enemy origin."

BRITISH DOWN 20 PLANES IN A MASS RAID ON GERMANS

LONDON, Oct. 13 (AP).—The RAF struck in massed force against German objectives along the continental coast today and tonight and announced the shooting down of 20 planes in aerial dogfights.

Cross-channel objectives at Dunkirk, Cape Gris Nez, and Boulogne appeared to be the targets. In one attack, the air ministry said, a lone plane flying mast high scored two direct bomb hits on a 1,000 or 1,500 ton German warship in Hjelte fjord on the Norwegian coast and then "knocked out" the vessel.

Three hundred British planes attacked Nuremberg Sunday night, setting many fires, the air ministry said. Bremen and Bolougne also were raided. The British acknowledged the loss of 11 night bombers.

28 Planes Downed: Nazis.

BERLIN, Oct. 13 (AP).—Authorized sources reported 28 British planes were shot down today in an outbreak of unusually heavy air fighting over the English channel. The German high command announced that Moscow was raided and Manchester and Hull, England, were bombed by German planes Sunday night.

Important Message to Folks Who Have HEAD COLDS

If head is stuffed up, eyes watery, nose running or so clogged you can hardly breathe—just try a few drops of Vicks Va-tro-nol up each nostril. Then enjoy the grand relief it brings.

Va-tro-nol is so effective because it does three very important things. It (1) shrinks swollen membranes, (2) soothes irritation, (3) helps clear cold-clogged nasal passages . . . and thus brings relief!

3-PURPOSE MEDICINE

If a Cold Threatens, use Va-tro-nol at first sniffle or sneeze. Helps prevent many colds from developing. Follow directions in folder.

CLAIM GERMANS TAKE CLOTHING FROM RUSSIANS

MOSCOW, Oct. 13 (AP).—A frontline dispatch today to the army newspaper Red Star said the German command at Nazi-occupied Orel, 220 miles south of Moscow, had ordered the inhabitants to hand over all warm clothing to the German army.

Two residents who escaped from Orel were quoted as saying that snow was falling there and that the Germans, dressed in light uniforms, were greatly affected by the cold.

The Red Star account said special detachments of Nazi storm troopers were going from house to house collecting winter clothes by force.

SOUTH SIDE HOLDUPS SOLVED.

With the arrest of James L. Harrison, 27 years old, 5706 South Park way, a Negro, Hyde Park police announced yesterday the solution of a dozen south side holdups which, they said, netted him a total of $200.

STARVING HORDES ROAM LENINGRAD, REFUGEES REVEAL

Tell of Crowded Housing in Freezing City.

BY DONALD DAY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

HELSINGFORS, Finland, Oct. 13.—Here is a story of Leningrad, once St. Petersburg and proud capital of the czars of Russia, as told today by refugees who reached the Finnish lines.

Three inches of snow, crushed into ice by the feet of thousands of persons in search of food and warmth, now cover the city where one of its earliest winters has set in. The temperature already has dropped to 16 degrees above zero Fahrenheit. Patches of thin ice are floating down the Neva river into Navo bay.

In the forests northwest of Leningrad, close to the Red army fortifications, a city of hovels constructed of branches patched with moss is inhabited by more than 250,000 persons. They are starving and freezing to death. They are the peasants and workers from towns and villages in the Leningrad province who were ordered by the communist authorities to move into the city when the German armies advanced and surrounded Leningrad.

Live in Congested Quarters.

The inhabitants of Leningrad are living in more congested quarters than ever before. Each morning motor trucks assemble in the principal squares and streets to carry men and women to the suburbs where they dig trenches and tank traps and build bunkers [field forts]

First the inhabitants of Leningrad helped the Red army construct a line of fortifications on a 25 mile radius around the city, then a 15 mile line, then a 10 mile line. They still are digging, close to the suburbs and in the suburbs themselves. The Germans have penetrated the 10 mile line.

But the earth is frozen and the diggers are weak. For lunch they receive a plate of salty fish soup and a half pound piece of bread. When they go home at night they generally have to go to bed hungry. The few state food shops remaining open cater only to the more privileged workers. The bulk of the population is starving.

Old Source of Food Fails.

Today Leningrad's misery is greater than it was during the first three famine winters following the revolution. Then the so-called "sackmen," traders went out into the countryside and bartered all kinds of goods with the peasants. The food they brought back to the city in sacks and peddled did much to help supply those who could buy food. At that time the trains were filled with sackmen. Today, with Leningrad surrounded, there are no sackmen.

In Leningrad streets and parks great loudspeakers thunder orations of communist leaders calling upon the citizens to defend the city to the last drop of their blood. They promise that aid is coming from Moscow, from Vologda, from Archangel, and from Murmansk, but this aid never arrives. The people are not told Leningrad is surrounded.

In the Leningrad market fabulous prices are paid for pieces of bread—dark brown, 5 inches long, 3 inches wide, and 2½ inches thick. Two of these are included in the daily rations of Red army soldiers. Every soviet soldier carries in his haversack as much of this bread as he can hoard.

Forbid Public Gathering.

The number of fallen grows with each day and the contents of the haversacks are sold in Leningrad's five great markets. It is an illicit and prosecuted trade. A fortnight ago a day's wage of a skilled mechanic was the price of one of these pieces of bread. Today two days' pay is needed.

Public gatherings are forbidden. Public order is being maintained by special troops of the GPU [secret police] army.

The city has been bombed repeatedly with high explosive and incendiary missiles, and also with tons of leaflets calling upon the Russians to do away with their terrorist communist government and surrender.

Refugees say the response has been negligible. The few spontaneous demonstrations were not dispersed but were surrounded and the participants herded into a truck. They disappeared. None of them was heard from again.

REPORT BRITISH OVERSEAS CORPS AT ARCHANGEL

The Stockholm [Sweden] newspaper Aftonbladet yesterday published a Helsingfors dispatch saying it was rumored "in well informed circles" there that a British expeditionary corps had been for some time at Archangel, Russia's arctic port.

This report was received with considerable skepticism in Stockholm and in London authoritative quarters declined to comment.

The Aftonbladet dispatch said the alleged British force numbered "some thousands of men" and added it had remained inactive for some time at Archangel, which is on the White sea about 600 miles northeast of Moscow.

GERMANS REVEAL ONE PEACE TERM: OUST CHURCHILL!

'Victory First' Is Berlin Reply to Truce Gossip.

BERLIN, Oct. 13 (AP). — "Victory first" remains the authorized German answer to foreign gossip that Germany is war weary and is putting out peace feelers.

"Only after arms have spoken and [prime minister] Churchill and [foreign secretary] Eden have been removed by the English people themselves will the time have come for peace feelers—but they won't be German feelers, they will be solely and exclusively English," said authorized quarters.

"Weapons Speak First."

They recalled that Adolf Hitler has declared a clear military decision must be obtained against England, and added, "The time to talk peace comes after weapons have spoken."

Reports abroad of German armistice offers were dismissed as efforts of the reich's enemies to encourage their own peoples in the face of Germany's victories in Russia.

Calls Declaration "Sharp."

Aside from the removal of Churchill, Eden, and their British associates from their posts, no condition for peace was specifically indicated.

"The German declaration is remarkable 'or its sharpness and categorical character," said Dienst aus Deutschland, authoritative German commentary. "In Berlin it is believed the declaration disposed of rumors which try to set aside the hard realities of the German-English war."

MOBILE SQUADS TO TRAIN BRITISH WOMEN WORKERS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Oct. 13.—In the drive to speed up arms production, mobile squads of engineers will be moved around the country in special trains, it was reported tonight. The trains will be equipped with dining cars, and the workers will live in railway coaches.

The mobile squads will act as instructors and train girl workers. When their job is done in one place, they will be sent elsewhere.

The minister of labor announced that the calling up of women will be accelerated to twice the present rate to keep pace with great expansion in the women's services and industry.

BRITISH MAKE PLANS TO MEET A HARD WINTER

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Oct. 13.—There were signs today that Britain is preparing for a long, hard winter. Voluntary workers in many British areas have been making a house to house canvass to find out how many people have made plans for temporary accommodations in case they are bombed out of their homes.

The canvassers are acting as friendly advisers and giving householders practical advice. Under the mutual help scheme, the government pays a lodging allowance of five shillings [one dollar] weekly for a fortnight. The minister of health has issued a special colored poster urging that the public make arrangements to live with friends or relatives in case of necessity. "Fix things up now," he urges.

Civil servants have been notified of the economy measures officials must take to save coal and gas during the winter. Open fires are to be lighted only when the temperature of rooms drops below 60 degrees. Gas stoves must not be used where open fires are provided.

Hot water for washing hands will be cut off altogether except in buildings where night staffs are sleeping or doing firewatching or other Air Raid Precautions duties. For these, hot water will be available only between 7 and 9 a. m. Evacuated women in civil service only will be allowed hot water for laundry during specified hours.

TRENCH COLLAPSES; WORKMAN SAVED.

Michael Gaughan, 43 years old, 1515 Granville avenue, was rescued by firemen and fellow workmen yesterday when he was buried up to his shoulders in wet clay after a trench collapsed near Jefferson and Polk streets, where a sewer is being constructed.

NAZIS EXECUTE 8 IN PRAGUE AS STATE ENEMIES

3 Are Hanged and 5 Face Firing Squads.

BERLIN, Oct. 13 (AP).—Eight persons were executed at Prague today following their conviction on charges of activities hostile to the state or injurious to the population, DNB, official German news agency, reported tonight in a dispatch from the capital of the protectorate of Bohemia-Moravia [former Czecho-Slovakia]. Three were hanged and five were shot. Hanging in most cases is prescribed for putting Jews to death.

Earlier a newspaper dispatch said that eight butchers and a merchant in Bohemia-Moravia had been sentenced to death for illegally slaughtering live stock and selling foodstuffs on the black [illegal] market at excessive prices.

1 Killed in Bombing.

ZAGREB, Croatia, Oct. 13 (AP).—One person was killed and two were arrested today as police nipped what they called a communist effort to bomb the postoffice at Koprivnica near the Hungarian border.

Shot by Firing Squad.

PARIS, France, Oct. 13 (AP).—Jean Labragere of Angouleme was shot today by a German firing squad, the 76th Frenchman executed in German occupied France. He was convicted of unlawful possession of arms.

11 Reds Sentenced.

VICHY, France, Oct. 13 (AP).—Nine men and two women were convicted by the military court at Clermont-Ferrand today of distributing communist propaganda and attemping to reorganize the communist party. They were given sentences ranging from one to five years.

Four youths, revolvers in hand, attacked a munitions depot in a Paris suburb and made off with 110 pounds of dynamite, the French information bureau in Paris announced.

SEIZED AFTER WINDOW SMASHING.

Robert Davis, 41 years old, a Negro, of 3813 State street, who told police he is an ex-convict, was arrested early yesterday by Policeman Joseph Steinberg of the Central station on suspicion of having thrown a brick thru a display window in the Sears Roebuck & Co. store at Van Buren and State street.

AIR CRASH KILLS DUTCH E. INDIES ARMY CHIEFTAIN

BATAVIA, Netherlands East Indies, Oct. 13 (AP).—Gen. G. J. Berenschot, 54 years old, commander in chief of the Netherlands East Indies army, was killed in a plane crash today shortly after a conference with Britain's commander in chief for the far east on joint defense measures.

Gen. G. J. Berenschot.

Four other occupants of the plane and five native children were killed as the plane landed on a native hut and burned.

Berenschot had just taken off from the Kenajoran airport on the outskirts of Batavia in an army Lockheed Lodestar plane after talking with Air Chief Marshal Sir Robert Brooke-Popham, commanding British forces in the orient, who stopped in Batavia for a conference while en route from Singapore to Australia.

HEAR BULGARIA AGAIN MASSES ARMY FOR WAR

ANKARA, Turkey, Oct. 13.—Reports received by foreign diplomatic circles here tonight indicated that Bulgaria, after staving off German demands that it enter the war against Russia for more than two weeks, again is slipping toward hostilities. While the official Bulgarian news agency published a flat denial of reports that general mobilization has been ordered, dispatches to foreign military intelligence sources here were said to bear out original reports—that mobilization has been intensified thruout Bulgaria.

CATHOLIC CLERGY EXILED BY REDS, SAYS LITH PRIEST

New York, Oct. 13 [Special].—Roman Catholic monasteries and seminaries in Lithuania were closed and many priests were exiled to Siberia soon after the soviet Russian invasion of Lithuania, the Rev. Charles Jecyc, a Catholic priest from Lithuania, said today on his arrival on the Spanish liner Magellanes.

While nominal religious freedom supposedly was permitted, Father Jecyc said in telling of the Reds' attitude toward religion, priests and many others "finally wound up in Siberia" or became refugees in Germany "because they incurred the displeasure of the bolsheviks."

Censorship Put on Sermons.

He said the Catholic churches in Lithuania were permitted to remain open at least two months after the soviet occupation, but sermons were censored and church property was taxed heavily.

"There was a priest in every one of the 2,000 churches of the country after the occupation, and he could preach, provided he did not preach anti-bolshevik sermons," Father Jecyc said.

"The priests, however, could not call upon their parishioners regularly, as they previously had done. When the seminaries and the monasteries were closed orders also were issued forbidding the printing of church papers and prayer books."

Priest in France Seven Months.

Father Jecyc said he left devoutly Catholic Lithuania two months after the soviet occupation. He spent six months in Germany and seven months in France before coming to this country.

He said he would teach history at Marinopolis college, a Lithuanian Roman Catholic institution in Thompson, Conn.

FRENCH PROTEST BRITISH ATTACK ON ITALIAN PLANE

VICHY, France, Oct. 13 (AP).—The French tonight announced that the governor of French Somaliland had protested to the British East African commander, Sir Allan Cunningham, against an air attack on an Italian plane at Djibouti airport. Authorized quarters in Vichy said the plane was clearly marked with a red cross.

The attack was made Oct. 5 just after the plane arrived from Gondar, where a small force of Italians is besieged in northern Ethiopia. Passengers, including three wounded and a child, had left the airport, but the plane and its mail were destroyed, the French said.

[The British said the attack was in pursuit of their policy of attacking axis forces wherever they are found.]

PREDICTS RUSSIA WILL FIGHT ON IF IT GETS THE TOOLS

Harriman Pays Tribute to Dictator Stalin.

LONDON, Oct. 14 [Tuesday] (AP).—W. Averell Harriman, lend-lease coordinator, today declared "Russia has the manpower—what is needed is more tools" as the call grew more persistent in some London quarters for more direct action on behalf of the embattled soviet union.

Harriman, who headed the American delegation to the Moscow conference on aid to Russia, said in a broadcast to the United States:

"I don't know where the front is tonight, we don't know where it will be tomorrow but I am convinced that, given the tools, Russia will fight on.

"The British are loading ships today, tomorrow—things that are vitally needed are on their way. The same is true in America. Time is everything. Britain and America are responding."

Pays Tribute to Stalin.

Harriman paid tribute to Russian leaders in general and Premier Stalin in particular, saying "no man can work more quickly or with greater intensity.

"Our American airmen have been working with the Russians for the past months, showing them how to fly and maintain American aircraft," he said.

"They all reported the same thing: The Russian has become a first class mechanic in the last generation. Russia has learned to use the machine. We need have no fear of what will happen to American equipment, our airplanes and our tanks, that we send them; the Russians know how to care for them and will use them efficiently."

Calls Stalin "Satisfied."

Harriman said that before he left Moscow he knew that Stalin was satisfied Britain and the United States were coming thru with the help he wanted.

"He had his answer," the American official asserted. "We had been able to assure him that substantially all that he had asked for would be available from our two countries."

Informed quarters suggested that Britain might put her forces into a land campaign against the axis in Italy, North Africa, or perhaps the Russian Caucasus in an effort to assist the soviet union.

See Indian Troops in War.

Some saw in the recent conferences in London of Gen. Sir Archibald P. Wavell, British commander in chief in India, basis for beliefs that Indian troops might soon join the Red army, at least in defense of the Caucasus.

Noting reports of increased activity in North Africa and the recent bomb and propaganda moves to chisel Italy away from Germany, some observers conjectured that these might be followed up by renewed offensives in Africa and perhaps even attempts to land on Sicily or Italy proper.

GREENLAND RAID MADE BY COAST GUARD VESSEL

Washington, D. C., Oct. 13 (AP).—The navy disclosed today that the seizure last month of the German operated radio station in Greenland and its Norwegian supply ship was made by a coast guard vessel, which was a part of the navy's patrol of Greenland waters.

The Norwegian vessel was not armed, nor was resistance put up by either its crew or the personnel manning the radio station ashore, the navy said.

The score or more persons seized will face separate inquiries and their cases decided upon individually, the navy said. The personnel and the supply ship are en route to the United States. Three men, one described as a German gestapo [secret police] agent were seized ashore and the rest aboard the Norwegian vessel, a 60 ton craft.

Report British Ship Sunk with Loss of 172 Lives

OPORTO, Portugal, Oct. 13 (AP).—The British colony here tonight heard reports that the British steamer Avoceta, which sailed for London last week, had been sunk with loss of all her 94 passengers and crew of 78. [No other details were given in this dispatch which was relayed via London. The 3,442 ton Avoceta had survived previous battles with both planes and submarines.]

Activity in Africa

Captions indicate developments in the fighting between British and axis forces in Africa.

FIGHTING FLARES OVER WIDE AREA OF LIBYAN DESERT

CAIRO, Egypt, Oct. 13 (AP).—Unusual activity over a wide area of Libya was reported by the British middle east command today, with British and axis forces making frequent thrusts involving artillery, tanks, and mechanized units.

Tobruk, where the British have been besieged for more than six months, was a center of action over the week-end. British infantry patrols, supported by tanks, compelled axis forces to withdraw from a recently-captured observation post, the British communique said.

An RAF bulletin said the harbors at Tripoli and Bengazi were bombed again over the week-end and fires were started in an attack on Bardia. Four fighting planes were reported missing from patrol activities yesterday in which four German planes were said to have been destroyed.

Claim British Driven Off.

ROME, Oct. 13 (AP).—The Italian high command announced today that British forces at Tobruk had renewed assaults on Italian positions outside that besieged Libyan port but had been driven back by heavy Italian fire.

Both Italian and German planes meanwhile made another of their daily attacks on the fortress and also blasted the British railhead of Matruh in the Egyptian desert, it said. In Ethiopia, Italian scouting forces in the Gondar region were reported to have routed British advance elements.

U. S. IS RUSHING GOODS TO RUSSIA, SAYS ROOSEVELT

Seeks to Buck Up Reds After Nazi Gains.

BY JOHN FISHER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Oct. 13.—President Roosevelt today issued a statement declaring that a constant stream of supplies is flowing to Russia and that "everything possible is being done to send material to Russia to help the brave defense which continues to be made."

Apparently alarmed over the precarious position of the Red armies before the steady advance of Nazi forces toward Moscow, Mr. Roosevelt issued the statement in what was believed to be an attempt to bolster soviet morale.

Fails to Disclose Figures.

The President said a large amount of supplies had been shipped within the last few days and that all aid promised to the Reds during October will be delivered before the month ends.

He did not disclose the amounts of materials to be sent, that have been sent, or the routes by which they will be delivered, altho transportation is difficult, with the regular routes closed or poorly equipped for handling any appreciable traffic.

The three paragraph statement from Mr. Roosevelt, as released by the White House, follows:

"The President announced today that within the past few days large amounts of supplies have been sent to Russia. He further stated that all of the munitions, including tanks, airplanes, and trucks, promised at the Moscow conference for delivery in October, will be sent to Russia before the end of the month.

Leaving Ports Constantly.

"These supplies are leaving United States ports constantly.

"The staffs in the army and the maritime commission have worked over the past weekend rushing supplies to the seaboard, and everything possible is being done to send material to Russia to help the brave defense which continues to be made."

The reference to the Moscow conference was to the promises of aid given Josef Stalin by W. Averell Harriman, head of the American mission, and Lord Beaverbrook, head of the British delegation, sent to Moscow for information on soviet needs.

Beaverbrook said yesterday he and Harriman had agreed to supply "practically everything" the Russians requested. Beaverbrook also said all of the tanks and planes promised Stalin for October have been provided.

Mrs. William Herschlay, 4110 North Sacramento avenue, looked out of her front window last week and stared. The white lilac bush which has stood in her front yard for 25 years and which covers itself with blossoms every spring was dotted with bursting buds for the second time this year. Yesterday the bush boasted 12 blossoms and several buds.

BRITISH APPEAL TO REDS TO KEEP RESISTING NAZIS

New York, Oct. 13 (AP).—The British Broadcasting corporation directed a special program to Moscow tonight comparing that city's danger with the German air assault which London endured last year.

Moscow was urged to "take heart" and know every worker here is laboring now on your account to send new weapons on your front, and every fighter here clamors for the day when he can take his place beside you."

Addressing his hearers as "comrades of Moscow, capital of Russia," the British announcer said:

"This night you have the honor to stand in the path of the Nazi war lords as one year ago the citizens of London stood. We read with pride your determination to resist this archenemy of the world. We hear with joy of the great and resolute preparation you have made to meet the assault, the last assault, says Hitler, before the Nazis conquer Russia."

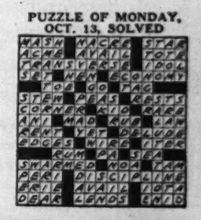
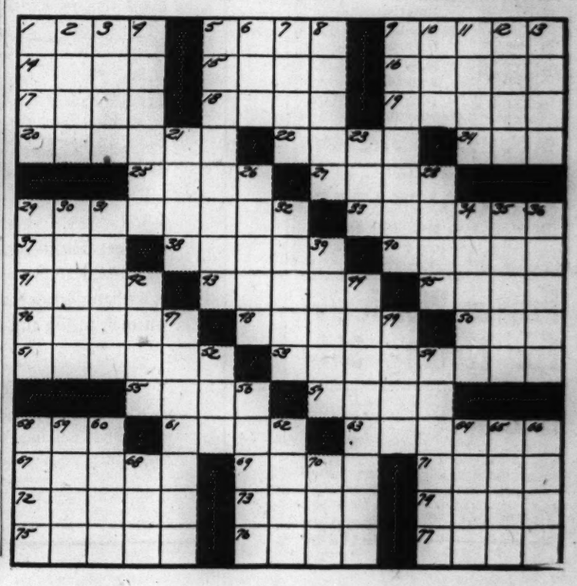
PUZZLE OF MONDAY, OCT. 13, SOLVED





Better than a dozen hankies
for opening STUFFY NOSTRILS

What's the use of soiling so many hankies, trying to blow mucus out of stopped-up nostrils? It only piles up the laundry bill. And remember, a lot of violent blowing only makes your nose more sore, red, unsightly, and it very often injures the delicate membranes.

A more economical and gentler way to relieve congestion in your nostrils due to a cold is to insert a little Mentholatum. This delightful ointment will soon break up congested mucus, relieve the smothery feeling, and permit you to breathe normally through the nose. It also relieves sniffling, sneezing, swelling, soreness, and redness.

Mentholatum helps in so many ways that you should always remember this: For cold discomforts—Mentholatum. Link them together in your mind. Jars, tubes 30c.

WINDSOR PUMPS HANDS OF 800 AT BALTIMORE TEA

Thousands Line Streets to Cheer Duchess.

Baltimore, Md., Oct. 13 (AP).—A quarter of Baltimore's million residents poured out today to cheer the duke and duchess of Windsor and, just incidentally, give the former Baltimore girl and her royal husband the once over.

Amid the most rousing turnout in city history, the Windsors drove from a city hall welcome to a reception at the Baltimore country club. The police, 550 of them on special detail, at times had difficulty clearing a path for a six car cavalcade.

It was to a chorus of "O's" and "Ahs" that the royal guests proceeded. Some of the thousands who lined the streets caught a glimpse, then dashed ahead for another romantic peek.

The Duke Shakes Hands.

At the spacious club, the committee in charge had suggested the 800 invited guests bow to the couple on the reception line. The duke had other ideas: He grabbed the hand of each and pumped vigorously.

To a woman wearing a British pin, the duchess smiled, "I'm glad to see you wearing that pin." A former school teacher of the duchess held up the fast-moving line to kiss her famous pupil.

At city hall, the mayor, referring to the war, in his official welcome, said, "until the day of victory comes, and come it must, and always after that, we hope both of you will continue to regard Baltimore as another home, where you will always find peace and happiness."

Thanks to Ameroca.

The duke declared that "our visit means for the duchess a reunion with her family and for me, an introduction into their home circle."

He called it "a brief but pleasant interlude in the dark days thru which the world is passing," and concluded:

"I wish to assure you of the deep gratitude and appreciation that is felt by my country for all the moral and material support that America is giving to Great Britain and of which your efforts in Baltimore are so typical."

The Windsors attended an informal dinner tonight. Tomorrow they will rest.

'DEACON' SHEA, POLICEMAN 35 YEARS, TO RETIRE

Sergt. William M. Shea, who has been known to fellow policemen as "the Deacon" for 35 years, will retire Thursday when he reaches the age of 63 years. His grave manner, faithful attendance at wakes, and his patience in listening to the troubles of others won him the name. His appearance is deceptive, however, as is shown by his long record of bravery citations. The sergeant's friends will give a banquet in tribute to him in the Midwest Athletic club, 6 North Hamlin avenue, Thursday night. Sergt. Shea began his police work at the Austin station in 1906 and was made a sergeant in 1913. Nine years ago he was assigned to the West North avenue station. He lives at 1233 Granville avenue with his wife and daughter.

Admits Shooting Pheasant; Fined $100 on 2 Charges

Harold Busse, 26 years old, 1534 George street, a photoengraver, paid a $100 fine Sunday after pleading guilty before Justice of the Peace William B. Cochrane in Fox Lake to charges of illegally shooting a pheasant and of possessing a rifle illegally equipped with a silencer. Busse, Justice Cochrane said, admitted that the offense was not his first. He was arrested Sunday in front of his home and the bird was found in his car. The arrest was made by Frank Chitty of the state conservation department after Busse's license number was taken by some one who saw him shoot the pheasant.

TWO WOMEN GO ON TRIAL TODAY IN ABORTION CASE

Mrs. Ada Martin, accused of heading a loop abortion ring, will go on trial today with another woman before Judge John F. Haas in Criminal court on a charge of conspiracy to commit abortions. The co-defendant is Mrs. Josephine Kuder.

The abortion ring investigation has resulted in a murder, two suicides, and the dismissal of two assistant state's attorneys. Policeman Daniel Moriarity, formerly of the state's attorney's staff, shot and killed Mrs. Martin's daughter, Ada Jane, on April 29 in the belief she was Mrs. Martin, whom he had feared was about to expose him as the ring's fixer, he testified. Moriarity is serving a life term.

Most of today's hearing is expected to be taken up with a defense motion to suppress the evidence. W. W. Smith, defense attorney, said yesterday he will call in the police raiding squad which seized Mrs. Martin's records to prove they had no search warrant.

BRITISH WARSHIP CAPTAIN HERE ON WAY TO CAPITAL

Capt. Douglas Blake Fisher, a tall, mild mannered man who commanded the 30,000 ton British battleship Warspite in two famous engagements, stopped in Chicago yesterday on his way to Washington, D. C., from the navy yard in Bremerton, Wash., where the vessel has been undergoing repairs since Aug. 11.

Capt. Douglas Fisher. [AP Wirephoto.]

In Washington he will confer with the leader of the British naval mission, Vice Adm. Wilfred French. At 50 years of age, Capt. Fisher has seen 35 years' service in the British navy. Two sons are in the war, one as a pilot in the fleet air arm and the other as a lieutenant in the marines.

Capt. Fisher told how the Warspite destroyed two Italian cruisers and a destroyer last March. Two months later his ship was severely damaged by German bombers in the battle of Crete.

Electric Cooking leaves no soot on walls... no smudge on pans

- Sometimes we take things too much for granted... like having to spend more hours cleaning the kitchen than other rooms.

But modern housewives are learning that with electric range cooking, kitchens stay clean much longer. Because electric heat (like electric light) leaves no ugly black deposit on walls and curtains.

Just think of it!...with clean electric cooking, you can have shiny pots and pans without scouring—wash them right along with the dishes! As for the range itself—it's as easy to clean as the porcelain top of a work table. Just wipe with a damp cloth—and that's that!

Come in now and see the wide variety of electric ranges. You'll find there's a price that fits your budget.

The average electricity cost for electric range cooking in Chicago homes is only $2.11 a month.

LEARNS BRITISH EXPECT AEF OF 3 MILLION MEN

Wheeler Bares Plans to Use U. S. Troops.

BY WILLIAM STRAND.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Oct. 13.—Sen. Burton K. Wheeler [D., Mont.] charged today that the United States is expected by Great Britain to supply 3,000,000 men as an expeditionary force to carry on the war against Nazi Germany. He said the information was given him by a Britisher with whom he talked privately during his recent speaking tour in the west.

Refusing to name his informant, the senator asserted that it is now plain that when Winston Churchill, British prime minister, asked this country for the "tools" with which to finish the war he meant men as well as materials.

British Block Freedom of Seas.

As for the administration's attempts to build up enthusiasm in this country for maintaining the freedom of the seas, Wheeler said that the chief opponents of freeing the seas have always been the British.

He quoted Lloyd George, British prime minister during the World war, as telling Col. Edward M. House before the Versailles peace conference that the British people would "spend their last guinea" to maintain a bigger navy than the United States or any other power and would never stand for freedom of the seas for others beside themselves.

The senator promised a full dress debate in the senate on the administration's proposal to arm mechant ships and send them into the war zones. Every one knows, he asserted, that it is no protection for a ship to arm it with "popguns" and actually increases the danger from submarine attack.

Returns from Speaking Tour.

Asked whether he thought attempts will be made in the senate to forestall the legislation thru a filibuster, Wheeler said he had never taken part in such a maneuver and is merely interested in seeing that there is "full discussion, as there ought to be in the house."

Today's interview was Wheeler's first since returning to the capital from the six weeks' speaking tour. He said that he found that the bulk of the American people are still as determined to keep out of war as ever, despite a growing bitterness on the part of war mongers toward administration opponents.

The response to his speeches in crowds and applause was greater than on a similar trip several months ago, he declared.

But, the senator said, he had found a growing fear among citizens to express themselves against administration policies for fear of government reprisal. This was especially true among business men who are seeking government contracts and others whose work depends upon administration good will.

Compared with Dictator Countries.

Sen. Wheeler compared these fears with the fears of people in European dictator countries who accept the decrees of government officials rather than endanger their lives and the lives and well being of their families by open opposition.

"If this country isn't headed for a dictatorship under such circumstances," he declare, "I don't know what you would call it. I'm not afraid of an invasion nearly as much as I fear what is going to happen to this land of ours after this present thing is over. There's going to be a reaction set in here which will make the last panic look like child's play."

In private interviews and off the record conversations, Wheeler said he found great unrest manifesting itself among business people who believe they are ruined by the priorities system of the Roosevelt administration.

CHICAGO WOMEN TO JOIN ANTI-WAR PLEA IN CAPITAL

Fifteen Chicago mothers will leave today for Washington to join there in a demonstration against further infringement of the neutrality law.

The Chicago women are members of We, the Mothers, Mobilize for America, one of 16 peace organizations which last week met in Washington to form a national anti-war federation of women. They will be joined here by delegations from Minneapolis and St. Paul.

Mrs. Lyrl Van Hyning, director of We, the Mothers, said the demonstration is being planned and directed by the new federation. Hundreds of women from all over the country are expected to take part in it.

PANAMA DELAYS ENDING OF BAN ON ARMED VESSELS

PANAMA CITY, Panama, Oct. 13 (AP).—The new government of Panama studied the question of revising the ban on the arming of merchant vessels of Panamanian registry today but announced no action.

The overthrow of Dr. Arnulfo Arias as president followed a decision of his cabinet last week to revoke Panamanian registry of any vessels armed by their owners.

A source close to the government said the new administration of President Ricardo Adolfo de la Guardia had decided to apply to Arias, who is returning from Cuba, a provision of his own legal code that any functionary of the government absenting himself from the country for four days without proper permission is subject to a $500 fine and a six month jail term.

It appeared likely that United States Canal Zone authorities would not arrest Arias, who is expected to arrive Tuesday, but would eject him under immigration regulations and thus place him in the hands of the Panama police.

REDUCE CHARGE AGAINST BOY, 16, IN CYCLE THEFT

Because of his age, a charge of stealing a motorcycle against Patrick Dougherty, 16 years old, has been dropped and he will be arraigned in the Juvenile court on a charge of delinquency. This was disclosed yesterday by Capt. John C. Prendergast, chief of the uniformed police force, who made the arrest himself Oct. 6. Robert Vroman, 18, of 7300 South Carpenter street, was discharged in Automobile court on his testimony that he accepted a ride on the cycle without knowing it had been stolen.

WAR VETERAN FOUND DEAD.

John W. Sullivan, 68 years old, a Spanish-American war veteran, was found dead, apparently of a heart attack, in his room at 2018 Sedgwick street yesterday.

Without Painful Backache

Many sufferers relieve nagging backache quickly, once they discover that the real cause of their trouble may be tired kidneys.

The kidneys are Nature's chief way of taking the excess acids and waste out of the blood. They help most people pass about 3 pints a day.

When disorder of kidney function permits poisonous matter to remain in your blood, it may cause nagging backache, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness. Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning sometimes shows there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder.

Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from your blood. Get Doan's Pills.

Only One Day More for House Hearing.

to appear before the committee if they could be in Washington tomorrow.

In protest against the chairman's regulations, Rep. Hamilton Fish [R., N. Y.] and Rep. George H. Tinkham [R., Mass.], high ranking minority members, absented themselves from the hearings. Rep. John M. Vorys [R., O.] presented the position of most of the minority when he declared:

"Many persons have applied to me for an opportunity to voice their opposition to the bill. I have referred them all to the chairman. It is up to him to decide whether to permit them to appear. With only one day available before the measure is made the subject of a rush report to the house, it seems probable that there will be no opposition witnesses.

"I cannot recall an occasion when such strong-arm tactics were enforced to prevent adequate committee hearings on a proposal of great moment."

Hull Reads Statement.

The press was permitted to remain in the committee room while Secretary Hull read his formal statement. At its conclusion, reporters were politely shooed out. Newspaper men were not thereafter allowed to be present even during the reading of the statements. They were handed copies of these as each witness took the chair behind the bolted doors which were guarded by a capitol policeman.

Committee members noted in an early part of Secretary Knox's statement that he declared the United States has "never been neutral." One thousand words later, he referred to this nation as "the greatest and most powerful neutral country in the world" as he condemned the use of the Panama flag for American ships.

The administration theme was taken up by Secretary Stimson.

"The chief hope of defeating Hitler is by preserving the British Isles and the existence of the British fleet," Secretary Stimson declared. "The so-called neutrality law is a restriction thru which the safety of the United States is being impaired. It and other shackles upon our defensive position have been created under novel and timid theories of national policy which in my opinion are neither true nor conducive to the safety of our country.

"These theories have resulted in legislation intended to make America safe by making it impotent, by preventing the vessels which we did send out from defending themselves against any pirate nation which might roam the ocean."

All Use "Humiliating."

Hull, Stimson, and Knox all used the word "humiliating" in describing the restrictions of the neutrality law.

"I believe that the repeal of this humiliating provision of law would not only conduce to regaining our self-respect upon the ocean but that it would materially promote the safety of the vessels which we are now sending out," Stimson asserted.

Stimson then appealed for the repeal of section 2 of the act which bars entry of American ships into ports of belligerent countries. Under Bloom's ruling, the committee could not question the Secretary of War upon this phase of his testimony.

"National timidity does not promote national safety," Stimson told the committee. "Today section 2 is working evil results in restricting our policy of national defense. In my opinion, the national defense would be made far more secure if section 2 also were repealed and we honestly implemented the congressional policy of the lease-lend act by undertaking to make delivery in our own vessels if these munitions directly to the ports of the countries for which they are intended.

Hull Speaks in Like Strain.

"The dangers which we should thus incur in my opinion would be far less than the perils we probably shall incur if we falter and fail to carry out the purpose of the lease-lend law and make sure beyond peradventure the safety of those nations which are now fighting a desperate battle against our common enemy."

In like strain, Secretary of State Hull spoke of German submarines and raiders as "twentieth century pirates" and asserted it was America's right to arm its vessels for purposes of defense. He also urged repeal of section 2 in the light of "new conditions which have been produced by the Hitler movement of world invasion.

The hands of the United States are tied by both neutrality act restrictions on the arming of ships and the entry into war ports, Hull declared.

"If Hitler should succeed in his supreme purpose to conquer Great Britain," he concluded, "and thus secure control of the high seas, we would suddenly find the danger at our own door."

Knox for Full Repeal.

Secretary of the Navy Knox said the entire neutrality act should be wiped off the statute books. He injected a tearful note of sympathy for soviet Russia, Russia, he said, went beyond isolationism in practicing a policy of "Russia First."

"Yet the policy of 'Russia First' proved disastrous," he said, "Russia certainly serves as a fearful example of the inability of a nation to remain neutral by just wishing to be neutral."

In citing Russia as a noninterventionist nation, Knox did not mention the invasion of Finland altho he remarked that the soviets "shared the loot of the Polish war with Germany." This action proved the sincerity of Russia's desire to remain neutral, he contended.

"To me it is a tremendously humiliating thing that the greatest and most powerful neutral country in the the world has resorted to the device of sending its ships to sea under the flag of little Panama," Knox asserted.

Admiral Land told the committee that the arming of merchant ships would have an important "psychological effect." Apparently referring to the contention of experts that guns on merchant ships cannot be of sufficient size or number to defend the vessels from attack, he declared:

"An armed merchant vessel cannot be expected to hold its own on equal terms in an engagement with a warship but its guns will afford it some protection against submarines, aircraft, and armed raiders."

Admiral Stark concluded the administration's case. He decarled that even one anti-aircraft gun on a merchant ship would be valuable because it would keep attacking planes at greater altitudes. Gunfire, he also contended, would tend to keep an attacking submarine submerged and its torpedo fire, therefore, less accurate.

Hurt on 'L'

DOROTHY MENDHAN.

A collision between two "L" trains in the morning rush hour yesterday at the Merchandise Mart station which injured two persons was blamed by the elevated lines' officials late yesterday on the failure of a motorman to apply the brakes in time. Officials said an investigation showed no fault with the signals or train equipment. A southbound Jackson Park train bumped into an Englewood train which was standing at the station waiting for the Chicago river bridge to be lowered. The injured persons, Robert Walthouse, 20 years old, 1918 Farwell avenue, and Miss Dorothy Mendhan, 26, of 1010 Lawrence avenue, were treated at Henrotin hospital. The trains were able to proceed.

NEW DEAL IS USING TAX MONEY TO CRUSH G. O. P., BRICKER SAYS

New York, Oct. 13 [Special].—The federal government, by "trumped up charges and the use of the taxpayers' money," is attempting to usurp the functions of state government and break the power of the Republican party, Gov. John W. Bricker of Ohio charged tonight in a speech before the Ohio Society of New York. He accused New Deal investigators of harassing the work of the Ohio Bureau of Unemployment Compensation and asserted that "greed for jobs, personal power, and political bias too often control their better judgment."

Gov. Bricker said Ohio had balanced its budget and now is on a pay-as-you-go basis, with a $4,500,000 surplus.

"The Democrats in Ohio," he said, "are surprised at the surplus. They say it is unsound and sinful."

WINNERS PUBLISHED EVERY DAY!

TODAY'S PRIZE WINNERS OF $10.00 EACH. ALSO ELIGIBLE FOR GRAND PRIZES UP TO $1,000.00!

Melvin R. McCaleb, Clinton, Ill.

Feb. 27th. Your sign of the Zodiac is Pisces, your birth star is Neptune. You have a highly sensitive and sympathetic nature, and suffering or injustice in any form is distressing to you. Imaginative and intuitive, you are deeply influenced by your environment. Guard against an inclination to worry about personal shortcomings. Your key number is four, and Friday should be your best dax for personal advancement.

Geraldine L. Doll, Chicago.

Nov. 24. Your sign of the Zodiac is Sagittarius—your ruling planet Jupiter. Thursday should be a good day for you. You have a quick and vivid imagination, and are apt to copy those with whom you associate. You are a devoted and affectionate little girl, but are inclined to be serious, and need plenty of exercise and relaxation. You can be persuaded and reasoned with, rather than ruled, as far as discipline is concerned. Your lucky number should be eight.

F. A. Mitchell, Bettendorf, Ia.

Feb. 4th. You were born under the sign of Aquarius—your ruling planet is Uranus. You seek progress at all times—and are intensely interested in your fellow man and his advancement. Impersonal and dispassionate in your general viewpoint, you are sometimes contrarily fixed in your opinions and most set in your ways. You have a strong will and an independent mind, but must guard against being domineering or stubborn.

Lea K. Baker, Lemont, Ill.

Dec. 11th. You were born under the sign of Sagittarius — your ruling planet is Jupiter. You are a generous, friendly person, capable of clear thought, and gifted with intuition. You excel in the proper handling of people, and any vocation which brings you in contact with the general public is excellent for one of your abilities. However, you must guard against a tendency toward too much indifference, and being too easy-going.

Anson Welbel, Darlington, Wis.

June 16th. Your sign of the Zodiac is Gemini—your ruling planet Mercury. Your interests are versatile and you have a retentive memory, qualities which make you an excellent companion. Inclined to be impersonal and impartial, your personality is a pleasing one. However, you must guard against an inclination to be highly changeable and diffusive. Wednesday should be your best day for personal advancement. Your key number is seven.

Constance G. Driscoll, Ypsilanti, Mich.

Jan. 14th. You were born under the sign of Capricorn—your ruling planet is Saturn. Personal effort is never a sacrifice for you; if it helps to achieve your ambition. You are a studious and determined person, with an ability for organization, and great resourcefulness. While sincerely interested in others, you must be careful not to assume their responsibilities, or to dominate or influence them—cultivate impersonality.

Fred W. Earpe, Chicago.

Apr. 24. Your ruling planet is Mars; your sign of the Zodiac is Aries. Fond of people and with a zest for life in general, you are an affable, jovial person. Though you never intend to hurt another, at times you may be too outspoken and frank. It is difficult for you to make concessions, once you have made a decision. The most successful vocation for you is one permitting you to work independently.

Helen Mitchell, Marinette, Wis.

Dec. 12th. Your sign of the Zodiac is Sagittarius—your ruling planet is Jupiter. You are a tolerant person, jovial and generous, with a genuine liking for others. You are independent and not too fond of discipline, but magnanimous and affable at all times. You must guard against a tendency to be too easy-going and impulsive of speech. Any vocation in which you contact the general public would be an excellent one for you.

Norman C. Lindquist, Chicago.

July 22rd. You were born under the sign of Leo, your ruling planet is the Sun. Sunday should be a good day for your personal advancement, and your key number is five. You have strength and energy and an affectionate, friendly disposition. You enjoy working in a directorial capacity, and are gifted for leadership, but must guard against a tendency to be domineering and stubborn in your point of view. Be temperate in all things.

Ellison Dunn, Chesterton, Ind.

Oct. 7th. You were born under the sign of Libra; your ruling planet is the Sun. Sunday should be a good day for your personal advancement, and your key number is five. You have strength and energy and an affectionate, friendly disposition. You enjoy working in a directorial capacity, and are gifted for leadership, but must guard against a tendency to be domineering and stubborn in your point of view. Be temperate in all things.

Lawrence McHale, Wilmette, Ill.

Nov. 15th. You were born under the sign of Scorpio—your ruling planet is Mars. You are an excellent judge of human nature — others are seldom permitted to take advantage of you. You are intense and determined —a true friend and an unrelenting enemy. You have natural qualities for leadership, but must guard against a tendency to brood and be supersensitive under a calm exterior. A capacity for hard work and natural ambition can bring you success.

Mrs. Agnes McGrath, Streator, Ill.

Feb. 21st. You were born under the sign of Pisces, your ruling planet is Neptune. The coming year is a promising one for you. You are an idealistic person, inclined to be emotional and with a generous amount of sympathy and compassion for those in need. Persons born under your sign generally have a natural sense of rhythm and enjoy music. Your greatest faults are probably worrying unnecessarily and being indecisive because you lack self-confidence.

Daniel A. McIntyre, Chicago

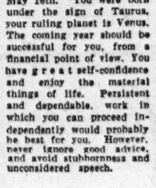
Oct. 9th. You were born under the sign of Libra—your ruling planet, or birth star, is Venus. Despite an unassuming manner, you are an extremely well-balanced person, seldom influenced by others. A tolerant and understanding friend, you are gracious, but reserved in your social contacts. You have an ability to work quietly and persistently toward your goal, but must control a tendency to be fussy about unimportant matters.

Mazie Kahler, Cresco, Iowa.

May 18th. You were born under the sign of Taurus—your ruling planet is Venus. You are a kindly and dependable person. You give great affection to those whom you love, but must guard against being possessive. Peace and harmony are important to you, and you find happiness in helping others. You can be adept as a homemaker, and are an excellent hostess. Your key number is nine, and Friday should be your best day for advancement.

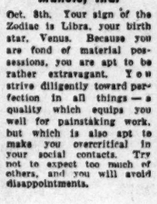
Anthony Weber, Chicago

July 9th. Your sign of the Zodiac is Cancer; your ruling planet is the Moon. A successful year is indicated for you if you will concentrate your energies and do your utmost to attend all cooperation to those with whom you work. You are inclined to live in the past and spent too much on precedent. Do not be timid about trying new methods to accomplish what you want. Your key number is two.



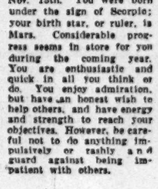
Rosemary Johnson, Chicago

May 16th. You were born under the sign of Taurus, your ruling planet is Venus. The coming year should be successful for you, from a financial point of view. You have great self-confidence and enjoy the material things of life. Persistent and dependable, work in which you can proceed independently would probably be best for you. However, never ignore good advice, and avoid stubbornness and unconsidered speech.



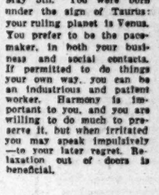
F. D. Haag, Muncie, Ind.

Oct. 8th. Your sign of the Zodiac is Libra, your birth star, Venus. Because you are fond of material possessions, you are apt to be rather extravagant. You strive diligently toward perfection in all things — a quality which equips you well for painstaking work, but which is also apt to make you overcritical in your social contacts. Try not to expect too much of others, and you will avoid disappointments.



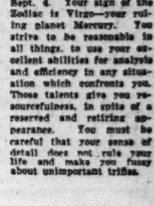
Alice Louise Nichols, Chicago.

Nov. 13th. You were born under the sign of Scorpio; your birth star, or ruler, is Mars. Considerable progress seems in store for you during the coming year. You are enthusiastic and quick in all you think or do. You enjoy admiration, but have an honest wish to help others, and have energy and strength to reach your objectives. However, be careful not to do anything impulsively or rashly and guard against being impatient with others.



Jordan Phillip Jung, Stevensville, Mich.

May 5th. You were born under the sign of Taurus; your ruling planet is Venus. You prefer to be the pacemaker, in both your business and social contacts. If permitted to do things your own way, you can be an industrious and patient worker. Harmony is important to you, and you are willing to do much to preserve it, but when irritated you may speak impulsively —to your later regret. Relaxation out of doors is beneficial.



Beatrice S. Alexander, Riverside, Ill.

Sept. 4. Your sign of the Zodiac is Virgo—your ruling planet Mercury. You strive to be reasonable in all things, to use your excellent abilities for analysis and efficiency in any situation which confronts you. Those talents give you resourcefulness, in spite of a reserved and retiring appearance. You must be careful that your sense of detail does not rule your life and make you fussy about unimportant trifles.

CALL CHANGSHA RULE BY JAPS A 'NIGHTMARE'

U. S. Missionaries Tell of Death, Looting, Fire.

CHANGSHA, China, Oct. 13 (AP).—Stories of Japanese executions, attempted beheadings, lootings, and incendiarism during the four days of Japanese occupation of this Chinese-recaptured city were related today by 16 members of American missionary families here.

"It was a dreadful nightmare," one American said of the period of occupation from the time the Japanese entered on Sept. 27 until they withdrew the night of Sept. 30.

The missionaries said Chinese with deep gashes in their necks, inflicted by Japanese trying to behead them with long swords, were treated at the Yale in China hospital. They told of watching eight Chinese soldiers stood before a wall with their hands tied behind their backs and executed.

Smoke Out Snipers.

These informants said also that practically every home in the city was looted and that many fires were set, apparently in an effort to smoke out Chinese snipers.

Two days before the Japanese entered the city, their planes bombed the Socony and Asiatic Petroleum companies' installations on the outskirts of Changsha.

Among the American missionaries in Changsha are Mrs. Elizabeth Wahl of Naperville, Ill., and Miss Mirian Faust, of Hubbard, Ia.

An international relief committee consisting principally of Americans established refugee camps where about 17,000 persons were cared for.

200,000 Chinese Open Drive.

PEKING, China, Oct. 13 (AP).—Japanese dispatches tonight said 200,000 Chinese reënforcements were converging on Chengchow for a "desperate effort" to recapture that city. The dispatches indicated hostilities had broken out anew around the important railway town after a lull of a week since its capture by the Japanese.

Chinese Move Out of Ichang.

CHUNGKING, Oct. 13 (AP).—The Chinese military operations board announced today withdrawal of Chinese troops from Ichang, westernmost point reached by the Japanese invaders, after "accomplishing their objective of diverting Japanese pressure in northern Hunan province."

[A Japanese army spokesman in Shanghai said the Chinese never had entered Ichang and that they were in full retreat before counterattacking Japanese forces.]

MRS. GEORGE JESSEL.

Philadelphia, Pa., Oct. 13 (AP).—Georgie Jessel, the 43 year old "Mama's Boy" of vaudeville and revue stage, expects to be a papa soon and admits "I am going nuts with a new show and all."

His bride of 18 months, the 17 year old former show girl Lois Andrews, is ready to enter a Los Angeles hospital for a tryst with the stork and here was Georgie on a fine set of Philadelphia tenterhooks and a new baby of his own on his hands—the musical comedy "High Kickers."

"How's a guy gonna rehearse a show when he doesn't know whether it's a boy or a girl—or twins," complained Jessel, leaving the principals and chorines to their routines in the Ritz-Carlton ball room while he made a phone call to the coast hospital. "They tell me nothing doing yet."

FIND TWO MEN DROWNED.

The bodies of two elderly men were found floating in the river several blocks apart by the Maxwell street police yesterday. They were Joseph Garbus, 757 Grenshaw street, 50 years old, and Carl Ballo, 12148 Lowe avenue, 64 years old.

DROP GEORGIA U. FROM SOUTHERN CONFERENCE LIST

Birmingham, Ala., Oct. 13 (AP).—The Southern University conference, charging removal of Dean Walter D. Cocking of the University of Georgia constituted "a clear case of political interference," voted unanimously today to drop the school from its ranks.

The conference, meeting in executive session, approved an executive committee report stating that Cocking, dean of the college of education, was "dismissed from his position without due and reasonable notice and upon charges which are not substantiated."

The Georgia board of regents, revamped by Gov. Eugene Talmadge, voted to dismiss Cocking this summer. Gov. Talmadge charged he had advocated racial co-education. Gov. Talmadge left Atlanta today for his farm home in McRae, Ga., and was not available for comment. Several weeks ago he said that if the University of Georgia lost its accredited rating he would cut salaries of the school's professors in half, commenting that "they would not be worth as much."

TELLS OF FIGHT ON POLITICS IN CIVIL SERVICE

Robert L. Hunter, president of the state civil service commission, told the City club at a luncheon yesterday that charges of participating in political activity which have been preferred against 250 state civil service workers have been sustained by the commission in 90 per cent of the cases. He said all those cited were Democrats and that the charges were preferred by Republican department heads.

State Rep. William Vicars, [Dem., Pontiac], said "Whether or not the administration thinks a man has been politically active depends entirely upon whether he is a Republican or a Democrat."

Vicars said that wherever a Democrat has been discharged for political activity, a Republican, approved by the Republican patronage committee, has been given a temporary job.

A mighty proud day in our lives

IT WAS ONE of the proudest days we'd ever known.

A few days ago, there was hoisted to its place beneath the Stars and Stripes at our plant in Jersey City, a new emblem. It is a simple blue pennant inscribed with a white "E"—"E", for excellence.

It is the highest service award the United States Navy can make . . . the Navy's way of saying "well done."

To Westinghouse, the Navy has given this coveted award for an outstanding job of turning out the tools of national defense—with speed, precision, and efficiency.

This Westinghouse plant, which during peace time manufactured the elevators for many of America's tallest buildings, for many weeks now has been turning out mounts for naval anti-aircraft guns at an ever-increasing rate.

This is but one of the jobs Westinghouse is doing for America's defense. In Westinghouse plants, there are 3600 others . . . $300,000,000 worth of vital defense equipment.

We're mighty proud of that new "E" pennant. It is a symbol of the determination of all of us at Westinghouse to do well the most important job in America today . . . help defend the flag that flies above it!

Limitations of Liberty.

I am for the people of the whole nation doing just as they please in all matters which concern the whole nation; for those of each part doing just as they choose in all matters which concern no other part, and for each individual doing just as he chooses in all matters which concern nobody else. This is the principle. Of course I am content with any exception which the constitution, or the actually existing state of things, makes a necessity.

THE CALL FOR AMERICAN BLOOD.

The London Daily Sketch advises Americans to dismiss as insane the idea that the war can be won without the shedding of American blood. It hails the approaching day when Americans will "mingle their blood, sweat and tears in the common drain."

Americans who feel that this is not our war and that participation would be a fatal mistake naturally also feel bound to refrain from commenting on the British war effort. They have regarded that as the business of the British but not of ourselves. When, however, the British undertake to urge us to share their burdens, and in tones of complaint rather than supplication, they waive immunity from comment.

The editor of the Sketch who speaks of pouring blood down a common drain overlooks the fact that the British have done precious little pouring themselves. While millions are locked in deadly combat in Russia, the British war office deems it of sufficient interest to report a skirmish in Africa in which two British soldiers were killed and seven wounded. Libya is the only land front in the world today in which the British are engaged in opposition to the forces of Hitler. Not only present events but the history of the last two years leaves us cold to this British call for American blood.

On the western front there were rivers of Dutch, Belgian, and French blood, but the British army slipped out at Dunkirk with losses far more serious in materiel than in personnel. When the Belgian army was in the extremity of defeat King Leopold and his staff entertained momentarily the hope that their troops might also be evacuated and return to fight on a happier day. But when they inquired along the Belgian coast they found that the British had already seized all the boats.

Jugo-Slavia was encouraged to enter the war and Greece was made a battleground only to be deserted by the small British force that was sent into the country. Two more allies of Britain were abandoned to be crushed under the Nazi heel. It is not without reason that the cruel gibe has gained circulation that B. E. F. stands for Back Every Fortnight.

Now Russia has gone thru the greatest war in history. The Nazis have thrown into it virtually every first line division they possess along with all of the best of their mechanized equipment, but not one of the 4 million men reported to be under arms in the British Isles has been landed on the continent of Europe. Instead the call comes for an American army to take up the war for Great Britain.

The British have made gains in this war, but not against the Nazi army. They have destroyed the Italian forces in Ethiopia and Haile Selassie, back on his throne, recently requested British coöperation in the administration of his country. The army of the Nile still has a foothold in Italian Libya. The French have been dispossessed in Syria and British expeditionary forces have control of Iraq and Iran. The business of beating Hitler has not been too pressing for the British to expand their empire. There is little doubt that the forces in England can defend it against invasion. The call for American blood is for the defense of the British conquests, not the defense of Britain.

There are a few Americans willing to betray their country to answer this impudent requisition. In the Rt. Rev. Henry Wise Hobson, Protestant Episcopal bishop of southern Ohio, the British propaganda agency in this country found an active coadjutor. The Rt. Rev. Dr. Hobson recently outlined the war mongers' strategy at a private session in Washington of Fight for Freedom, Inc., of which he is chairman. The keystone of his advice was, "Don't appeal to the intellect, appeal to the emotions." He disclosed the preparation of a propaganda campaign, the purpose of which, in his words, is to make the American citizens "fighting mad" by telling them that Hitler is "insulting the wives, sisters, and mothers of America."

The Rt. Rev. Mr. Hobson sees the problem accurately. The campaign for American blood has to be based on emotion, deceit and prejudice. The moment it is subjected to cold appraisal in the light of the facts the invitation to national suicide can be seen for what it is.

TO EACH HIS DUE.

Helen Essary, Washington columnist, tells of making a bet at a dinner party that Mr. Roosevelt will run for a fourth term. Considering the past performance of the American royal family, Mrs. Essary seems warranted in her assumption.

Meanwhile, the royal seneschal, Fiorello La Guardia of New York, tho he may turn an avid if hopeless eye on the White House now and then, finds the place booked well ahead and resigns himself to seeking a third term of his own as mayor of the nation's biggest city.

Mrs. Roosevelt, no doubt to relieve him during the ardors of the campaign, has become assistant director of the Office of Civilian Defense, which La Guardia heads. As boss of the OCD, La Guardia's job is to whip up a war fever. He has succeeded none too well, so now the consort will add her fuss and fidget to the undertaking.

All the other discordant elements that have flocked around the royal standard have made their peace and are busy picking up the leavings and doing the best they can. The leaders of labor have been bought off with permission to go ahead with the program of tying industry into knots while they carry out a not so bloodless revolution to get the closed shop and the check-off. The ministers of H. M. G. assist by clubbing employers over the head.

The communist gleemen have been invited inside to warm themselves at the royal hearth. They are duly appreciative. Rep. Marcantonio of New York casts his first vote for a war measure. The communist candidate opposing La Guardia withdraws.

It is all very palsy-walsy, cut along the lines of the old communist dictum: "From each according to his ability, to each according to his need." What d' ye lack, lads?

FORTY-ONE SUBMARINES.

The trade publication Iron Age estimated that the lost production of steel in one of the earlier work stoppages at the Gary works of the Carnegie-Illinois Steel company would have been sufficient to build 41 submarines. The Gary and South Chicago works have a daily capacity of 27,000 tons of steel. Every day's shutdown means a loss of the equivalent material for 2,000 tanks.

Production of raw steel is the bottleneck in the present efforts of the industry to meet armament needs. The tonnage lost by strikes, dues picketing, and shutdowns will not be made up this month or any month in the discernible future, because the furnaces are already running at capacity.

The tieups in the Chicago area have been matched by similar incidents at many other steel plants thruout the country. They are all the minor tactics of the CIO's grand strategy. That strategy is to use the defense emergency as a weapon to impose the closed shop and the check-off on every worker in the steel industry, regardless of his own wishes in the matter. The CIO leaders boldly acknowledge this objective. Frank Grider, the subdistrict director of the Steel Workers' Organizing committee [CIO] in Gary, says:

"Employés in Gary of the United States Steel corporation may as well realize there is only one union. They must join it if they intend to work."

The campaign is being carried on with a disregard for public opinion and for law and order equal to that which characterized the sitdown strikes of 1937. Pickets have blocked the gates of mills, not in strikes against the employers, but to bar from the mills any worker who cannot show a paidup dues card in a CIO union. These are the tactics of highwaymen, and the pickets have no more legal warrant for what they are doing than a highwayman has to conduct his operations in broad daylight and within sight of the police.

In Birmingham, when the governor of Alabama called out the militia to prevent violence in such a dues collecting holdup, a general strike was called at the steel mills with the demand that the militia be withdrawn and the forces of violence be allowed to do their work unimpeded. The militia were withdrawn. At Gary the demand was enforced on the steel company that police would not be called in any disturbances at the gates of the company unless the union joined in requesting their presence. The police are not to interfere unless the highwaymen consent.

In none of the recent work stoppages and strikes have wages or working conditions been of more than minor importance. The major issue has been the closed shop and the checkoff. The strikes are not being conducted to better the condition of the working men, but to increase the power of the union bosses.

Employers, whatever obligation they feel to loyal employés, are largely powerless to defend them against these exactions. The Roosevelt administration is lenient about strikes, but quick to act against any stoppage of production. The employer who finds his plant tied up, even tho it be in violation of an existing union contract, is called before the mediation board and told to settle. The terms are almost invariably those set by the union, regardless of their justice, and the union bosses are acutely aware of this. One SWOC spokesman was quoted as gloating over the fact that "every time the government has stepped in, the labor mediation board has given us just about what we wanted anyway."

Mr. Roosevelt started the defense drive with the assurance to the country that it could have both rearmament and what he chose to call social gains. As his policy is working out the armament program is not being allowed to interfere with the drive of union bosses to make themselves the dictators over American citizens' right to work, but if they interfere with the armament program, that's all right.

Editorial of the Day

[Illinois State Journal.]

Trapping of a parachutist atop the Devil's Tower is a break for that more or less ignored government park. It invests the gloomy reservation with modern interest and is likely to stimulate Sundance tourist travel.

Devil's Tower is an isolated and outstanding marvel in a great area of natural marvels, but Uncle Sam has been at a loss for something in the way of popular ballyhoo for the attraction. It lends itself to weird romantic speculation, but romance hasn't succeeded in producing box office receipts.

Three scientific explanations for the formation have been advanced, and these adorn the museum walls at the base of the tower, but they leave the average visitor cold. So, too, does the displayed synopsis of an alleged Indian legend concerning the giant butte.

This legend was recited by an aged chief, assisted by two braves who had to be called in to check on his yarn while he spun it. The Indians explained that the chief needed prompters to make sure no detail of the story was missed. An omission would be "bad medicine."

Reading the synopsis, visitors get the impression that the "legend" doesn't much antedate the chief's recitation; that it was an impromptu invention and that the Indians were "spoofing" the credulous white men. The story rambles into by-paths which disclose an over ambitious desire to embellish whatever of ancient tradition the Indian was reciting.

With an authentic human adventure to replace the tiresome Indian legend and those inconclusive scientific studies of the Devil's Tower, the park should do better. The prairie-dog village in the shadow of the tower will, no doubt, be invaded by camera toting visitors and the posing gophers will now have their fill of peanuts and sweets.

Elephants, according to some authorities, are close relatives of whales. However, that is one case where neither need fear a surprise relative visit.—Cincinnati Enquirer.

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

AFTER LIFE'S FITFUL FEVER.

Since Helen Morgan went to her grave with the phrase "torch singer" running thru her obituaries like a refrain, we would like to supply a few corrections. She was not a "torch singer," if our understanding of that battered phrase out of the jazz vocabulary is complete, and she did not originate the vogue of red-hot mammas who cluttered the stage and cabaret floors, bellowing about their fiery and frustrated passions for ornery cusses who had loved 'em and left 'em. We must also beg to differ from Marcia Winn's excellent account of her career in THE TRIBUNE; her voice was not "sultry and provocative."

Helen Morgan was no more a "torch singer" in the blatant American style than Trilby. It is true that her songs were usually plaintive or melancholy, and that the little quaver in her voice, the little tremble of her throat, often caused hard-boiled habitués of cabarets to melt over their drinks. But her most popular song, "My Bill" from "Show Boat," did not deal with unrequited love; loyalty to a commonplace lover was the theme of its touching little story.

Miss Morgan's career reached its peak about 10 years ago in the musical comedy, "Sweet Adeline," in which she did no piano-sitting. Her songs and singing were better then, in our opinion, than in the more famous "Show Boat," which contained "My Bill." Out of "Sweet Adeline" came "Why Was I Born," the lament of a one-man gal, which became a standard item in her répertoire, but we preferred a less famous number, "'Twas Not So Long Ago," a simple, sentimental ballad. Its chorus ran:

'Twas not so long ago that Pa was mother's beau,
And tho their styles and fads have gone like old sachet,
The things Pa said to Ma, the things Ma said to Pa,
Were quite the same as all the things
That lovers say today.

As published, "'Twas Not So Long Ago" attributes its music to Jerome Kern, its words to Oscar Hammerstein II. But it carries a German lyric also, which is better than the English version. We suspect that it is a German or Austrian folk song of ancient ancestry.

THE LONG ROAD TO BED.

"The princess smiled; her tears were turned to laughter,
And they lived happily forever after"—
Of course her crown was gold; don't be absurd!
No, not tonight. Don't be a naughty girl . . .
Well, just a short one. "Once there was a squirrel . . ."

And that's the story. Why do squirrels have tails?
You ask your teacher. So do bears and whales.
Now run upstairs—I hear your mother calling;
I'd rather read my book than be enthralling.
I said "Upstairs!" There's no peace in this house;
To bed, I say! Well, "Once there was a mouse . . ."

"And that's the way he fooled the scheming cat."
Your mother wants you now. Yes, take my hat
Don't rub it in the fireplace that way . . .
Well, anything to keep you out of crime.

In Praise of Rocking Chairs.

I read somewhere that what this country needs is more rockers and fewer 90 mile an hour motor cars, and by golliks I believe it, because I have always been very fond of rockers.

O, fond memories! We had at home rockers of several different varieties. There were creepers and noncreepers, and squeakers and nonsqueakers. We would sit around playing different musical instruments and mother would sit on one side of the room and rock and rock, and dote and dote, until the first thing we knew she would be on the other side of the room. That was a sidewise creeper rocker. We also had a forward creeper rocker and a backward creeper rocker in which my father fell asleep on the porch one day, but kept on rocking until he nearly backed off the porch.

Then we had a squeaker rocker my mother used when she sat beside the piano while we played and sang her favorite song, "When You and I Were Seventeen." She would sit and rock, and the rocker would squeak until we could have screamed in anguish.

But, believe me, it would be sweet music to us now, because both the rocker and its occupant are resting. Roy Engel.

THE TAXI DRIVER.

[Men About Town.]

The gentleman who drives a hack
Will take you there and bring you back.
What's more, with pardonable pride,
He'll take you for a one-way ride!
Keep calm. Don't faint. It's just his job,
And not instructions from the Mob.
Nobody else is quite as glad
As he is when the weather's bad.
And any time that you don't know
Exactly where you want to go,
He'll gladly recommend some dive,
[For otherwise he'd not survive].
He takes no back talk, sass, or lip,
But, brother, can he take a tip!

My choice for the Chicago theater that has changed its name oftener than any other is the present Studio, on Van Buren street near Michigan avenue. It was the Whitney Opera house in the early 1900s, and since then it has been the Central, the Punch and Judy, and the Sonotone.

BE PATIENT WITH ADOLESCENT CHILDREN.

THE years between 10 and 14 are the safest of all when illness is considered. This is the interval when our boys and girls are emerging slowly but surely into manhood and womanhood. At such a stage, nature seems to focus all her energy on the final spurt which terminates childhood.

Why is sickness so infrequent during this period? There are many factors. Contagious maladies have been surmounted or immunity has probably been acquired thru protective vaccines. Then, too, outdoor exercise is at its height. In addition, the endocrine glands are pouring their chemicals into the blood stream in an effort to aid growth.

We must not think of puberty as beginning at exactly 13 or 14 years of age. It has been pointed out by L. K. Frank that with girls it may start anywhere between 10 and 17—with boys between 12 and 18. Furthermore, it is a complicated process and its rate of speed may vary greatly. In this respect some of our youngsters appear to be traveling by air, while others are tramping leisurely along the highways.

Now, all of this means that parents must make an attempt to understand their children during the time when Junior is likely to burst forth with bizarre notions, or sister exhibit temperamental outbursts. The reason is that the parts of the machine that make up adulthood are being fitted, tested, and synchronized. Disconcerting behavior, more often than not, signifies that a figurative bearing lacks oil or that a cylinder is missing. In fact, many of the elements of development may be substantially out of balance with the result that the whole mechanism may be wobbling.

For the most part, our attention has been directed toward the physical changes of the period. Perhaps we should give more thought to the emotional and social questions which confront these young people. For example, they may wonder "How do I look? Will I be as beautiful as mother, or as handsome as father?" Overanxiety about personal appearance may so depress the awkward, ungainly daughter as to actually interfere with the maturing program. To the son who thinks that his face is too large, or his nose overdeveloped, we may point to the profile of Abraham Lincoln, whose facial characteristics represent the epitome of wisdom and kindliness.

While parents should be and must be ever watchful, nevertheless oversolicitude should be guarded against. Our progeny like to be given responsibility but they will not assume it if every move is directed, ordered, or criticized. If they are told when to eat, when to go to bed, when to put out the light, when to turn right, and when to turn left, we can prophesy that the much desired quality of initiative will be lacking completely.

While general rules may be helpful, we must recognize that each case is a problem in itself. Many an adolescent lad will require more sleep than he has needed hitherto. A "slug-a-bed" tendency should not be criticized unduly. The young lady, on the other hand, may spend an inordinate amount of time primping. But all such manifestations will come out in the wash. While the report card from school may indicate a sharp drop in concentration, these reactions can be explained naturally because so many forces of the body are employed in other directions.

Even in the same family, the offspring may behave differently. What is good for John may not be equally so for Edward. There is but one answer—namely, to observe the course of nature and assist her in every possible way.

HYSTERIA NOT FATAL.

O. U. writes: Do periodic attacks of hysteria shorten the life span?

REPLY.

There is real danger that the malady will curtail the longevity of members of the family and the neighbors. The victim, however, may enjoy the situation as tho he were on a grand "spree." Of course, nervous as well as physical strain will demand its pound of flesh.

NO DANGER.

W. D. S. writes: Will drinking a quart of milk daily cause lime deposits in the joints of a patient with arthritis?

REPLY.

No—it will neither bring them on nor cause them to disappear. The quantity of calcium obtained in this manner is not excessive.

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE

Writers should confine themselves to 200 or 300 words. Give full names and addresses. No manuscripts can be returned. Space for letters is obviously limited. Incoming mail far exceeds it. If a letter is not printed, attribute it to lack of room. Address letters to Voice of the People, THE TRIBUNE.

LABOR'S OPPORTUNITY.

East Chicago, Ind., Oct. 10.—To members of the CIO: You who work in the great industries of the land and who are responsible for so much of our basic wealth, are in a position to reaffirm that this country can be the greatest moral and physical force the world has ever known.

The CIO is rightfully a very powerful group in this country today. It has advanced the cause of the wage earner in hundreds of ways and has often been the prime mover behind the labor legislation which has given greater freedom to the workers, but . . . it is now in the process of making a bad mistake, one which will eventually end in the downfall of the union unless it is swiftly corrected. This error is the attempt to create antagonism between the employer and the worker, a deliberate effort to widen the class rift that is the unseen enemy of democracy. By naming all employers collectively as "the enemy," you must immediately lose sight of them as individuals and then lose sight of your own goal, which is beneficial coöperation. Hate and scorn are fast growing weeds and already your path is choked with them.

Along about the time of the NRA employers in this country began to realize their mistake in trying to treat their workers simply as a manufacturing cost. They began to set their own house in order, first because of pressure from the unions and from government and then thru voluntary efforts. These men were quietly taking reform into their own hands, when suddenly the union changed to a hostile front, bristling with ready violence and abuse. The high pressure organizer had arrived in the CIO.

The reaction to the new philosophy of hate was inevitable. The employer set his jaw and said, "If it's fight they want, they shall have it." And now the points won by the unions from capital are not so easily digested; public opinion is a bitter taste in the mouth of labor. In the factory, the men distrust their bosses and the bosses have contempt for the men.

This is the most unhealthy relation in the land. You workers know that feeling, the supervisors know it, any one who walked thru a steel plant would know it, for it permeates the air. Such a rift is alien to democracy. It must be ended, and the CIO should take the initiative.

JAMES D. LAURITS.

SPIDER WEBS IN THE AIR.

La Grange, Ill., Oct. 12.—Perhaps a reader who knows about these things can explain the phenomenon observed in the sky this noontime. Happening to glance up into the glorious sunlight I saw thousands of shining webs floating gracefully along in the soft breeze. Some of these were of great length and shimmered brightly, perhaps hundreds of feet high, while others became snagged on the tops of trees, bringing some happy spider's aerial holiday to an end. Now what, I should like to know, are the spiders doing up in the air? WM. M. BUETTNER.

ROYALTY COULD DROP IN.

Chicago, Oct. 11.—What an ideal spot for the White House that Devil's tower would be! Each morning we could have a plane fly over and drop orange juice, toast, coffee, and a European royal family. DAN MACMILLAN.

EVEN HOGS' TASTES DIFFER.

Allegan, Mich., Oct. 9.—Knowing that most of you city ginks meet your hogs in the shape of pork chops and sausage, I feared the readers of Thomas K. Davey's letter might not have necessary laboratory equipment to make the test that would prove Cousin Charlie's statement true or false.

For me it was easy. It took but a minute to introduce a luscious Henry Field "red head" tomato from my garden to our two very hoggy hogs. To give you all facts, they are O. I. C. hogs, named Thomas and Geraldine [Tom and Jerry for short] and they promptly came to grips over the one tomato thrown down between them. The tomato disappeared and two chewing mouths pointed up at me grunting for more.

Cousin Charlie's statement is false.

M. M. SAGE.

Chicago, Oct. 10.—We raised large numbers of hogs on our farm in Nebraska when I was a lad and I did notice every time tomatoes were thrown into the feed lot, they were trampled and otherwise disregarded by the porkers. Have since discussed this with packing house men as I have made my rounds and they all seem to agree—hogs abhor tomatoes.

Am eagerly awaiting other comment from your vast number of readers.

PAUL A. JOHNSON.

TRANSPORTATION—1941.

Chicago, Oct. 10.—Every day about noon a train puffs into the Englewood station, southbound on the C. & W. I. railroad. Then in an hour or so it returns, headed back downtown. This is quite train, consisting of a full sized locomotive and one lone car. This latter is divided up into several sections, part for freight, some for baggage, and a section for passengers. The car seems to carry little in freight or baggage and usually has three or four passengers.

However, the train has a full crew, engineer, fireman, conductor, etc. Under prevailing conditions, how can the operation of such a train be justified? Perhaps some of the high priced railroad executives could give us a sensible explanation.

I am not connected with any railroad; just another tax paying citizen who occasionally becomes inquisitive. J. C. R.

LET THE LEGIONNAIRES VOTE.

Morris, Ill., Oct. 10.—On Sept. 25 the Grundy county council of the American Legion adopted resolutions referring to the stand taken by the American Legion at Milwaukee relative to the policy of the United States in foreign affairs. Our resolution calls for individual polling of the members on each of the issues covered by the resolutions passed at the national convention at Milwaukee.

WHY BRITAIN IS IN INDIA.

Chicago, Oct. 11.—"W. C. D.," in criticising your editorial remarks on India's lack of liberty, claims that such lack is "justifiable" and "the answer clear." He adds: "All thru history India has been rent by wars and internal dissensions. The strife between the Hindus and the Moslems seemed never ending until Britain stepped in and stopped it."

This is history à la English. True as to the never ending quarrels between Hindus and Moslems. False as to Britain stepping in and stopping them.

The British government stepped in after the English East India company, a private concern, had proved to the world that India was the inexhaustible source of immense wealth. True to old English practices, the English crown stepped in and just appropriated the whole thing, company, India, and first option on the wealth.

The only interest Britain ever had in India's strifes is recognizable in Britain's knowledge that such conditions, worsened by ignorance, caste division, and intrigue, were and are ideal for ruthless exploitation. She may have stopped periodical racial butchering between the Hindus and Moslems of India, but old Rome's motto "divide et impera" has been successfully practiced on the East Indians since bighearted Britain "stepped in."

PROBATE PROCEEDINGS.

Chicago, Oct. 9.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—I would like to know about the Probate court: First, what are the court costs when a will is probated?

2. When a minor is mentioned in a will who holds his share of money?

3. What is the cost to the minor?

4. When some one holds this money for a minor is there any certain way it can be invested, that is, in certain bonds or stocks?

5. If so, what are they? R. H.

1. It might be around $30 on a small estate.

2. The court would appoint a guardian.

3. Depends on whether an attorney is employed and on other facts that are not before us.

4. Yes.

5. A full copy of the statute would be of undue length. You can look it up in the Revised Statutes, at the public library. If your question arises on past facts we will be in a better position to advise you if you will state those facts.

TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

ANY DAY NOW

AMERICA FIRST FOES RALLY SIX WHEATON CALLS

Fail to Halt Meeting in Community Hall.

The Wheaton chapter of the America First committee held its initial meeting last night despite an advertisment in both Wheaton newspapers urging persons opposed to "aiding Hitler" write or telephone members of the park commission protesting against permitting the committee to use the Wheaton community house.

The appeal, in the form of an advertisment inserted by Attorney George Burton, drew a total of six phone calls and one letter. Attorney Burton wrote the letter. E. L. Gates, president of the park commission, said that of the six calls received by him two were from friends who, he said, saw his name in the ad and thought he wanted them to phone.

Capacity Crowd Is Present.

The meeting proceeded without interruption under the chairmanship of Attorney Harry S. Rademacher. Seventy-nine persons, or four more than the hall seats, heard Attorney Charles W. Vail of Chicago assert that America was being "tricked into war." He said:

"The greatest swindle of all time is the inclusion of Russia and Britain on our relief rolls. It fits in perfectly with plans made by the wreckers of our republic."

Calls for Fair Hearings.

During the premeeting debate on use of the community house by the America First group, George M. Smith, publisher of the Wheaton Journal, printed an editorial calling on Wheaton's populace to avoid the strife which the issues of isolation and intervention have created elsewhere, and urging that no legitimate spokesman for either side be refused a hearing in that community.

The America First group voted last night to set up a permanent organization. Those present voted unanimously to wire Sen. Scott Lucas [D., Ill.] demanding that he vote to keep the present neutrality act unchanged and also to wire Rep. Chauncey Reed [R., 11th]. The group also will send a congratulatory telegram to Sen. Wayland Brooks commending him for his fight to maintain the neutrality law in its present form.

Judicial Candidates

BY PERCY WOOD.

(This is another in a series of sketches of the nominees for the Cook County judicial election of Nov. 4. They are being published in the order in which the candidates' names will appear on the ballot.)

REPUBLICAN.

Harold J. Clark.

Harold J. Clark, former city attorney of Evanston, trustee of Northwestern university, and an unsuccessful candidate for the Circuit court two years ago, holds ninth place on the Republican Superior court ticket.

Now 47, Clark was born in Syracuse, N. Y., but obtained his education in Evanston, attending the public schools and Evanston academy, and earning two degrees at Northwestern. He was admitted to the bar shortly after finishing his law course in 1915.

Early in his practice Clark joined the Illinois reserve militia, then volunteered in 1918, trained at Camp Taylor and was commissioned a second lieutenant after the armistice. For 15 years thereafter he remained in the field artillery reserve.

Save for six years in the banking business—from 1929 to 1935—Clark has practiced law in Chicago, first with Cutting, Moore & Sidley and at present as a member of Ogren & Clark. He is chairman of the public relations committee of the Chicago Bar association.

Clark was city attorney of Evanston from 1920 to 1922, and attorney for the board of local improvements there from 1937 to 1941.

DEMOCRATIC.

Judge Joseph A. Graber.

Judge Joseph A. Graber, elected to the Superior court in 1939 to fill a vacancy, was given ninth place on the Democratic ticket this fall for a full six year term. He had been a member of the Municipal bench for nine years at the time of his elevation.

Judge Graber was born in Mineral Point, Wis., 56 years ago. After attending St. Gabriel and Visitation parochial schools he took two degrees from St. Ignatius college and then obtained his legal education at Illinois College of Law, being admitted to practice in 1906.

From 1912 to 1930, Judge Graber held various legal-political offices, serving as special attorney for Cook county in 1912, and twice as counsel for former Sheriff John E. Traeger—first from 1915 to 1919 and again from 1929 to 1930.

Judge Graber had served three years of his second term when, in 1939, he was nominated for the two and one-half year unexpired term of the late Judge James J. Kelly on the Superior bench, and won election.

During his service in the Criminal court, Judge Graber was criticized by State's Attorney Courtney for his dismissal of two indictments against a Municipal court judge, Eugene L. McGarry, who is no longer on the bench.

BRANDON BLOCKS TRAINING SCHOOL REFORM: GUNNING

Delay of New Institution Subject of Clash.

State Senator Thomas P. Gunning [R., Princeton], head of a commission which has been investigating conditions in the Illinois State Training School for Boys near St. Charles, yesterday accused Rodney P. Brandon, state director of public welfare, of refusing to cooperate in cleaning up conditions in the school.

Thomas P. Gunning.

Gunning issued his criticism after Brandon released a statement on the escape of eight young Negro robbers Saturday night. All have been recaptured.

Sen. Gunning said that he informed Gov. Green that he will resign as chairman of the commission unless he gets more coöperation from Brandon.

No Surprise to Brandon.

Brandon, who has been deer hunting in Colorado for the last few days, returned yesterday. He asserted that escapes have occurred at the institution before and will probably occur again. He said the institution is not a penitentiary, but a detention home and training school.

He said also that he is waiting for Sen. Gunning's commission to turn over to the welfare department the buildings at Sheridan, La Salle county, so that the most incorrigible boys at St. Charles can be sent there. Sen. Gunning's commission is in charge of the construction of the new institution at Sheridan.

Brandon said: "We have two miles of fence around the training school at St. Charles and five trained guards from Stateville to patrol the grounds. I do not know how this number can watch 600 inmates so that none will escape. We try to prevent this by suasion."

Blames Brandon for Delay.

Sen. Gunning asserted that his commission has been delayed by Brandon's refusal to coöperate. He said that the institution at Sheridan is complete except for the construction of shops there for the prisoners.

"Brandon wants to send the incorrigible prisoners there and put them on a farm," he said. "This is what we have at the training school now. The commission spent two years investigating the training school and agreed that a special institution should be built for the tougher of the inmates and that they should be kept behind bars.

"The commission has been waiting for Brandon to recommend the kind of shops that should be installed at Sheridan. We have been waiting several months."

"The quicker Brandon gets out of his head the idea that the training school near St. Charles is not a penal institution, the better it will be for residents in that community and the state," he asserted.

G. E. Q. JOHNSON HITS ONE PARTY COURT CONTROL

George E. Q. Johnson, former federal judge and United States district attorney, yesterday assailed the results of Democratic monopolistic control of the Chicago Municipal court.

He spoke as chairman of a citizens' nonpartisan committee of 50 members which has organized to support the Republican nominees for that court—Lionel G. Thorsness for chief justice and Edwin W. Burch for associate judge.

"Unfit judges have been assigned to hear cases in important branches of the Municipal court, which is 100 per cent Democratic," said former Judge Johnson. The office of chief justice of the court is all important. Lionel G. Thorsness has the courage and character, the legal and administrative ability to restore the court to the place it was designed to fill in Chicago—the 'people's court.'"

Earl J. Walker, secretary of the citizens' nonpartisan committee supporting the Democratic sitting judges' ticket, issued a statement charging that the Republican organization's policy in this campaign is dictated completely by politics.

Dr. H. L. Pettit Is Named Assistant Health Chief

Morrison, Ill., Oct. 13 [Special].—Dr. Herbert L. Pettit of Morrison, was named assistant state director of public health today by Gov. Green. He will take charge of the office at Springfield Tuesday in the absence of Dr. Rolland Cross, who is attending a conference at Atlantic City. Pettit will continue his duties as chairman of the Whiteside County Republican central committee.

3 NIGHT CLUB BANDITS SLAY OWNER IN RAID

Cordova, Ill., Oct. 13 [Special].—Leroy Scribner, 55 years old, was wounded fatally today by three masked gunmen who raided his roadside night club near here and escaped with $2,500.

Scribner, wounded by two revolver bullets and eight buckshot pellets fired from a sawed off shotgun as he resisted the bandits, died a few hours later in a hospital in Clinton, Ia. Deputy sheriffs said that after shooting Scribner the bandits trussed Mrs. Scribner and a waitress with wire.

Mrs. Scribner said the three bandits, guns drawn, entered the night club as her husband was locking up. Scribner grappled with one of the gunmen, and one of his masked companions opened fire with a revolver.

Scribner fell, then got up and ran toward the bar. The third gunman shot him with the sawed off shotgun.

ROBBED OF $2,700 IN PELTS.

Sol Rosebblat, fur shop employé, reported to police yesterday that two stoplight bandits jumped into his car at Keeler avenue and Washington boulevard and drove off with 180 Persian lamb pelts valued at $2,700 after forcing him out of the car.

POLICE KILLER SEEKS PARDON ON 99 YEAR TERM

The pardon board in Springfield is scheduled today to hear the application for executive clemency of Joseph Majczek, 32 years old, who killed a policeman in 1932 while he was out on probation, and who is now serving a sentence of 99 years for the murder.

Joseph Majczek.

William V. Lundy, 15812 South Homan avenue, Markham, son of the slain policeman, William D. Lundy, is expected to attend the hearing and voice opposition to any clemency at all for Majczek, Wilbert F. Crowley, first assistant state's attorney, said he had written a letter opposing the pardon and if necessary will send a representative in person to oppose clemency.

Policeman Lundy, a veteran of 27 years on the police force, was shot to death Dec. 9, 1932, during an attempted holdup in Mrs. Vera Walush's delicatessen at 4312 South Ashland avenue.

FOUND DEAD IN GARAGE.

Betty Grable Gives Posture Advice to Her Contemporaries

[Copyright: 1941: By News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

We continue nagging, scolding, and advising about posture! We have used a lot of print warning that the new wardrobe is good only in proportion to the way one carries it, but you young women probably say: "O, is she at that again? "Just like mother, always nagging about how we stand!"

All right don't take it from us then. Take it from one more nearly your own age, from the attractive film star, Betty Grable, who says:

"Carry yourself well. Walk with grace. These are the two basic rules for wearing clothes to best advantage. The popular idea that a perfect figure is the only thing that counts, is wrong. Naturally, a good figure helps, but every one can't have one.

"However, good posture, which is available to all, is the simple secret to having clothes hang and fit well, with no unattractive bulges in the wrong places to spoil the line."

"To attain good posture calls for plenty of exercise," says Betty. "Setting-up exercises are best, since they are especially designed to strengthen muscles and eliminate slouch or bulges in the wrong places. Betty especially recommends cycling, not only for the leg muscles, but also as a back straightener, swimming for bust and shoulder development, and ice skating for general grace and ease of carriage.

According to CULBERTSON

[Copyright: 1941: By Ely Culbertson.]

As announced yesterday, the 1941 National Bridge examination starts in this column next Monday, Oct. 20. This, like previous exams, will be "self-rating," that is, examinees can easily keep their own scores by jotting down their answers and comparing them with the official answers which will appear precisely one week later. Accompanying the answers will be a varying number of demerit points for this or that wrong bid or play, said points to be successively deducted from the original automatic figure, 1,000. Obviously, as long as you agree with the official answers, you stand still, retaining your points; when you disagree, you are told how many points to deduct from your net total.

Many readers prefer to have their answers rated by me. This service is gladly rendered free of charge to all readers of this newspaper. Moreover, I send appropriate certificates to those examinees rated by myself who come out with a score entitling them to master, expert, or advanced ranking. [The basis of these rankings will be announced in tomorrow's column.] If you wish to take advantage of this service, keep your answers for one week and mail them in one batch to me, in care of this paper. Each batch must be post-marked on the Sunday at the week's end.

West opened the ten of diamonds. Dummy played the jack, and East won with the king. South won the heart return, and proceeded to make use of dummy's valuable eight and seven of diamonds. He cashed the ace of spades and led to dummy's nine, exhausting trumps and simultaneously gaining entry to dummy. The queen of diamonds next was led. East realized that the opening lead had marked the ace in his hand and saw no reason to withhold it. South trumped. Dummy now was entered with the king of spades, and the eight of diamonds was returned. On this South discarded his losing heart. West won with the nine of diamonds, but now dummy's seven was established for the discard of a losing club. South, therefore, lost only one club and two diamonds.

Note that if South had not made use of dummy's diamonds he would have lost two clubs and one trick in each red suit.

Blind Organist Gives Program of High Merit

BY EDWARD BARRY.

A blind organist seems more miraculous even than a blind pianist, for the organ's banks of stops and combination pistons—to say nothing of its several manuals, its pedal keyboard and its expression pedals—make it the most intricate of all musical instruments.

Yet at Kimball hall last night a blind organist, Frances Biery, gave a capable performance of a difficult program of music by Bach, Handel, and a group of 19th century and modern composers. She had evidently memorized the kinds of tone brought into play by the rows of combination pistons, and she was able to make her changes in registration with astonishing speed and accuracy.

Miss Biery proved herself an excellent technician. Her hands flew from manual to manual without noticeable break. Her pedal work was remarkably clean, and it had, when the music called for it, a good legato line.

That she is capable musically as well as technically was indicated by her performance of Bach's G minor fugue. Played with the noble delibereateness which the character of its subjects demands, the piece regained the dignity which thousands of race horse performances of it have so sadly compromised.

The recital was sponsored by the Chicago Club of Women Organists. An unusual note was the presence on the stage of Beth, the seeing eye dog which was presented to Miss Biery 15 months ago by the Blind Service association.

Knowing Correct Answers Opens Door to Success

BY DORIS BLAKE.

[Copyright: 1941: By News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

"Knowing the correct answers is important," says Vivienne Segal, stage star.

Frequently, in talking about a person, you will hear the observation, "she knows all the answers." The implication, of course, is that the person in question is just a little bit too smart. Miss Segal asserts that no girl should "know all the answers." Instead, she should know the CORRECT answers.

"The essential difference," says Vivienne, "is that knowing all the answers has a smart-alecky implication that immediately alienates any man the young woman might be trying to impress. Knowing the CORRECT answers, however, has a completely different meaning.

"Among the correct answers," continues Vivienne, "might be the 'no, thank you,' when the man asks if you will have another drink. It is up to you to know your own limitations in this respect, plus the limitations of the man's purse.

"Another item that should be given consideration is the problem of 'where to go.' The best way to impress upon a man that you are interested in him more than in where he might take you, is to let him make the selection. Most men will say, 'Where would you like to go?' The girl who worries more about the so-called 'good time' will immediately rattle off a list of expensive dining spots, theaters, and night clubs. The man shrinks inwardly as he literally sees his finances dwindle.

Don't Punish Child if His Play Is Risky

By GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS.

[Copyright: 1941: By News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

"Dear Mrs. Bevans:

"Your article, 'Fire Holds a Fascination for Children,' interests me greatly and makes me wonder how many children would respond with cheerfulness and would coöperate in a game, or method, we used with our oldest son, a child then between 2 and 4 years, distinctly a 'manual type.'

"From babyhood he had loved anything that was associated with the American Indian, and also with the furnace fire in our basement. How to handle these interests? Very quickly he was taught and improved upon our method of what he called 'making a fire.' It consisted of bits of wood broken from berry boxes, burnt matches, with some of the messy carbon eliminated, but enough left to keep the illusion; shreds of white and black tissue paper and bits of crumpled red cloth or red paper.

"What more perfect to Sonny's eyes? Lay the sticks campfire-wise, strike a 'match' or two, apply to wood, add white paper for first smoke, black for later effect, and, last, the bits of red. A first class fire, made more vivid by Melvin's vocal cracklings, sizzlings, roarings! It must have been later that he himself devised the 'furnace' made of his blocks, a hollow structure thru a hole ['door'] in which he laid his usual 'fire.'

"I do not know whether the child's father, or nurse, or I, or all together were responsible for this game, which was so greatly improved by our son's own imagination or initiative. But he never lighted a fire in the house, and never out of doors, until, at 7 years, he and an older and level headed boy and girl devised a 'fire fighter show' by burning a crate out of doors in a spot that could not be ignited. I think a garden hose effectively applied finished the game while I stood still and watched the performance which I had suddenly come upon!

"Do you think such a game would be wise for the average child, the imitation 'light a fire,' I mean? For several years it seemed to be a very real part of our son's domestic 'pre-kindergarten life.'

"The sequel? Son graduated as an 'M. E.' from Y—— and has been at some form of mechanical engineering ever since. And his girls and especially his small boy are very capable workers and mechanical as well as artistic and imaginative."

Looking Back—Continuing our glance backward over the year let's look at the personal year of Gen. Charles de Gaulle. He has just completed a long tour of important French territorial possessions, talking and gaining support for his cause. His personal contacts have been needed. Isn't this entirely in keeping with his three-year? The emphasis has been on friendly and personal contacts, gaining popularity for him and for his cause, promoting friendship, and getting publicity thru the written and spoken word. In your own three personal-year you may not be able to travel around the world to make these personal friendships, but you can increase your popularity right in your own little circle.

Make house-cleaning EASIER

Try this proved work-saving recipe
For best house cleaning results:
1. Sprinkle 1 teaspoonful Climalene (2 for extra heavy cleaning) in a gallon of warm water.
2. Wash, then wipe with a damp cloth.

Climalene cleans by dissolving grease to which dirt and stains cling. Cleans woodwork, floors, tiling and painted walls to a fresh brightness. Doesn't scratch, leaves no film.

Save work and time—use Climalene for everyday cleanup jobs and for general house cleaning.

Wayne-DuPage Hunter Trials Invitations Out

BY JUDITH CASS.

INVITATIONS to the Wayne-DuPage Hunter trials, to be held a week from Sunday, went out yesterday to the Longmeadow, the Onwentsia, the Mill Creek and the Fox River Valley hunts. According to the schedule before heavy rains made it necessary to postpone the Longmeadow and the Mill Creek trials, the ones in Wayne were to have been the last of the season, but now they will be the first in this area.

The trials will start at 10 in the morning with an open class held in the pastures adjoining the mare barn. After luncheon the Wayne-DuPage hunt class and hunter team trials will be held. Ribbons will be awarded in all classes and the hunt's challenge cup will be presented to the winner of the hunt class. The cup is "loaned" to the winner each year, but, if it should be won three times by the same person, it would go into his or her permanent possession.

Mrs. Orton Prime of Oconomowoc and Clark J. Lawrence, former master of the Longmeadow, will be the judges. Arthur Farwell, Corwith Hamill and Raymond O. Mitchell are assisting Charles R. Lindsay III., master of the Wayne-DuPage, in making arrangements for the trials. The Mill Creek trials will be held on Nov. 2 and the Longmeadow the following Sunday.

When the Wayne-DuPage gives its hunt ball [no date is set as yet] men will be in formal hunting regalia for the first time as pink coats have made their appearance in the Wayne hunt this season. Heretofore this hunt has been more or less informal, but now it is as formal as the Mill Creek and the Longmeadow.

Round of Parties Begins Tonight for Miss Frost.

Tonight sees the beginning of a round of parties for Miss Virginia Frost, who will be married to Louis Everard Hamor of Bar Harbor on Nov. 15. Her niece, Miss Nancy Dangler, will entertain for Miss Frost at a game party tonight in the Lake Forest home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. David Dangler. The Danglers, the bride's brother and his wife, will give the bridal dinner on the evening before the wedding.

Miss Lilace Barnes, Mrs. Norman Cram, Miss Virginia Newcomb, and Miss Marion Clow will entertain at a luncheon for Miss Frost at the Onwentsia on Friday. Mrs. Albert R. Brunker is planning a tea and linen shower for Wednesday, Oct. 22, at her home in Lake Forest.

Miss Frost's mother, Mrs. Charles Sumner Frost, will open her home in Lake Forest for the wedding which will take place at 4 o'clock. Until a few days before the wedding, Mrs. Frost and her daughter will be at the Deerpath inn. Mr. Hamor is expected to arrive here on Nov. 10.

Lecture Season Opens at Woman's Athletic Club.

A dramatic recital of "Enoch Arden" will open the lecture season today at the Woman's Athletic club. The program will be presented at 11:30 o'clock by Paul Leyssac, diseur, and Rudolph Ganz, pianist. Among those with reservations for luncheon parties following the lecture are Mrs. Kingsley Colton and Mrs. Eugene Kealy, who are entertaining together, as are Mrs. Jay Thompson and Mrs. George Mason; also Mrs. Robert Ross, Mrs. Herbert R. Butz, Mrs. Leroy Goddard, Mrs. James Bremner, Mrs. John Haverkampf, Mrs. Elmer Wieboldt, Mrs. Mark Trude, and Mrs. William E. Vogelhack.

An evening entertainment has been planned for the club members for Thursday night. A buffet dinner will be served and later there will be bridge and various other games. Mrs. Nicholas Starosselsky is in charge of this party.

Mr. Leyssac will give another program Thursday morning, Oct. 27, before members of the American Opera society at the Arts club. Sanford Schlussel will accompany Mr. Leyssac on the piano. A group of characterizations with music by American composers will be given. Mrs. Rend Clarke is president of the society.

Spanish Program to Be Given at Arts Club.

Early Spanish music, some of which has never been heard in Chicago, will be played by Joaquin Nin-Culmell at the first in a series of morning events at the Arts club at 11:30 o'clock Thursday. Mr. Nin-Culmell, a Spanish composer-pianist, is associated with the music department of Williams college and is a pupil of De Falla. He will discuss the composers and compositions included in his program. It will be the first time Mr. Nin-Culmell has been heard in Chicago. Mrs. Alfred P. Shaw, president of the club, will entertain at luncheon for him after the program.

Good Morning!

Truth crushed to earth rises and goes on a 24 hour rampage in this adaptation of the riotous and successful stage play of the same name.

It has become almost an adage that where there's Hope there's life in a film. . . . Certainly his happy personality is most infectious and an audience has a good time while he's on the screen if for no other reason than because he himself seems to be having such a whale of one. . . .

This trip, in the interests of romance, he makes a bet—$10,000 if you please — that for 24 hours he will speak the truth, the whole truth, and nothing BUT the truth in answer to all questions, none of which he can refuse to answer. . . .

Most of us have an idea that we're fairly veracious. But what would YOU say to a coy lady well on in years who asks you if she could pass for 30? Or to a prospective investor in a mine recommended by your business partner who demands YOUR opinion which doesn't in the least coincide with that of your associate? Or —well—you get the idea. . . .

Closely shadowed by his three partners with whom he has made the bet, hounded by a fair and unscrupulous actress, entertained—and abhorred—by the wife of one of his partners whose yacht party is disrupted by the Awful Truth, as reluctantly but determinedly dealt out by the unhappy guest—and observed and misunderstood by the girl for whom he is sacrificing himself, our hero sticks to his guns. . . .

He's smart, but not smart enough to outsmart one of his partners who turns the clock ahead. [This is the weak link in the story, for, of course, under such conditions a bet wouldn't hold.] However, he is saved by his Negro valet [amusingly portrayed by Willie Best]—and the picture shall enlighten you further.

Mr. Hope, in fine fettle, is excellently assisted by Edward Arnold, Lief Erickson, and Glenn Anders as his partners. . . . Feminine charm is represented pleasantly by Paulette Goddard as the heroine and Helen Vinson as the actress. Mary Forbes as the hostess and Catharine Doucet as the "30" lady are clever and handsome. So is Rose Hobart as a justly suspicious wife.

The picture is pleasingly brief and the stage show this week is well worth seeing. . . . Larry Adler and his harmonica are alone worth the price of admission.

See you tomorrow.

Looking at Hollywood
By John Chapman

Hollywood, Cal., Oct. 13.—The war is changing the course of the movies. It is charged that they have been turned into an instrument for interventionist propaganda. There has always been much talk about "escapist" pictures—happy things that make people forget. Darryl Zanuck is reported to have ordered that all flickers have happy endings, and he remade "Yank in the RAF" so that Ty Power gets hurt instead of killed. Paramount is coining money with a set of pictures that are pure show business.

But I have a notion that, when the war is over and we sit back and try to figure out what it really did to the cinema, we may discover that the most memorable and most important films were those having a quality of spirituality. I don't mean excellent fantasies such as "Here Comes Mr. Jordan"; I mean such pictures as "Sergeant York," "One Foot in Heaven," and "How Green Was My Valley."

"One Foot in Heaven" is a great picture because it gives you all of a man who has found and who spreads religion.

John Ford's "How Green Was My Valley" is a great picture because it, too, involves the spiritual qualities of men and women—the qualities of decency and kindliness and love for one another. It is the story of a little boy, Roddy McDowall, in a Welsh coal mining town, and in it, too, is a minister, beautifully and honestly played by Walter Pidgeon. Unlike "Heaven," which leaves you with a thrill of pride and hope for the human soul, "Valley" ends on a down beat. But when it is over you have lived with fine people and have loved and suffered with them. And you come away with a high regard for the integrity of Mr. Ford and the many others who made the picture possible.

Any year in which Hollywood—so often and so rightly accused of stupidity and bad taste—can turn out such films is a great year. Perhaps it is the war which has made them possible. Maybe the best escapist movie is an escape into real people.

In "The Maltese Falcon" there's a scene in which Humphrey Bogart quickly disarms a gunman by pulling his overcoat off his shoulders and pinning his arms with it. Bogey does it expertly. You may have noticed that the star has a long, thin scar under his right eye. He points to the scar and says, "I ought to know about the coat trick. That's how I got this, many years ago in Greenwich Village. I was the guy with the coat."

Opinion: Research would prove that the long kiss story has been the most successful publicity stunt since Hollywood began. Newspapers will fall for a kiss yarn and kiss picture every time.

Willie Best gave Assistant Director Jesse Hibbs four different telephone numbers when Hibbs was making out the call sheet for the Warners' "Juke Girl." "I gets around quite a bit at night," Willie explained. "Can't find me one place, bound to be at another, or they'll know where else I is."

In Mark Hellinger's "Rise and Shine" there's a shot of Linda Darnell and George Murphy riding bikes. This is made by taking the picture from a moving car.

A camera crew was sent out on a road to make some footage at exactly 8 miles an hour, and at 20. There were two speed cops on hand to detour traffic. The camera car driver asked one of the cops, "Would you mind checking my speedometer? This has got to be made just right."

"Better ask my partner," said the ticket giver. "My speedometer's no good at all."

Chicago Gets Its Longed-For Big Music Show

"LOUISIANA PURCHASE."

Musical comedy in two acts and 15 scenes. Book by Morrie Ryskind, based on a story by B. G. De Sylva. Music and lyrics by Irving Berlin. Staged by Edgar MacGregor. Ballets by George Balanchine. Dances by Carl Randall. Costumes and scenery by Tom Lee. Presented by B. G. De Sylva in the Erlanger theater, Monday evening, Oct. 13, 1941.

THE PLAYERS.

BY CECIL SMITH.

Chicago's hunger for a big, lively musical show was finally allayed last evening, and "Louisiana Purchase" rode to success upon the laughter and applause of a capacity audience. That prosperity and public support lie ahead of the new entertainment at the Erlanger there can be little reason to doubt, for it is based on the classic assumption, borne out by years of theatrical history, that the best way to create a hit show is to assemble quite a lot of everything.

B. G. De Sylva's wholehearted application of this principle to the production of "Louisiana Purchase" leaves the show something of an anomaly. In the large, it is by no means a work of art, yet Victor Moore's inspired performance as a vague but incorruptible Yankee senator in a hotbed of Louisiana corruption places the unmistakable imprint of artistry upon every scene he shares. Most of Irving Berlin's tunes seem anything but works of genius when their first exposition is heard, yet they lend themselves with good effect to development and ensemble.

George Balanchine's choreography, surprisingly, is messy and lacking in clarity, while Carl Randall's ideas for the more popular dances are brilliant and cleanly devised.

The greatest strength of "Louisiana Purchase" lies not in its song and dance materials, which are unoriginal if fairly prolific and energetic, but in the vitality and diversity of its expensive stars. Mr. Moore, the greatest proponent of homespun naiveté on the comic stage today, makes enchanting capital of his opportunities.

It is worth an evening at the Erlanger to see him participating in Mardi Gras festivities in a Roman senatorial toga, which, by his own confession, is "rather breezy"; to hear him list the calamitous experiences of more talented lovers than himself, with froglike eloquence, in a song called "What Chance Have I?"; or to see the effect upon his equilibrium of a beverage he supposes to be Mississippi river water, which is really quite something else.

Vera Zorina, radiantly blonde and dancing nearly as well as before, reveals a wry sense of fun-making which we had not altogether recognized in her, and even tries a little singing. Irene Bordoni, who has not lost a whit of her piquancy, is a wonderfully welcome member of the cast as Mme. Bordelaise, restaurant keeper and confidante of the corrupt Louisiana politicians who keep the plot going. The audience loved her two songs, "Tomorrow Is a Lovely Day" and "Latins Know How." William Gaxton works hard and animatedly, and plugs his lines and songs with the Broadway gusto which has made and kept him a favorite.

Morrie Ryskind's book sizzles with good natured reminiscences of the bookkeeping methods of Louisiana politicians in the last decade, and provides many amusing punch lines about the present state of affairs in Washington. To Mr. Ryskind's eternal credit, he has shown that a musical comedy book can be funny without becoming encrusted with filth.

"Louisiana Purchase" is as short on secondary talent as it is long on stars. Karen Cooper bludgeons her hearers with her songs instead of swaying them as Carol Bruce originally did. The chorus does well enough, but we have certainly seen more precise dancing and dancing of more uniform technical excellence.

So there you are: A lavish show, an expensively cast one, a long and generous one.

Exemption Claim.

Three brothers, members of a company of acrobats, came into a local draft board to fill out their questionnaires, Robert Lederer reports. One of them claimed exemption because he is the one at the bottom who supports the other two.

Service.

The dietitian at Henrotin hospital telephoned the drug store across the street. "Please send over six bottles of X," she said, naming a popular soft drink. A short time later a well dressed man whom the receptionist recognized vaguely as a former patient, but not a druggist's clerk, arrived at the front office with the bottles. He declined payment. "I guess you got the wrong number, but you were so nice to me here I'm happy to do something in return."

Title.

Recently the younger daughter of Dr. Morris Fishbein found among her souvenirs a tiny straw hat in a box, one that had been distributed to the first night audience in Al Jolson's Hold On to Your Hats. Her family was trying to recall the name of the production at which the hats had been distributed.

"Panama Hattie?" ventured the elder daughter of the house.

Cuffnotes.

The story of a tenderfoot dentist now is added to the list of country doctors, school teachers and editors with Sagebrush Dentist by Will Frackleton in collaboration with Herman Gastrell Seely, Chicago newspaper man. . . . Gypsy Rose Lee, carrying her chihuahua, was on hand for the opening of a "thrift house" in a loop store's furniture department and, strolling into the Victorian bedroom, she ordered all the Victorian lamps at one sweep, including a rose trimmed plaster base with opaque white shade and a plaster hand holding a vase of flowers under an oval shade. . . . Larry Adler's latest story: Two logs were floating downstream. One saying to the other, "I feel fine today. Last night I slept like a man." . . .

From the War Manuevers.

Private T. J. Brennan at Camp Forrest relays a quip he picked up during the recent Louisiana maneuvers, along with poison ivy, poison oak, and wood ticks.

"No one can say they came thru that war without a scratch," commented a fellow soldier.

Black and Blue Make Knockout Style Contrast

BY REA SEEGER.

A black and blue color scheme these days isn't the aftermath of anything more painful than shopping for something new and subtly feminine in a color combination. One of the best color contrasts is soft sky blue with dull black! You will find very flattering daytime dresses, really afternoon models, using the two colors. Some have the front half of the dress pale blue, the back dull black; some have deep shirred yokes of the soft blue, and narrow cuffs on the shirred elbow length sleeves. Other models have gathered apron effects of the blue against the black, or alternating panels in both bodice and flared skirt of black with blue.

Dress suits consist of black dress and pale blue wool short jacket, or black jackets with a blue yoke matched to a black dress with a matching blue yoke. Black coats are lined with pale blue to blend with the blue under dress and so on. There are any number of blue costume accessory ideas in hats, long and short gloves, veiling, bags, and beautiful blouses in crêpe, satin, thin wool, net, chiffon and lace. Even costume jewelry uses blue enamel or shimmering moonstones, turquoise, or simulated star-sapphires.

You will also find blue plaids, blue checks and stripes sharpened with occasional black accents. The plaid skirts and plaid jackets slide over black contrasts, or can be worn together under a black topcoat. Blue dresses under black coats combine for extremely high fashion ensembles with the coat furred or unfurred. Either the classic swagger or a reefer is the ideal topper.

SYNOPSIS.

Gay Ripley, young American girl in Paris to buy antiques for her New York firm, runs into her Cousin Lou Rentrew, a rich widow, who insists Gay stay with her. Soon after Gay moves in, her cousin is taken to the hospital, ill, and Gay is left in the apartment with her cousin's brother-in-law, Horace, and the servants, Manx and Hortense. She goes to the hospital to see her cousin and meets Miles Dorsey, a young English lawyer, Raoul de Chabenil, a handsome gigolo, and Estrella, a dressmaker. Her cousin insists Gay take her jewel box, containing a valuable antique necklace, home and put it in her wall safe. Though Manx is waiting outside in the Rentrew car, Raoul persuades Gay to ride home with him. That night she dines with Miles Dorsey and Catherine and Geoff Macadam. Macadam and Dorsey are partners in the firm that handles Mrs. Rentrew's business. They see Raoul and Estrella together at a nearby table and Catherine tells Gay Raoul has an unscrupulous reputation. That night Gay's cousin dies, presumably of a stroke but after Horace demands an inquest it comes out she died of an overdose of a powerful drug which any of her guests at the hospital might have put into her soup. The night of her death, Gay overhears some one in her room and the next morning the necklace has disappeared. The police are called in and the next night Gay again hears some one in her room and she is overpowered by ether. When she awakens, the necklace has been returned. By the will of Cousin Lou's dead husband, all his property, upon his wife's death, in case she never remarried, was to go to Horace, with small cash sums to Gay and her family and to Manx and Hortense. Gay, deciding to do some sleuthing on her own, visits Estrella, on pretense of having a gown made. Hiding in a hall closet, she learns that Estrella's brother, Doctor Borosh, sells drugs illicitly, and that Estrella and Raoul are lovers. She also overhears Alixe, Mrs. Rentrew's discharged maid, sell some important letters to Estrella and learns that Alixe was one of Borosh's patients. Manx has been acting queerly and Gay feels he has been trailing her. While she and Horace are playing backgammon, they hear a body falling and looking out, see Hortense dead in the court below. Things indicate that it might be murder. Miles drops by and warns Gay against further sleuthing.

INSTALMENT XXXII.

QUESTIONING.

"I drove past here on purpose," Miles Dorsey answered dryly. "Never mind why. I'm glad I did, particularly now I learn from Rentrew that you're being questioned at the Palais de Justice tomorrow morning at 10. Did the inspector tell you that?"

"He did. Any objection?"

"Good, I'll come along and pilot you down to the island."

"Oh, aren't you working any more?"

* *

The vast pile of the Palace rises forbiddingly out of the Seine and spans the tiny island of the Cite from qual to qual. All I'd known of it was the Conciergerie—gray crypts, once the prison of doomed aristocrats—and Sainte Chapelle, needlepoint spire piercing the great mass, glowing rose-windows jealously hidden from view.

The multitude of interior courts was a revelation. The place was a huge beehive. I'd never have found my way. Mr. Dorsey took me up the right staircase and outside an anteroom prepared to leave me to my fate. All along the river and gay tulip beds of the Tuileries he'd hardly spoken a word, but now he seemed dragooning himself to offer me some sort of counsel.

"Don't volunteer anything." His lips barely moved. "Not anything. Understand? If they tackle you about the Rue de Sevres, say you went there to give an order to the lingerie woman—which you did—but no more. I'm a lawyer. I can tell you it's wise in these cases to answer the questions put to you and leave the finding out to the police."

"Thanks," I said, "for the legal advice. I wonder if Manx ever worked for a solicitor?"

I'd stung him. I'd meant to. Nothing could have flabbergasted me more than to find him, in the act of swallowing back an angry retort, making a rough grab at my hand.

"Why all this pretense of being hard-boiled?" he gritted sternly. "It's rot. You're shivering all over."

I wriggled; he held my hand in a vice. Words tumbled out of me.

"Yes, Mr. Miles Dorsey—and why? Because if I'm not cleared in every direction, quick, before this thing gets overseas, I'll be stranded—for keeps. I've known what it's like to be job hunting in New York City. I wouldn't care to be doing it under a cloud."

Gosh! Had I really said it—to this man? I could have bitten off my tongue, still feeling as I did that it was more than possible he'd been after an old woman's money and that all this sticking to me like a burr and shushing me ostensibly for my own good could so easily bear an ugly interpretation.

"So that's it!" He'd have sounded amused only even now he was inhibiting annoyance. "Then let me point this out to you, Gay Ripley: There can be worse happenings than the mere loss of a job. At risk of being classed with your cousin's butler I insist that your safety, yes, your life, if you must have it, may depend entirely on what information you choose to give out. Rid your mind of every possible bias. Just remember—Hortense."

"Hortense! Then you do think she didn't——"

"Stop! Under his sudden pressure my finger-bones grated. "I say frankly I don't know what to believe about her death. I do know, tho, your reason for discounting my—my legal advice. It was bound to happen," he mumbled savagely. "I tried to keep Catherine quiet about the Saint Christophe affair, but it's done now, and you must simply draw your own conclusions. A little cool judgment might temper those conclusions, but——"

Sudden silence. He released my aching hand. And now I saw what he had seen—a man in rusty black, appeared round an angle of cold corridor and sending me a granite stare. He referred to a foolscap sheet.

"Mlle. Reeply?" he called.

"Goodby, Mr. Dorsey," I said, and followed the beckoning thumb.

A sickly green room, split by a long table. Behind the table a paunchy, spade-bearded man who by his complexion might have spent about 50 years in an underground cell. At a second table sat a lesser person, pen poised for note taking. The usher pushed a nail studded chair against the back of my knees so hard I was forced to sit on it, and we were all set. All, at least, but the judge, who went on writing. It was some time before he laid aside a sheet of spidery characters and gave me the benefit of his bilious, disillusioned eyes.

"Mlle. Ripley? American citizen? Relative of Mme. Marie Louise Rentrew, deceased? Good. Will you interpret this message?" He held towards me a typed page.

"This?" I blinked, all at sea.

"Just so, mademoiselle. A copy of a cablegram sent by you yesterday to one Goldmark of New York City. Below is the reply. What do these messages mean?"

My cablegrams, intercepted! Outraged, I read what poor Mr. Goldmark had shot back:

"Hard luck girlie stop hocus pocus unlikely stop eyes peeled all the same stop cheerio no decision re merger."

I smiled. "It's purely a matter connected with the business that brought me to Paris. A supposedly genuine Riesener table is about to be sold to one of my firm's best customers, and I advised the New York end to check up on it."

I could see my explanation did not go down any too well, and, greatly to my astonishment, that the judge seemed to know something about antiques. Accusingly he told me that authenticated works of the celebrated artist, Riesener, rarely came into the market these days.

"Very rarely. That's why I wondered if this table were a fake."

"You have tried to secure a Riesener table?"

"And failed."

The judge stroked his beard. Still wanting to believe, I supposed, that both messages contained some sinister code. He asked what nature of antiques I'd been buying. I told him—furniture, objets d'art, very occasionally pictures.

"And jewelry?"

Now, quakingly, I understood. "Only in exceptional cases," I said. "The article would have to have some peculiar interest."

"Historic value, perhaps?"

"Well, yes." I looked him in the eye.

He worried the topic till my nerves were in tatters, then he looked again at Goldmark's comeback. Merger! What did that mean? I explained. He kept his eyes pinned to me, and said, shrewdly and bitingly:

"No news. In other words, mademoiselle, are you at present unemployed?"

God! Why had he got to ask me that? "Well, literally, I am, but——"

"Unemployed." [I saw the clerk write it down.] "Private resources?"

"None. I don't mean I'm stranded or anything like that, only that——"

"No resources. You realized your position regarding this merger before you took up your residence with the deceased?"

"I got the cable just as the invitation was issued. In Morgan's bank, right after I arrived."

"Did you acquaint your hostess with the situation?"

"Certainly not. I keep things like that to myself."

A long look. It went down to my bones.

"Quite so, mademoiselle. And now concerning your family in New York. You have a brother. He is a physician?"

Who'd told him about Phil? Horace—obviously. Meaning no harm, just being turned inside out, blabbing whatever he was asked to. O, why hadn't I held my confiding tongue?

"He is."

"A practicing physician?"

"No, doing research at the Rockefeller Foundation."

He found out all about that, then he let it rest and dragged me step by harrowing step thru over my two statements to the police—one following my Wednesday night tussle, the other after Hortense's plunge to her death.

"Mademoiselle," he pounced, "on which side of the cook's door was the key?"

Symphony Holds First Rehearsal of Its 51st Season

The Chicago Symphony orchestra held the first rehearsal of its 51st season in Orchestra hall yesterday. Frederick Stock, who is beginning his 37th season as conductor, was in charge. He introduced three new members to the orchestra—all graduates of the Civic orchestra, the Orchestral association's training school. They are Jerry Ciroucek, oboe; Helen Kotas, horn, and Sydney Baker, trumpet.

Edward L. Ryerson, president of the Orchestral association, addressed the members of the orchestra yesterday. Franz Esser, viola, oldest member of the orchestra in point of service, began his 50th season. This will be Hans Lange's sixth season as associate conductor.

The first concerts of the 51st season will be presented in Orchestra hall under Dr. Stock's direction next Thursday night and Friday afternoon. They will include a memorial tribute to Charles L. Hamill, honorary president of the Orchestral association, who died last Aug. 10.

When there's almost nothing else in the house to eat, there are usually the makings of some kind of cream soup. A little butter, flour, salt, pepper, and milk are the foundation. Onions, potatoes, tomatoes, carrots, celery, spinach, one or several of these and other vegetables will lend more substance and flavoring. Cream soups are nourishing lunches for the whole family.

CREAM OF TOMATO SOUP.
[Serves four.]

1 No. 2 can tomatoes, strained
2 slices onion
1 teaspoon salt
⅛ teaspoon pepper
2 tablespoons butter
2 tablespoons flour
2 cups milk.

Add onion, salt, and pepper to tomato purée and simmer 10 minutes. Remove onion. Blend butter and flour, add milk gradually and cook in saucepan to smooth, thickened sauce. Add tomato purée, stirring constantly. Taste and add more salt, if needed. Heat to boiling point and serve.

CREAM OF ONION SOUP.
[Serves six.]

¼ cup butter
4 onions, thinly sliced
3 tablespoons flour
1½ quarts milk
½ teaspoon sugar
1½ teaspoons salt
⅛ teaspoon pepper.

Cook sliced onions gently in butter until soft. Sprinkle in flour. Stir to blend, and add milk gradually, stirring until thickened. Simmer for 20 minutes with remaining seasonings.

CREAM OF SALMON SOUP.
[Serves five.]

1 cup finely flaked salmon
1 quart milk
4 tablespoons flour
1½ teaspoons salt
⅛ teaspoon pepper
2 tablespoons minced parsley or chives.

Scald salmon and milk together. Melt butter, blend in flour and seasonings, and add milk gradually. Cook until smooth and thickened. Simmer gently 10 minutes longer. Serve with a garnish of parsley or chives on each portion.

$30,000 Is Subscribed for Children's Museum

Approximately $30,000 has been pledged for support of a proposed children's museum in Chicago, Miss Lucille Windette, chairman of the sponsoring group, announced last night at a meeting at the Chicago Academy of Sciences. Present plans call for location of the museum on Lake Shore drive near Belmont harbor, she said. The guest speaker at the meeting was Mrs. William Lloyd Garrison III., curator in chief of the Brooklyn Children's museum.

Chicago Opera Offers Coupon Books for Sale

The Chicago Opera company yesterday announced a sale of coupon books which will reduce the price of admissions by about 10 per cent. Books may be purchased at $10, and will be worth $11 at the box office. Coupons will be good for any seat priced between $1.25 and $4.50 for any performance except the preseason "Masked Ball" on Nov. 8 and the board of education's popular priced Friday night series.

Detroit Symphony Players Strike for 28 Week Season

Detroit, Mich., Oct. 13 [Special].—Detroiters will hear no symphony concerts this winter, it appeared today when 81 musicians of the orchestra refused the Detroit Symphony society's offer for a 21 week season. The musicians want a 28 week season.

The first rehearsal, scheduled for today, was canceled when the musicians walked out and assembled at their union hall. Jack Ferentz, president of the Detroit Federation of Musicians [AFL] and Fred Birnbach, of New York, national secretary of the American Federation of Musicians, issued an ultimatum declaring that the orchestra members will not rehearse unless the symphony season is extended beyond 21 weeks.

Murray G. Paterson, symphony manager for the society, said the season has been 21 weeks in Detroit for several years, and that an extension would cost the society $7,000. Even a 21 week season will pile up a deficit of $20,000, he asserted.

Union officials said they were demanding a 28 week season because that is the length for most other major orchestras in the country.

taché to China, will speak to the Friends of China at 4 o'clock on Thursday at the Arts club, opening the group's new season. Mr. Arnold, who now makes his home in Berkeley, Cal., will be accompanied to Chicago by his wife, Mrs. Harley MacNair will preside.

English Couple to Give Talks at Casino Club.

The English-Speaking union will hear of "Britain's Changing Economy" from Mr. and Mrs. Leonard K. Elmhirst, whom it will entertain at luncheon tomorrow at the Casino club. Mr. and Mrs. Elmhirst, founders of the famous Dartington Hall school, each will speak following luncheon at 12:30 o'clock. Mr. Elmhirst's subject will be the impact of total war upon the rural population of England, and Mrs. Elmhirst, an American by birth, will tell of the economic effects on women and children.

Mrs. Walter B. Wolf and her aides will marshal the St. Luke's hospital fashion show mannequins for a first rehearsal at 2:30 o'clock today at the Fortnightly club. Tea will be served. The show will be given next Tuesday at the Stevens hotel.

"Frieda Foltz cocktail party will have to be postponed to Friday, Oct. 24, due to illness" read telegrams received on Sunday by those whom Miss Foltz had invited to a party today. They all will be glad to hear that Miss Foltz is not seriously ill. She has a sore throat but she knows from experience that it will be at least a week or 10 days before she is feeling up to giving a party.

Mrs. Robert McKenna New Nursery Board President.

With two important pieces of business out of the way, the board of the North Avenue Day nursery can afford to rest on its laurels for a while, should it feel so inclined. Yesterday the board met to hear that $1,250 had been raised at its party last Saturday night at the Saddle and Cycle club and to elect Mrs. Robert McKenna president in place of Mrs. Robert F. Carr Jr., who has moved to California. Mrs. McKenna will serve until Jan. 1 when the annual election will take place.

Mrs. Carr was a godmother last Sunday at the christening of her nine months old nephew, Samuel A. Culberton III. The ceremony took place in the Trinity Episcopal church in Santa Barbara. Paul Lyons of Chicago was a godfather. Mrs. Cranston Chamberlin, also an aunt of the baby, was the other godmother and Towar Bates of Morristown, N. J., was the other godfather. Following the church rites the baby's maternal grandmother, Mrs. L. Stuart Wing, and Mr. Wing entertained at their home in Montecito. The baby's other grandmother, Mrs. Wallace Kirk of Chicago, also attended the christening.

Mr. and Mrs. Raymond E. Brookby [Frances Ann Mellick] are being congratulated on the birth of a daughter on Friday in the Evanston hospital. The baby has been named Edith Ann for her two grandmothers, Mrs. Harry Brookby and Mrs. Joseph H. Mellick.

ENGAGEMENT

Mr. and Mrs. George F. Rung of South Winston avenue announce the engagement of their daughter, Marcelle, to Dr. Ernest C. Wille Jr., son of Mrs. Wille of South Drexel boulevard.

Farewell to Be Tendered Dr. and Mrs. Thompson

A farewell reception for the Rev. Dr. and Mrs. John Thompson will be held tonight at Chicago temple, 77 West Washington street. The reception will signalize the close of 21 years of service by Dr. Thompson as pastor of the famous skyscraper loop church.

SOX SEEK POWER; READY TO TRADE APPLING

DOUBLRAB HAS OLD SPARK EVEN WHEN IT RAINS

Beats De Kalb in Mud at Sportsman's.

BY HOWARD BARRY.

Doublrab, the horse which had shown a blaze of midsummer speed on a dry track, yesterday refused to allow that spark to be doused in the mud and rain which plagued the opening of Sportsman's Park. Doublrab undertook to run head and head with the highly regarded short sprinter, De Kalb, during the early stages of the five furlong Columbus Day handicap. And it took him just about half a mile to conquer his rival, which had been made the 6 to 5 favorite.

Doublrab came on home a length and a half in advance of De Kalb, which was saving second place, two and a half lengths in advance of Crossbow II. The winner was quoted at a little better than 4 to 1 in the betting, returning $10.20, $4 and $2.80 across the board.

Strange Flag Shares Halyards.

Despite the depressing weather, a capacity crowd jammed the popular track for the opening day program. The eyes of the patrons wandered with approval over the beautifully landscaped, neatly appointed course. The approval was unanimous until their gaze rested on the flag pole. Here the opinion divided sharply. The congress, as of Oct. 13, had issued no formal declaration of war, a strange flag which bore a white V on a blue background shared the halyards with the Stars and Stripes.

Memphis, one of the most notorious quitters of the season, was unable to win even in the rôle of a Sportsman's Park favorite. After three public choices had scored in a row, Memphis went to the post at 9 to 5 odds in the five furlong Inaugural purse, led as far as the last turn and then folded up completely to finish sixth while Sawwood, the 3 to 1 second choice, was going on to win by three lengths from New Glory. Casual Play was third.

Double Returns Only $9.80.

Sawwood, which was scoring his first victory since the Washington Park meeting, returned $8.60, $4.20, and $3.80 across the board.

Sportsman's Park favorites, which win more consistently than those at any other Chicago area track, made a strong start when Gold Mesh won the first race and Pate's Girl the second. This combination paid the shortest priced double of the Chicago season—$9.80. Both were 7 to 5 choices.

Gold Mesh, with N. L. Pierson aboard, led all the way and scored by three lengths over Royal Charm, but it took one of Steve Brooks' characteristically strong finishes to land Pate's Girl home in front in the second. Brooks, who had ridden 59 winners during the Hawthorne meeting for one of the most remarkable performances of recent years, didn't have a mount in the first race and was making his Sportsman's Park fall debut on Pate's Girl. So he was particularly anxious to make it a winning ride.

Pate's Girl Moves Up on Turn.

While Mandate and Guest Star were engaging in a hard duel for the early lead in this 6½ furlong dash, Brooks was rating Pate's Girl along in third place. Going down the backstretch, three furlongs from home, Brooks began urging his mount, which had been showing an inclination to drop a bit too far back of the two leaders. Pate's Girl moved up steadily on the turn and passed Guest Star as the stretch run began. Closing stoutly under strong handling she caught Mandate in the last sixteenth and drew out to win by a length.

Today and every Tuesday of the meeting will be ladies' day. Women will be admitted on payment of state and federal taxes of 28 cents. Post time will be 2 p. m. The Illinois Central race train will leave from Van Buren station at 1:10 p. m. instead of 1:20 p. m., which was the starting time during the Hawthorne meeting.

LANDIS WINNING OVER PNEUMONIA, DOCTOR REPORTS

Petoskey, Mich., Oct. 13 (AP).—Baseball Commissioner Kenesaw Mountain Landis, ill with bronchial pneumonia, was reported tonight by his physician, Dr. Dean C. Burns, to be steadily improving.

Dr. Burns said Landis, who will be 75 years old Nov. 20, was being placed in an oxygen tent at intervals to ease breathing. Landis was admitted to Little Traverse hospital here last Friday after he had overexerted himself on a hiking trip.

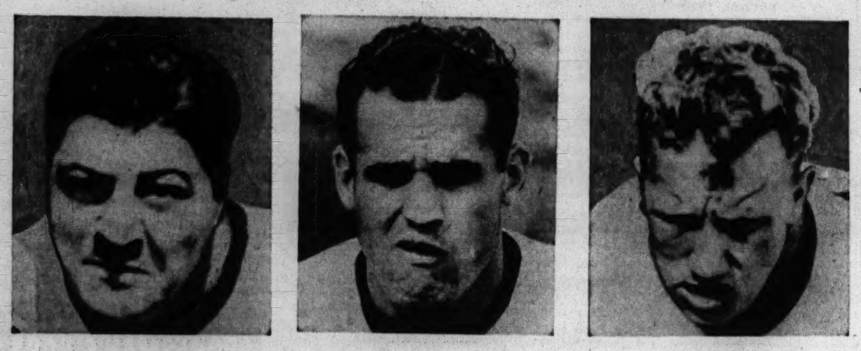
Could These Expressions Be Helping Those Bears?



GEORGE MUSSO. KEN KAVANAUGH. AL BAISI.

The Chicago Bears are the scourge of the National Football league, with their 42 point a game average, but even fellows like the three pictured above are gentle and good to their mothers—off the gridiron. But here's how they look in the heat of battle, altho Coach Jim Conzelman may ask where are the horns and the smoke he declares were coming out of their nostrils Sunday when they beat his Cardinals, 53 to 7.

CARDS HOLD UP CHINS AGAIN, AT LEAST AWHILE

BY EDWARD PRELL.

The Chicago Cardinals are going to keep on playing football, Coach Jim Conzelman said yesterday, just in case anyone who saw them lose to the Bears Sunday in Wrigley field, 53 to 7, had any doubts about it. Moreover, declared Conzelman, the Cards are going to play some good football before the season is over.

"We're going to forget that one," said the man who has had two discouraging nights and two discouraging days in four National Football league games this year. "When a team is hot, especially a great team like the Bears, it's just too bad for the one they're playing. After all, we're not the first team to feel their crushing power. The Redskins, the Rams and the College All-Stars, I imagine, can give a few testimonials about the Bears."

Posies for the Bears.

"As for myself I am ready to make my deposition now about the Bears. I thought the 1940 group which ran up 73 points on the Redskins was the best I have ever seen. But this 1941 club is much better."

The reasons?

"Well, Young Bussey at quarter back has been a great understudy for Sid Luckman. Hugh Gallarneau and Norm Standlee came to the Bears from Stanford thoroly grounded in the T formation, man-in-motion system. And some of the other Bears are just coming up to their peak. The old ones have given way to competent youngsters. Add to all this the increased confidence which comes to a champion."

Conzelman said the task of meeting the Packers and Bears on successive Sundays was too much for his limited personnel.

No More Blood in the Turnip.

"We got, you might say, blood out of a turnip in the Green Bay game, which we almost won," said the Cardinal coach. "It was too much, I guess, to expect that another near miracle could happen seven days later against a team like the Bears.

"When we drove down the field after the Bears had scored a touchdown at the start of the game, I thought we might have a chance. But when Fortmann intercepted that pass on the 5 yard line we just collapsed. They were too big, strong, and numerous for us.

"We looked for a passing attack but their receivers were just too good. We had 'em covered on three or four of the passes which went for touchdowns, but somehow a Bear always wound up with the ball. Marshall Goldberg was preparing to bat down the pass Bob Swisher caught late in the game when another Cardinal bumped him."

The Cardinals will be strictly a road team between now and Dec. 7 when they will meet these same Bears again in Comiskey park. Conzelman has a long time to make plans for that one. Maybe he can string some hidden bear traps on the field, hoping to catch a McAfee or a Swisher.

Illini Improve, but Still Lack Weight, Years

BY WILFRID SMITH.

The Illinois-Minnesota game Saturday once more emphasized the fundamental principle of football that no eleven can be great without a fast heavy line. There is no substitute for power accurately applied by a charging line or in individual open field blocking.

Without detracting from the reputation of the Gophers or minimizing their ability, Illinois definitely belongs in the second half of the Big Nine. Its material, except for a few players, is completely outclassed by the football men of Minnesota, Michigan, Northwestern, and Ohio State. Illinois meets these squads and also plays Notre Dame. Unless the Illini whip Iowa, a potentially more powerful team, they will finish a second year without a Big Nine victory.

Quality of Material Differs.

It is impossible to have equality in material at the Big Nine universities. Enrollment, matriculation requirements, tuition, and amount of practice time make for differences. From this point one moves to advantages created by alumni interests and administrative policy. It is not strange that over a score of years practically the same Big Nine universities have been struggling to break the athletic domination of the conference by the same group of leaders.

From tackle to tackle the Illinois line which started against Minnesota averaged 190 pounds. The same five men in the Gopher line averaged 215 pounds. The weights are program weights. Illinois' men averaged 20.2 years of age. The Minnesota men averaged 21.8 years. The difference of 19 months is quite important in physical development. Generally speaking it also represents just that much more experience either in high school or in the university.

No Reflection on Minnesota.

Again may we insist that because pounds and years favor Minnesota it is no reflection on the conduct of Minnesota athletics. These are statements of fact. Consider the age of the Gophers' sophomore football class. The ages of the 37 players in this athletic classification are divided as follows: 18 years, 2; 19 years, 11; 20 years, 14; 21 years, 7; 22 years, 1, and 23 years, 2.

Illinois has a better football team than in 1940, but this squad still is no match for the higher bracket of the conference. Only a miracle will prevent Notre Dame whipping Illinois as easily as Minnesota did.

Illinois needs, for instance, another trio of linemen such as Lloyd Burdick, Lou Gordon, and Butch Nowak. These men were the Gibralter on which Bob Zuppke built his last championship teams. It can't be done these days with a transplanted end at tackle, weight 189 pounds; and a sophomore center of 188 pounds at the other tackle.

Wilson Throws Frickey.

Elmer Engel, an end in 1940, played 60 minutes Saturday at tackle. He was the only full time Illinois player. Thruout Minnesota had a ratio advantage of 2 to 1 in material over the Illini. Best of the Illinois linemen was Bob Wilson,

WEDDING BELLS FOR RED GRANGE; AN AIR ROMANCE

Harold [Red] Grange, former University of Illinois football player who also starred with the Chicago Bears, and Miss Margaret Hazelburg, 24 year old United Airlines stewardess, were married late yesterday afternoon in the Crown Point, Ind., courthouse.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. K. T. Hazelburg of Sagola, Mich., and trained in the Lutheran Deaconess hospital, Chicago, from which she was graduated in 1938. She entered the United Airlines' service in 1939, flying over the Denver section of a coast to coast route. Grange, who last year retired as assistant coach of the Bears, is employed by a Chicago mineral water company.

Follows Year's Courtship.

The marriage followed an acquaintanceship of about a year, the bride said last night. The couple met on a flight between Chicago and Omaha on one of Grange's business trips.

Grange, acknowledged as one of the most sensational ball carriers in the history of football, played under Coach Robert Zuppke at Illinois in 1923, 1924, and 1925, achieving fame as the Galloping Ghost and making his football numeral 77 the most widely known in the land. He paid tribute to his college coach in a biography "Zuppke of Illinois," published in October, 1937, which was reviewed as "one of the most informative and entertaining sports treatises of the year."

Quit Playing in 1934.

Grange performed as brilliantly as a professional as he did in college football company. He played with the Bears in 1925. He parted with the Bears for a few years to engage in a promotional venture in New York with a team called Red Grange's Yankees, but returned to the north side club and finished his career as a player in 1934.

LANDER DEFEATS BILLY SEWARD IN SLUGGING MATCH

Eddie Lander, west side lightweight, beat Billy Seward of Ingomar, Mont., in an eight round return bout in Marigold Gardens last night. Altho the decision of Referee Johnny Behr and Judges Harry Gamson and William O'Connell was unanimous, Seward did not take a backward step thruout the slugging match. Lander, who was held to a draw in an earlier meeting with the Montana boxer, opened a cut on his foe's left eye in the first round and another on his right eye in the fifth.

Ernie Pelaia, 115 pound newcomer from Beaver Falls, Pa., surprised the near capacity crowd of 1,457 by holding George Nyberg, native of Port Arthur, Ont., who is a favorite on the north side, to a draw in an eight round semi-windup. In four round preliminary contests George Mericka, Detroit middleweight, beat Harold Hazlett, also of Beaver Falls, and Al Martinez, Indianapolis junior lightweight, conquered Jimmy Parks, Gary.

MICHIGAN GAINS FULL STRENGTH FOR N. U. BATTLE

Westfall Returns Today as Hives Clear Up.

Ann Arbor, Mich., Oct. 13 [Special].—As preparations got under way here today for Michigan's battle with Northwestern in Evanston Saturday, the Wolverines were at full strength for the first time this season. All first string players reported for practice in good physical condition.

Michigan emerged from its 40 to 0 triumph over Pittsburgh without injury. Capt. Bob Westfall, however, is confined to the hospital trying to shake off an attack of hives which he contracted late last week. Westfall is expected to be released from the hospital in time for tomorrow's practice.

Coaching Staff Is Warned.

The coaching staff admits fear of the Northwestern team, which whipped Kansas State and Wisconsin. "The Wildcats have a powerful line and an array of brilliant back field performers," reported Scout Bennie Oosterbaan, adding that "they aren't a bit overrated."

Coach Fritz Crisler was pleased with the Michigan blocking and tackling in the Pittsburgh game, noting that at no other time this season have the Wolverines shown such an aptitude for clearing out potential tacklers, particularly downfield.

N. U. LUCKY, SAYS WALDORF.

For a coach whose team had just won its second decisive victory of the season, Coach Lynn Waldorf was anything but cheerful yesterday as Northwestern's Wildcats began preparations for Saturday's homecoming game with Michigan. Waldorf discounted the power suggested by the 41 to 14 victory over Wisconsin, pointing out that virtually every touchdown resulted from intercepted passes, recovered fumbles and other errors by the Badgers.

"After the game I had a suspicion we were fortunate," Waldorf said, "but I didn't realize how fortunate until we looked at the movies. They confirmed some things we suspected and other weaknesses we hadn't anticipated. We got breaks which led to practically every score. As a matter of fact our offense was very spotty. Michigan will provide a vastly stronger defense, and it remains to be seen whether our attack can move against a rugged defensive team."

The blocking of Tuffy Chambers and Ike Kepford was singled out by Waldorf as high spots of Saturday's game. Chambers' blocking made possible Bill DeCorrevont's 50 yard punt return for a touchdown. Effective relief work by Paul Kiefer and Alex Kapter, reserve guards, was one of the few bright spots in the Wildcats' line play, in the opinion of the coaching staff.

TWO GOPHERS DISABLED.

Minneapolis, Minn., Oct. 13 [Special].—Minnesota will face Pittsburgh next Saturday with Bob Sweiger, right half, and Urban Odson, left tackle, on the sidelines.

Sweiger was kicked in the back when blocking on Daley's long touchdown run on the first scrimmage play against Illinois. He suffered considerable pain, but there are no broken bones, X-rays today revealed. Odson's knee was injured early in the Illinois game. Both will be rested until the game with Michigan.

All other regulars reported today in good physical condition, but did nothing more strenuous than to attend a chalk talk. Some of the reserves, however, scrimmaged against freshmen.

87 Horses Average $545 at Lexington Sales Paddock

Lexington, Ky., Oct. 13 (AP).—Eighty-seven horses sold for $47,475, an average of $545, at the first session of the annual thorobred auction at the Lexington sales paddock today. Highest price was $4,300, paid by Ashby Corum, Madisonville, Ky., for Imprudent, a 4 year old chestnut mare by Whisk-along-Rash Promise, by Grey Lag.

In the Wake of the News

BY ARCH WARD.

LEW RAYMOND, New Orleans boxing promoter, insists he will not be content until he can display Lew Jenkins for Crescent City fans. . . . The announcement was made, however, before Jenkins' recent fiasco in Madison Square Garden. . . . Every one, from Commissioner K. M. Landis down, pays cash for tickets to the world series. . . . The only guests are the members of the working press. . . . It costs approximately $50 to outfit a high school football player. . . . Max Baer can act, sing a little, and tap dance. . . . Too bad he can't fight, too. . . . The play of George Lawton, who died last week, for the Wolverines in the 1910 game with Minnesota inspired his brother Fred to write the words for the University of Michigan's song, "Varsity," now famous wherever the Maize and Blue has been carried to victory. . . . George's kicking and running from punt formation largely were responsible for the 6 to 0 victory. . . . Just before the Purdue football squad left Lafayette for its game with Pitt, Mayor Cornelius D. Scully of Pittsburgh wired John Petty, only player from that city on the Boilermaker roster: "If our hotel strike is not over, would be happy to take at least two of your team in my home." . . . A "white hope" elimination heavyweight boxing tournament will open in Detroit Friday. . . . The winner, in addition to enjoying the doubtful privilege of facing Joe Louis, has been promised $10,000. . . . Rice university, where forward passing is a major offensive factor, claims to have the finest array of ends in its history. . . . Norb Essig, veteran of the Loyola [Chicago] cross-country team, is vice president of the senior class, president of Alpha Sigma Nu, national Jesuit honor fraternity, and president of the University Glee club. . . .

Because of the scarcity of holdover material for 1942, Notre Dame's freshmen already are being taught the hop-shift and other fundamentals of the Irish system. . . . They will play a big rôle in the 1942 campaign when Notre Dame adds Stanford, Michigan, and Wisconsin to its schedule. . . . The Tigers, despite their comparatively poor showing this season, broke even in season series with the champion Yankees and the second place Red Sox. . . . For the first time in 40 years the Giants have finished in the second division for three straight seasons. . . . Mrs. Doc Newton, wife of the North Carolina State football coach, sits on the visitors' side of the field at all games to avoid the howls of the wolves. . . . Hamilton Davis, star end at Colgate, is the son of Karl Davis, director of athletics at Western Reserve.

A Mother's Thought.

If I could snatch the magic of the sun,
Or use the evening stars to deck your bed;
If I could take the music of the rain,
The best of everything that's sung or said,
And make a record I could play for you—
This while, when character is being built,
Or put before your eyes the greatest works
That any artist's palette ever spilt,
'Twould in some measure make me feel the task
Is not so much too great! O God, I ask

That since my power to 'give and teach is small
You grant me wisdom, in my love, for all
His urgent needs; and give my child the will
To learn—to search a question out, until
Reason is clear. But give him vision, too,
That he may see the silver shining thru
Before a cloud is spent. May I help some
Before the fullness of his knowledge come!
You may, God, disregard the things I pray,
But for my child, please God, go all the way!

—Grace Churchill Neumann.

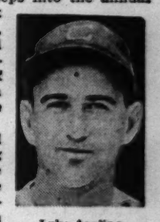
.300 BATTING OF ACE SHORTSTOP IS BAIT FOR DEAL

Extra Hurlers Also Are Marketable.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

When James J. Dykes, the well known trader, steps into the annual ivory bazaar at Jacksonville, Fla., in December, he'll display an extensive stock of goods with which he hopes to snare customers.



Luke Appling.

Having suffered severe gnawing pains during the summer as the result of mysterious slumps in between spurts by his White Sox, the boss of the Comiskey baseball troops is going all out this time when he meets the other leaders of his circuit at the minor league convention.

And don't be surprised if Dykes openly dares the other clubs to put in a bid for Luke Appling, his shortstop par excellence. Appling can be had, but not, of course, at bargain rates.

Wanted: One Power Hitter.

In his managerial career Dykes has aimed repeatedly at one target—a power hitter to put a heavy punch into the attack. He thought he had the matter solved several times, notably the deal by which he acquired Gerald Walker from the Tigers. Two seasons with Walker convinced Dykes he hadn't landed the right man. Julius Solters has been a similar disappointment. So Dykes is going to keep on trying and the club with the sort of a player he wants might not find it difficult to come to an agreement on the transfer of Appling.

There even is a possibility that Dykes by surrendering Appling could get a couple of worthy athletes, thus strengthening two positions while weakening only one. He craves a pair of infielders and at least one outfielder, an order so large that it probably couldn't be engineered except by letting a third club into the swap.

Some Good Pitching Bait.

By next April Appling will be in his 33d year and while he hasn't shown marked signs of slowing down he has been in the big league harness for a long stretch. He came to the Sox from the Atlanta club in the fall of 1930. For the last nine seasons he has ranked with the .300 hitters, a mark that makes him attractive bait. Appling's weakness, despite his high average is that he can't furnish the power wallop, the item that Dykes wants to add to his collection.

Even if Dykes can't get what he regards as a proper price for the shortstop, he won't have any trouble finding prospects during the winter meetings. Dykes has pitchers and every club in the league, Yankees always excepted, will be anxious to talk with him on that particular subject.

INJURED CENTER OF ST. AMBROSE ENTERS HOSPITAL

Jack Grennan, senior center on the St. Ambrose college football team, yesterday was brought to Presbyterian hospital in a serious condition, suffering either from a brain tumor or a brain injury, hospital attendants said.

Grennan complained of severe headaches in preseason practices and was able to play only a short time against Drake university in the opening game. He then went to his home in Sterling, remaining there until yesterday.

Hospital authorities said a diagnosis of Grennan's injuries would be completed this morning. An operation may be necessary.

When news of Grennan's serious illness reached the Davenport [Ia.] college yesterday his classmates were asked to pray for his recovery.

LOUIS REPORTS TODAY FOR ARMY PHYSICAL EXAM

Joe Louis, world heavyweight boxing champion, will appear at Provident hospital at 11 a. m. today for his medical examination as a prospective selective service draftee from local board No. 84. Louis was reclassified tentatively into 1-A, subject to immediate service, several weeks ago after having previously been deferred on the ground of dependency. The 1-A classification is subject to today's physical examination.

Louis will make his first appearance at a naval post when he boxes an exhibition at the Great Lakes tonight.

Patty Berg's 77 Takes Medal in Texas Tourney

Fort Worth, Tex., Oct. 13 (AP).—Patty Berg went around windswept River Crest today with a 77 that won medalist honors in the ninth Texas women's open. The runner-up was Aniela Goldthwaite of Forth Worth with an 82.

FIDO PURPUR IS NEW SPEED BOY OF BLACKHAWKS

BY EDWARD BURNS.

The Blackhawks let it leak out yesterday in Hibbing, Minn., their training locale, that the Chicago team probably will have the fastest forward line outside the Canadian army. The members of this potential fastest line in hockey are Doug and Max Bentley and Fido Purpur, spies learned after two one hour workouts yesterday morning and afternoon.

Press Agent Joe Farrell, upon learning the facts had seeped thru his censorship, immediately wired Chicago that all news of the discovery be suppressed on the ground it might warn the other six teams in the National league, but in vain.

We know the Bentley brothers are very rapid, for we have seen them skate for the Hawks. We never have seen Fido Purpur at his art, but anybody named Fido Purpur ought to be pretty good.

Purpur's a Little Fellow.

Purpur was the star right wing of the St. Louis Flyers last season and the Flyers were the champions of the American association. Right wingers are harder to get than left wingers and if Fido can score at anywhere near his minor league pace he will be a much needed addition to the Hawk roster. Like the Bentleys, Purpur comes in the half pint package. He's 5½ feet tall and weighs only 158.

Manager Paul Thompson devoted virtually all his attention to the aforesaid pony line in the two drills yesterday and in camp it was deemed certain he will use the three tiny speedsters on one string, beginning with the first exhibition game, which is to be played in Hibbing next Sunday night.

Busy Exhibition Schedule.

After the game in Hibbing the squad will set out for Minneapolis. The Hawks will train on the Minneapolis rink next Monday and Tuesday, and Wednesday night will play the Minneapolis team.

The Hawks will go to Johnny Gottselig's Kansas City training camp in Champaign, Ill., and will play Johnny's Americans on the University of Illinois rink on Oct. 29.

On Nov. 1 the Hawks will play the Kansas City team in Chicago Arena. It will be the first preseason exhibition game ever played in Chicago by the Hawks. The Hawks will open their regular season in Chicago Stadium on Nov. 6. The New York Americans will be their opponents.

Move Over for Young Dan, Please

DAN CANADEO. SAVIOR CANADEO. TONY CANADEO.

A Third Canadeo Brother, Dan, Sparkles in Athletics

BY JAMES SEGRETI.

Dan, who will be graduated in February and hopes to enroll at Gonzaga, also was an outstanding member of the Steinmetz baseball team which won the league title from Farragut, 8 to 2, last summer. Dan played third base and batted over .400. Tony and the boxing member of the athletic family, Savior, former Golden Gloves champion, are spending this fall in Green Bay. Savior has abandoned his professional boxing career to work as a salesman in the Wisconsin city. In addition to his athletic duties Danny is keeping a watchful eye over another brother, Harold, 14 years old, who will be eligible for the Steinmetz eleven next fall.

The legislative committee of the Illinois High School association met yesterday in the La Salle hotel and adopted proposals to admit 40 Chicago Public league schools to membership as a unit. . . . The committee also will recommend to the principals in Urbana on Nov. 7 a change in the age limit rule from 20 to 19 and the elimination of spring football practice. . . . Three members of the 1939 Mount Carmel eleven which tied Fenger, 13 to 13, in the all-city game, have enrolled at Notre Dame. . . . They are Full Back Bob David, End Gene Dwyer, and Tackle Ziggy Czarobski.

The Public School league's biggest crowd of the season is expected at 83d street and Yates avenue Saturday afternoon. . . . Calumet and South Shore will meet in the first game of a double header and will be followed by Fenger and Hirsch, undefeated leaders for the south section title. . . . Eddie Czyz, former Bloom athlete, has received a contract from the Lake Charles, La., club of the Evangeline league. . . . Eddie was a catcher on the Bloom baseball team and last spring was a member of the Bloom championship track team. . . . Eddie still is attending Bloom, but has completed his athletic eligibility. . . .

G. A. Hagen, one of the three coaches of the Proviso freshman-sophomore team, also coached the swimming team at Maywood school. . . . Bob Schulz, Proviso full back, was reported resting comfortably last night following an operation for a back injury suffered last Saturday against Evanston. . . . However, he will be lost to the team for the season. . . . Bob Dougherty, Harrison Tech coach, is seeking a game for his eleven on Oct. 25. . . . Henry Kozlowski, Lane Tech's swimming star, now is a freshman at the University of Illinois.

ILLINI IMPROVE, BUT STILL LACK WEIGHT, YEARS

Lack Material to Check Upper Big 9 Teams.

Wilson threw Herman Frickey, Gopher right half, for a yard loss in the second quarter. Minnesota twice was stopped with losses in the fourth period. With these exceptions Minnesota never failed to gain in line plays from tackle to tackle. Consider that Wilson weighs 202 pounds and you have one reason why he could cope with his opponents. No other Illinois lineman in Saturday's game weighed 200 pounds.

Minnesota was keyed for the game with Illinois. Coach Bernie Bierman's extreme concern was sincere and he was able to communicate his apprehension to his players because of Illinois' famous upset of the Gophers in 1916. The problem at Minnesota will be to have the team ready for successive engagements with Michigan and Northwestern following the game with Pittsburgh.

Brown Warns Squad Not to Underrate Purdue.

Columbus, Ohio, Oct. 13 [Special].—After four days' rest returning from the California coast, two days of hard work on fundamentals Thursday and Friday and a week-end layoff, the Ohio State football team was warned today that the "vacations" were over.

Watch Those Bear Stories.

"Don't be fooled by those bear stories emanating from the Purdue camp," Coach Paul Brown warned his players in a classroom talk before the team took the field. "Two weeks is a lot of time and time does wonderful things to injuries. We expect Purdue to take the field at full strength and it will be a tough battle," Brown commented.

Brown referred to newspaper accounts from Lafayette that several key men in the Boilermaker lineup would be unable to play.

Offense was stressed today with special emphasis on aerial plays. Work with the kickers also was included. The Ohio booters have been improving with each game and Jack Graf, full back, is getting the best distances.

Ohio State, barring practice hurts in the meantime, will enter the contest without serious injury to any of the regulars.

LIGHT WORK FOR PURDUE.

Lafayette, Ind., Oct. 13 [Special].—Coach Mal Elward shuffled his back fields this afternoon for a replacement for Johnny Galvin, veteran half back, who suffered a cracked cheek bone in Saturday's scrimmage with the frosh. Galvin will miss Purdue's Big Nine opener against Ohio State this Saturday and may be lost for the remainer of the season.

Elward moved Walt Cook from right to left half and promoted Ed Cycenas, Chicago sophomore, to the vacancy. Sophomore Ken Smock and Bob Chester completed the quartet. "We need hard work, but we can't afford it," Elward commented. He said practice this week will be devoted entirely to light conditioning drills.

Three cripples returned to action today. Barry French and Briuce Warren, who turned Pittsburgh's attack away from the tackles, came back along with John Petty, veteran full back, who also was a Pitt casualty.

INDIANA NEEDS ENDS.

Bloomington, Ind., Oct. 13 [Special.]—Blocking and charging were emphasized today as the Indiana football squad started preparations for its intersectional engagement against unbeaten Nebraska at Lincoln Saturday.

Hoosier players who did not play in the Texas Christian game, and some who saw only limited action, engaged the freshman in a practice game. J. C. Coffee and Bob Ricketts, reserve ends, were given tryouts on the makeshift varsity as Coach Bo McMillin sought to bolster the wings, where the Hoosiers are weak both numerically and in experience.

Emerging from the T. C. U. game without injuries, the Indiana squad probably will be in its best physical shape of the season Saturday, Coach McMillin commented.

MOVIES FOR NEBRASKA.

Lincoln, Neb., Oct. 13 (AP).—Injuries which First String Tackle Clarence Herndon and Substitute Half Back Howard Debus suffered in Nebraska's defeat of Kansas Saturday were not expected to keep them out of the homecoming Indiana game here Saturday.

Herndon had a painful shoulder injury and Debus a bruised back. Today the Huskers saw movies of their 32 to 0 victory over Kansas and last year's battle with Indiana, which Nebraska was pressed to win, 13 to 7.

Couppee Back at Quarter in Iowa's Drill

Iowa City, Ia., Oct. 13 [Special].—Iowa's football squad turned attention to defensive work today in preparation for Saturday's Big Nine game against Wisconsin, beaten in its first two starts this season. The game will be played in Madison. After a week of contact work ordered by Coach Eddie Anderson because of Saturday's open date, the Hawkeyes will spend the next four days polishing up both offensive and defensive maneuvers.

The squad today worked against a mixed reserve and freshman eleven using Badger plays. Al Couppee worked at length in the quarter back position and Anderson said he probably would start against the Badgers. The veteran signal caller has recovered from injuries.

Frank Carideo, back field coach, who scouted the Badgers, said Wisconsin is not to be taken lightly. "Despite their first two showings, the Badgers will get rolling soon," Carideo added.

BADGERS DRILL IN RAIN.

Most of the session was devoted to ironing out rough spots in the offense and for the first time this season it appeared that Coach Harry Stuhldreher has decided definitely on a first team back field. It is composed of Tommy Farris, quarter back; Len Seelinger and Mark Hoskins, half backs, and Pat Harder, full back.

IRISH VARSITY HAS DAY OFF.

Notre Dame, Ind., Oct. 13 [Special].—Altho five of the players were slightly injured Saturday in Notre Dame's 20 to 0 victory over Georgia Tech in Atlanta, the Irish will be at full strength for Carnegie Tech Saturday in Pittsburgh. This will be the final game of the series which started in 1922.

Capt. Paul B. Lillis, Lou Rymkus, Wally Ziemba, Tom Brock, and Bob Maddock were those injured. Rymkus suffered a cut on his lower lip which required nine stitches to close. Lillis, Brock, and Maddock were dazed. Ziemba suffered a pulled leg muscle.

This week's game will be the 19th with Carnegie Tech, the Irish having won 14 games to 4. The teams did not meet in 1927. Notre Dame rates as an overwhelming favorite.

Don Snavely, Columbia Center, Returns to Drill

GILLS BEATEN 3 STRAIGHT GAMES BY NONE BETTERS

A few days ago the Joseph L. Gills bowling team, coasting along in first place in the Windy City Major league, offered to meet any team in the world in a match.

So what happens? Along came the None Better Ice Cream bowlers, a second division unit, and they knocked off the Gills three straight last night on the Windy City alleys. The triple setback also dropped the Gills from first place, which now is occupied by the Budweisers, who are two games to the good.

The None Betters rolled a 3,133 team total of 1,051, 1,041, and 1,031 games. Jerry Peck paced them with a 266, 217, 210—693 score. He had plenty of help from Ray Koopnas [644], Al Schmitz [637], and Sam Saric [633].

MONTGOMERY, KOGON SIGN FOR COLISEUM BOUT

10 Round Battle to Head Oct. 24 Card.

Bob Montgomery, Philadelphia Negro fighter, who added to his prestige as foremost lightweight contender by knocking out Davey Day in one round in Chicago Stadium last Friday, will return for a 10 round bout with Julie Kogon to top the first indoor show of the season in the Coliseum Oct. 24.

John Strachan, Stadium matchmaker, who is serving in like capacity at the Coliseum, closed the match yesterday in the belief Kogon earned the assignment by his showing in a 10 round engagement with Nick Castiglione on the Day-Montgomery program. Castiglione was awarded a unanimous decision, but it was unpopular with the 6,790 spectators.

Refusal for Refusal.

Nick, who collected $1,000, earlier had refused a return match with Kogon on the Coliseum card. In rejecting the bid, Jess Darcy, Castiglione's manager, explained Strachan's refusal to grant Nick rematches against Day and Billy Marquart after the two had beaten his protégé was responsible for his decision.

Darcy has left for New York to confer with Nat Rogers, Madison Square Garden matchmaker, about having Castiglione appear against Dave Castilloux, Canadian 135 pound champion, in the Garden Oct. 31. Altho Castiglione came out of the Kogon match nursing a bruised left forearm, he will be available, Darcy said.

Beckwith vs. Pastor.

The next available date in the Stadium is Nov. 7. Booker Beckwith, Gary light heavyweight, will meet Bob Pastor, New York heavyweight, in a 10 round headliner.

Hearing on the separate maintenance petition of Mrs. Sylvia Daitch, wife of Davey Day, will be held this morning in the Superior court of Judge Rudolph Desort. Charles Cooley, attorney for Mrs. Daitch, will ask the court for $50 a week temporary support for his client. At the same session Attorney John D. Vosnos, representing Day, will file a motion to dissolve a recent injunction granted by Judge Desort, an order obtained to tie up Day's purse for the recent knockout by Montgomery.

PRO FANS TO SEE CARDINAL-BEAR PICTURES TODAY

The Chicago Bears' eight touchdown rampage over the Cardinals Sunday will be shown in pictures today at the opening of the "Pro Huddle" football luncheon in the La Salle hotel. The weekly huddles are sponsored by the Interfraternity club and begin at 12:15 o'clock.

Commentators will be Jim Conzelman, coach of the Cardinals, and Luke Johnsos, end coach of the Bears. Conzelman may insist on several repeat showings of that part of the film which shows his team making a touchdown against the professional champions, or he won't have much to talk about. The final score was 53 to 7.

Passport.

In contemplating a journey
To a strange and distant shore,
The traveler knows for certain
Ere he enters that far door,
His passport must be ready,
His visa, too, okayed,
All must be in perfect order
Before entry can be made.

So, in planning for that voyage
Which we all must one day make,
By far the most important
That we shall ever take,
Isn't it wise to plan ahead
That our visa be not delayed,
That our passport's in perfect order
When that journey must be made?

Good Mudhen Opener Looms for Thursday

BY BOB BECKER.

The mudhen hunters who go to northern Illinois lakes for their opening day shoot at sunrise Thursday can look for a regular riot of fun. Tony Maggio of the department of conservation said last night that there are approximately 40,000 coots or mudhens in northern Illinois, which means that the opening day shoot is bound to be one of the most exciting and profitable that the boys could ask for.

Looks for 10,000 Hunters.

With this big concentration of mudhens on hand Maggio said that he wouldn't be surprised if 10,000 hunters fanned out thru the northern Illinois lake county Thursday morning to start the 1941 season. If this number shows up the cannonading that is going to be heard at sunrise [daylight savings time] will be so noisy that it will sound like the Russian war front.

Maggio has this warning for all mudhen hunters: Don't shoot before you hear the boom of the big aerial bomb that is going to be fired at sunrise as the "go" signal. There will be no siren signal used on Grass lake this year. A bomb that every hunter can hear will be exploded to mark the time for shooting and dozens of wardens will be on hand to see that nobody beats the gun. Sunrise Thursday will be about 7:04 a. m. daylight savings time. The bomb will be heard at about that time on Blarney Island in Grass lake. On Fox lake hunting will be permitted between 12 p. m. and 2 p. m. only [standard time] each day of the open season.

Wild Geese on Move.

Approximately 1,800 wild geese have moved into the Horseshoe lake preserve near Miller City, Ill., according to the latest reports from the "goose hunting capital" of the state. Altho this is only a fraction of what may be expected at the Horseshoe lake preserve, it's enough to give the boys the hunting fever before the season opens Thursday morning.

35 REPORT FOR 1ST BASKETBALL DRILL AT DE PAUL

De Paul's basketball team—35 strong—yesterday reported to Coach Bill Wendt for the first practice session of the 1941-'42 season. Included in that number were only six returning lettermen, Capt. Bob Wozny, Jim Cominsky, Jim Skrodzki, Bernie Wexsler, Marsh Webb, and Cliff Lind.

Cambridge, Mass., Oct. 13 (AP).—Harvard's football squad went thru a light drill today as coaches pointed out the errors committed in the Cornell game. There were no injuries.

Nalon to Face Charge of Wife Abandonment

Clayton [Duke] Nalon, 28 years old, of Indianapolis, Ind., an auto racer, arrested Sunday at the Hammond, Ind., speedway, where he participated in midget auto races, is due to appear today in the Domestic Relations court on a charge of abandoning his wife and 3 year old son.

His wife, Mrs. Charlotte Nalon, 26, of 421 East 112th street, obtained the warrant two weeks ago, stating Nalon deserted her and her son, Clayton Dennis Nalon, Nov. 10, 1940.

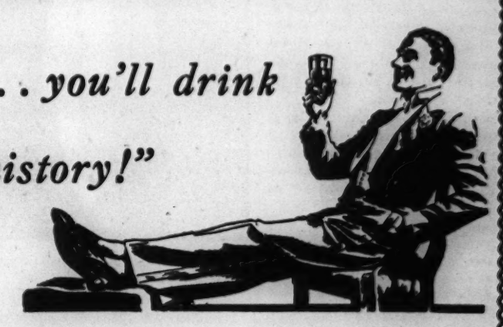
KIMBROUGH AND HARMON IN THE SAME BACK FIELD!

New York, Oct. 13 (AP).—William Cox, president of the New York Americans of the American Football league, announced today that John Kimbrough and Tom Harmon, 1940 all-Americans, will be in his team's backfield when it opens its home season Sunday against the Columbus Bulls.

Kimbrough, full back for Texas A. & M.'s Cotton bowl champions, was present at the football writers' luncheon at which Cox made the announcement.

Kimbrough will play the balance of the Americans' season, four games,

"Tonight . . . you'll drink with history!"



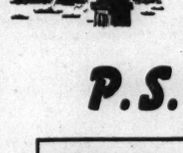
Up in the Highlands of Scotland, the River Spey runs, crystal clear and cold, by the distilleries of W. & A. Gilbey, Ltd., largest individual wine and spirits merchants in the world. This is where I began, and from this historic river I get my name.

The major part of my life—like all good Scotch Whiskies—is spent inside sherry casks—aging for better flavour. Then, I'm blended with other fine Gilbey Scotches into one superior, smooth whisky called Spey-Royal . . . bottled, and shipped all over the globe.

First, I went to London, but as soon as we reached (censored), just outside the City, they put me down in the underground vaults. Seems there was quite a disturbance above; it turned out we were right on an estuary of the Thames.

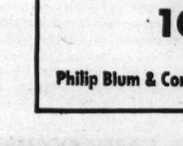
As soon as I was delivered to the docks for shipment to your country, the Government took responsibility. I waited my turn for "bottoms," along with a great many other cases.

They almost got us, two days out of (censored). It was quite an experience. Several times I thought I'd be wasted on the ocean floor. But we got through, what?



When we reached neutral waters, the Admiralty notified Gilbey what ship I was on. Up to then no one knew where I was, when I'd sailed, or where I was to land. You see, it's quite a business getting over to the United States these days.

Because I'm sold on a different basis from other Scotch Whiskies, Gilbey has no primary importer, but sells direct to distributors all over the country. This eliminates what you call "middlemen" and keeps my price down. Thus, I ended up in several different cities.



It's really quite a thrill to see how people enjoy me. You Americans have the nicest homes and all of you seem to have good taste in other things as well as whisky. I heard one man say, "This is the most pleasant way of giving aid to Britain I know!"

Takes Belligerent Stand at AFL Convention.

BY SEYMOUR KORMAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Seattle, Wash., Oct. 13.—In the most belligerent words yet heard at the American Federation of Labor's convention, President William Green intimated late today that he would favor sending troops abroad to fight, "If the call shall come."

Green's remarks, surprising to many delegates, came in his impromptu response to speeches of two British fraternal representatives and one from Canada who had reported on their countries' war efforts.

"American labor stands immovably for Great Britain and her allies in their struggle," Green said. "If it becomes necessary for us to do more than serve in the mills, the mines, and the factories, if the call shall come, if the issue must be determined by us giving service as we did before, we will meet that issue unitedly and courageously."

Green told the British delegates to "take back to your fellow workers our firm determination to stand beside them to the bitter end."

Hutcheson Is Absent.

William Hutcheson, first vice president of the AFL, had left the convention floor to attend a committee meeting while Green was speaking. Hutcheson, a member of the America First Committee advisory council, charged last week that Green was arbitrary and inconsistent in pledging full AFL support for President Roosevelt's policy. Hutcheson said he did not want to send American boys to die for communist Russia.

The resolutions which have been presented to the convention affirming the Roosevelt policy are not nearly as vehement as Green's statement today. They contain no reference to sending American troops to Europe.

A report condemning union racketeering is expected tomorrow morning. It is described as a "step farther" than the AFL has ever gone before in that matter but is not believed to be as strong as a resolution, defeated last year, which would have given the AFL power to order unions to oust officials found guilty of racketeering.

Browne Faces Ouster.

The convention is acting this year to oust from its executive council George E. Browne, head of the movie operators' union, now on trial in New York for extortion conspiracy.

The fraternal delegates who spoke today were George W. Thomson and Edward Hough of Great Britain and H. C. Simpson of Canada. The Britons said their labor groups are "solidly but not blindly" behind their country's war effort. Simpson declared Canada's war materials assistance to the mother country is the equivalent of a 35 billion dollar a year lend-lease program in this country.

Ingvald Haugen, president of the Norwegian Seamen's association, disclosed that Norway has 600 ships and 20,000 association members participating daily with the allies in the battle of the Atlantic.

Demands Perkins' Ouster.

Lynn U. Stambaugh, national commander of the American Legion, warned labor not to lower its guard against communism while this country is aiding Russia's war effort. He also said he feared for labor progress when the army or navy took over a manufacturing plant.

He urged the immediate deportation of Harry Bridges, west coast leader for the Congress of Industrial Organizations, and repeated the Legion's demand for the resignation of Madame Frances Perkins, secretary of labor, on charges of her "obvious inability."

WALKER, POSTAL CHIEF, INJURED IN TRAIN CRASH

Chillicothe, O., Oct. 13 (AP).—Nine persons, including Postmaster General Frank Walker, were injured today when a streamlined Baltimore & Ohio train slid into a freight locomotive at a siding 24 miles east of here.

Walker, accompanied by his wife, who was uninjured, was treated for a slight head abrasion by the train's stewardess-nurse. Walker said he was en route to St. Louis, Mo., for a meeting of postmasters and postal employés. Two of the others injured were members of the train crew.

A railroad spokesman said the passengers were jolted when the air-brakes of the train were applied suddenly. The train had come almost to a stop when its engine struck the freight locomotive.

Clifford J. Durr Is Named by Roosevelt for FCC

Washington, D. C., Oct. 13 (AP).—The nomination of Clifford J. Durr of Alabama to a seven year term on the Federal Communications commission was submitted to the senate today by President Roosevelt. Durr, now assistant general counsel of the Reconstruction Finance corporation, will succeed Frederick I. Thompson of Mobile, Ala. The nominee is 42 years old and is a brother-in-law of Mrs. Hugo L. Black, wife of the associate justice of the Supreme court. Herschel V. Johnson of North Carolina was nominated American minister to Sweden.

Hollywood Bound

JOAN MERRILL.

Miss Joan Merrill, night club singer, stopped in Chicago yesterday between trains on her second trip to Hollywood. She arrived from New York on the New York Central's Commodore Vanderbilt and left shortly after on the Sante Fe Chief. Some time ago, Miss Merrill went to Hollywood to get into the movies and did not succeed. She returned east and received engagements which resulted in a contract with RKO Radio pictures. Next week she will start work on her first picture.

ELSON AND ANSON STARRED IN NEW SHOW ON W-G-N

W-G-N yesterday launched a new afternoon show titled "An Hour with Elson and Anson," which boasts everything that a big night time show has to offer. It will be on the air again from 3 to 4 p. m. today and every day except Saturday.

Patti Clayton.

Featured are nimble-witted Bob Elson and Bill Anson as twin masters of ceremony. Judging by the way they battled to outdo each other at the microphone at the inaugural airing of the show, they may develop a feud of the kind that Jack Benny and Fred Allen made famous.

An orchestra, guest stars, sports chatter, impersonations, and a variety of surprises that cannot be foretold—even by Elson and Anson—are attractions adding to the luster of the performance. Even "man on the street" interviews with folk who are lured into the studio will contribute to the programs. Patti Clayton will be the featured guest star today.

U. S. OFFERS FAIR AIRPORT PRICE, EXPERTS TESTIFY

Three witnesses testified yesterday in a condemnation suit before Federal Judge William J. Campbell and a jury that the federal government's offer of $577,295 for the former Curtiss-Wright airport at Glenview is a fair offer.

The airport is now known as Curtiss-Wright field, and is being used as a training base for naval reserve flying officers. Last year, in the first step to acquire the field, the government deposited with the court clerk a check for $577,295 for its purchase.

However, the airport owners contended that the property, including buildings, was worth more than $1,000,000, and the condemnation suit, to fix a fair valuation, was instituted. Last Friday Judge Campbell and the jury inspected the grounds. Yesterday three real estate experts testified for the government. One, Harry S. Cutmore, former chief deputy assessor for Cook county, appraised the property at $577,295.01. The others, William J. Kehl and Ward T. Huston, each placed the figure at $578,000.

NEW NEWSPAPER TO USE PRESSES OF DAILY NEWS

The new Chicago morning paper to be started by Marshall Field III. will be printed on presses of the Chicago Daily News and will have its offices in the News building, 400 West Madison street, according to a statement yesterday by Field and Silliman Evans, his associate.

Composition and stereotyping facilities of the News also will be used by the paper.

A statement by the News management asserted that the arrangement will be mutually beneficial.

INLAND PRESS OPENS AUTUMN SESSION TODAY

2 Day Program Devoted to Shop Talk.

A full program, including plenty of shop talk, awaits the more than 200 newspaper men who are expected to register today in Hotel Sherman for the 57th fall meeting of the Inland Daily Press association.

The publishers, editors, and business managers who attend the convention will spend much of the two day session exchanging ideas concerning their problems. Several round table discussions have been arranged and there will be question and answer periods after most of the speeches.

Vice President John W. Potter, publisher of the Rock Island Daily Argus, will preside over the meetings in the absence of Fred Schaub, the president, who has been called to active duty with the army. Potter will call the convention to order at 9:30 a. m. today.

The program for today's session:

Morning.

After the executive session, A. L. Miller, publisher of the Battle Creek [Mich.] Enquirer-News, and Verne E. Joy, publisher of the Centralia Sentinel, will discuss relations with the Audit Bureau of Circulations.

Joe M. Bunting, general manager of the Bloomington Pantagraph, will speak on "What We Found Out About Shopper Competition."

A legislative information exchange regarding wage-hour requirements and new record keeping regulations will be conducted by J. S. Gray, publisher of the Monroe [Mich.] News.

Norbert A. McKenna, chief of the paper, pulp, printing, and publishing branch of the OPM, will discuss the government's view on supplies essential to the newspaper business.

At luncheon, W. Earl Hall, managing editor of the Mason City [Ia.] Globe-Gazette, who was one of three newspaper men chosen for the Carnegie Foundation good will mission to South America this year, will talk on "South of Panama."

Afternoon.

An all-department round table, with members submitting questions and suggestions on all phases of newspaper production and management, will be held. A. C. Hudnutt, publisher of the Elyria [O.] Chronicle-Telegram, will be chairman.

The association has 306 daily newspapers as members, most of them from the central west.

W. L. BUSH, ONCE WEALTHY, DIES A CHARITY PATIENT

William Lincoln Bush, founder of the old Bush Temple of Music and former president of the Bush & Gerts Piano company, died of a heart ailment yesterday in Oak Forest infirmary. He was admitted to the institution two months ago.

Mr. Bush was born in Chicago 80 years ago. He started in the piano business in 1877, formed the Bush & Gerts company in 1885, and remained with it until 1921. In his heyday he had interests in banks and other businesses and was a member of the Chicago Board of Trade.

In 1901 Mr. Bush erected the Bush Music temple at Clark street and Chicago avenue. The structure, still standing and notable for its unusual architecture, became a famous music center. Mr. Bush also developed the Southwestern conservatory in Dallas, Tex. At one time the two conservatories had a combined enrollment of 2,500 students.

Mr. Bush leaves his widow, Pearl, a resident of the Methodist Old People's home, 1415 Foster avenue. Funeral services will be held at 1 p. m. today in the Rosehill cemetery chapel.

I. C. EMPLOYES EXCEED QUOTA IN FUND DRIVE

The first employés' group to complete and to exceed its quota in the 1941 Community Fund campaign is that of the Illinois Central railroad, E. P. Brooks, chairman of the industrial division for the campaign, announced yesterday.

The employés of the railroad had agreed to raise $16,200 toward the transportation division's $152,000 quota and actually presented the division with $18,375 only 10 days after the drive opened. "The contribution came voluntarily from 6,115 of the road's total of 8,038 employés in Chicago.

The goal of the campaign is $3,583,000 to be allocated to the city's 185 major Protestant, Catholic, Jewish, and non-sectarian charities.

David Is Only 6 Months Old, but He's Known for Power

Chattanooga, Tenn., Oct. 13 (AP).—David St. Clair, 6 month old son of Mr. and Mrs. Marvin St. Clair, can grab a bar and hang on for a full minute or more with feet off the floor. He's been at such antics two months. "He tried to walk," said the father, "and when he found he couldn't he struck out and started climbing. He has amazing strength in his hands, wrists, and arms." Photographers found him hanging to a clothesline on wash day.

20 ON SENATE FLOOR VOTE 1½ BILLIONS TO RFC

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Oct. 13.—With about 20 members on the floor, the senate today passed and sent to the White House an administration bill increasing the lending authority of the Reconstruction Finance corporation by 1½ billion dollars. The new funds are to be used in the arms program.

Jesse Jones.

Final action was by a voice vote after less than three hours of discussion. So apathetic was the response from the floor when the measure was called up for passage that the "ayes" were well nigh indistinguishable from the conversational chatter in the chamber.

Near Lending Limit.

During the hearings on the measure, Secretary of Commerce Jesse Jones, who is also head of the RFC, testified that the corporation has loans and commitments totaling 4 billion 900 millions, which is only 1 million short of the RFC's present lending capacity.

The hearings also brought out that the RFC has been importing wool, hides, copper, wheat and other commodities from South America and Canada without paying a tariff under orders of Secretary of the Navy Frank Knox. This provoked a minor storm during the debate when several members charged that such outside competition is unfair to American producers.

Under existing law, it was explained, the navy has the power to import foreign products without duty for its own use. The hearings, however, revealed that while the navy is doing the importing it is using only a small portion of the products and permitting the rest to be diverted into other channels including private industry.

All Used "for Defense."

Q.—Mr. Jones, attention has been called to your statement that on your importations of metals which were taxable you are not paying import duties.

A.—They are all being used in the defense program.

Q.—As I understand the situation, the navy has the benefit of the tax import exemption but other departments of the government do not have that exemption.

Called Evasion of Law.

Q.—But they are not all being used by the navy, are they?

A.—I do not think they are.

Q.—Speaking quite frankly, that is an evasion of the law is it not?

A.—Not necessarily. If we pay the duty it will go into the treasury, out one pocket and into the other. It is essentially a matter of bookkeeping.

Q.—Well, now is that entirely true? To a large extent, the metals which you are importing, or some of them at least, go into private industry, do they not?

A.—Yes, but that is true primarily because of the activities of the defense program.

Charge West Will Suffer.

Several senators from western mining states asserted that foreign metals industries would be the chief profiteers from a continuation of this practice while domestic producers would be the chief sufferers.

In attempting to argue for the administration, Senator Alben Barkley [D., Ky.], acting as floor manager for the bill, said he "believed" Jones would encourage the development of ores in the United States that can be used in the production of needed metals.

Army Wants 37 Million Pounds of Canned Meats

Washington, D. C., Oct. 13 (AP).—The war department asked bids today on 37 million pounds of canned meats to meet anticipated army requirements for the period ending next June 30. The canned foods are used chiefly in field maneuvers.

Naming Ickes Oil Chief Is Called Illegal

President Roosevelt's appointment of Secretary of Interior Harold L. Ickes as petroleum coördinator is illegal, Roy L. Brecke, executive secretary of the Wisconsin Petroleum association, asserted yesterday from the floor of the annual convention of the National Oil Marketers' association in the Morrison hotel.

Brecke shouted his statement in the midst of discussion by the 200 independent oil wholesalers of Ickes' control of the petroleum industry. He declared that the President had no authority to appoint any one to regulate an industry and that enforcement of Ickes' orders and price ceilings by Price Administrator Leon Henderson would prove ineffectual as did government orders in the NRA days.

Asks Removal of Curbs.

A resolution submitted by Brecke and referred to the association's resolutions committee proposed that Ickes remove all restrictions on the sale and distribution of petroleum products unless they are really essential to rearmament.

Brecke asserted that Ickes' conservation measures "imposed unfair hardships on the independent jobbers, distributors, retailers, and the industry." He declared that "there is no actual shortage of either gasoline or fuel oil."

Ickes also was assailed by Fred W. Herlihy, of the Power Oil company, Orangeburg, S. C., who charged that the program of reduced deliveries to filling stations in eastern states was a "squeeze play" on the oil jobbers.

Skeptical of Shortage.

Herlihy expressed skepticism of the reported oil shortage. He said that eastern jobbers had been offered additional supplies of gasoline by independent refiners who had sources of supply in the midcontinent area. The regional marketing committee, he added, ruled that this additional gasoline would be deducted from the jobbers' quotas.

Herlihy charged the leading oil companies with attempting to gain control of the marketing phase of the industry with the aid of the oil coördinator.

Milton W. Whiting, president of the Whiting Oil company, Clifton Forge, Va., said there is a 35 to 40 days supply of gasoline in the east, compared with normal supplies for 60 days.

J. Howard Marshall, chief counsel to the petroleum coördinator, will address the convention today.

DEFER PRICE BOOST.

Bartlesville, Okla., Oct. 13 (AP).—The Phillips Petroleum company said today it had proposed a 25 cent a barrel increase in crude oil prices Oct. 15, but deferred action at the request of Price Administrator Leon Henderson.

NORTHROP, PLANE MAKER, REPORTS LOSS FOR YEAR

Northrop Aircraft, Inc., yesterday reported a net loss of $848,778 in its second fiscal year ended July 31. No comparative figures are available, sai a letter to stockholders because the company's first fiscal year was characterized by preparation to enter manufacturing.

The company said its backlog of orders Oct. 1 totaled $74,873,159, of which $60,553,193 came in direct government contracts and $14,319,966 in subcontracts.

MORGENTHAU DUBBED FARM ENEMY NO. 1 IN PRICE CEILING BATTLE

Washington, D. C., Oct. 13 (AP).—Dubbing Treasury Secretary Henry Morgenthau Jr. agriculture's "public enemy No. 1," Sen. John H. Bankhead II. [D., Ala.] said today that farm state congressmen would oppose any attempt to clamp rigid price ceilings on agriculture.

Bankhead, who has sponsored most of the New Deal farm laws and appropriations in recent years, asserted that he saw no possibility of any inflationary prices for major farm crops. He assailed the recent series of Morgenthau statements which contended that rising farm prices had accelerated the danger of inflation and which urged that government loan stocks of agricultural products be placed on the market to counteract the climbing prices.

"We have big surplus supplies of cotton, wheat, corn, tobacco, and most other major farm products," he said. "As long as this exists there can be no inflation in farm prices. To get an inflated price, you must have a scarcity with several buyers bidding for an article. No thinking person is afraid of such a situation in cotton, wheat, or other major crops."

FLOW OF FUNDS INTO INDUSTRY HOLDS FAST PACE

The flow of funds from commercial banks to industry, commerce, and agriculture continued last week as business activity maintained its rapid pace under the arms stimulus. The federal reserve board yesterday reported that the total of these outstanding loans expanded in the week ended last Wednesday to 6 billion 501 million dollars, an increase of 54 millions during the week and 1 billion 829 million higher than a year ago.

People and Events

The government concentrated its efforts to conserve critical materials under a new bureau of industrial conservation yesterday and gave it instructions to plan for the salvaging of many materials going to waste in home and factory. Lessing J. Rosenwald, former board chairman of Sears, Roebuck & Co., was placed in charge of the new agency which is a unit of the OPM.

Arthur S. Smith, chairman of the Illinois Liquor commission, declared yesterday the control of alcoholic beverage sales in the vicinity of army camps is a matter for local regulation and urged the industry to combat at every opportunity all propaganda in favor of federal regulation in these areas. He spoke before the three day convention of the National Beer Wholesalers association, which opened yesterday in the Hotel Sherman.

Clifford J. Durr of Alabama, assistant general counsel of the Reconstruction Finance corporation, was nominated yesterday by President Roosevelt to be a member of the Federal Communications commission for a seven year term. He succeeds Frederick I. Thompson, whose term expired last July 1.

OFFER RAIL PAY BOOST BASED ON COST OF LIVING

Linked to Roads' Gross Revenues.

A plan for adjusting railroad workers' wages on the basis of a composite index of living costs and the carriers' gross revenues was proposed yesterday by railroad managements to President Roosevelt's five man fact finding committee in Kimball hall.

F. G. Gurley, vice president of the Santa Fe railroad and chairman of the carriers' executive committee, in presenting the proposal, said it would increase wages on Nov. 1 an estimated 6 per cent on employés earnings up to $130 a month.

Cost Put at 95 Millions.

The immediate cost to the carriers, he said, would be about $95,004,000 a year, in contrast with the estimated 900 million dollars a year under pay increases demanded by the unions. The five operating brotherhoods ask blanket wage increases of 30 per cent, while the 14 nonoperating unions demand increases of 30 cents an hour with a minimum wage of 70 cents an hour.

LIVING COST INDEX RISES.

New York, Oct. 13 (AP).—The cost of living of wage earners' families in the United States rose 1.6 per cent from August to September, the National Industrial Conference board, private research organization, estimated today. The board said that living costs had risen 6 per cent during the last year and were 26.6 per cent higher than April, 1933, the low point of the depression. However, they still were 10.2 per cent below the September, 1929, level.

The cost of living index used, Gurley said, would be that of the bureau of labor statistics, with its figure of 102.8 on June 15, 1937 used as a base. The carriers gross revenues index would be based on the year ended June 30, 1937, when carriers' total revenues were 4 billion 267 million dollars.

To illustrate the plan Gurley showed how wage rates on Nov. 1 would be determined. On Sept. 15, 1941, the cost of living index was estimated at 107, up 4.2 points from the base. Carriers' gross revenues for the year ended Aug. 31, 1941, were 4 billion, 956 million dollars, or an increase of 16.1 index points.

Allows 6 Per cent Boost.

The full gain in the cost of living index, 4.2 points, and half that in the gross revenues index, or 8 points, would be added together, then divided by two to give the final composite figure of 6.1 points, which would be the percentage of increase allowed in wages up to $130 a month.

Under the plan, which would be effective from Nov. 1, 1941, to Dec. 31, 1942, subsequent adjustments would be made Feb. 1, May 1, Aug. 1, and Nov. 1, 1942, provided the composite index rises or falls at least five points since the last date of adjustment.

The proposal provides a ceiling on pay increases of 15 per cent of the first $130 earned by any employé. Wages would not drop below their present scale, regardless of any decline in the composite index.

Gurley said use of only half the points of rise in gross revenue results from the fact increased operating expenses use up half the increased operating revenue.

Whitney Disputes Cost Rise.

Only labor union comment on the plan for publication came from A. F. Whitney, president of the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen. He said: "Gurley's statement that approximately one-half of the increase in gross revenues will be required to take care of increased operating expenses is a deliberate and unadulterated misstatement of fact."

Testimony in support of Gurley's proposal and that it would be impossible to meet demands of the unions was presented by F. E. Williamson, president of the New York Central system; H. A. Scandrett, trustee of the Chicago, Milwaukee, St. Paul & Pacific railroad, and Ernest E. Norris, president of the Southern Railway company. Norris said wage increases demanded by the unions "would have wrecked the Southern railway in the best years it has ever had."

Vast and Growing Use of Metals Indicated

Supplies for Autos

Cleveland, O., Oct. 13 (AP).—It is problematical whether automobile builders will be able to get enough steel to make cars allotted them under OPM's limitation order, Daily Metal Trade asserted today. The automotive position is "growing steadily worse," it said.

"This is particularly true in cold-finished bars, since cold-finished producers, already staggering under a heavy load of shell business, expect new orders larger than any previous placements," the publication said. "These orders may be arbitrarily divided among the members of the industry and given automatic A-1 ratings.

"Right now there is only a scant chance that any new orders carrying less than A-1F rating will be delivered this year and in all probability the portion of mill production going to lower rated orders which have been on books for some time will be further cut during the remainder of this quarter."

Metal Companies

Washington, D. C., Oct. 13 (AP).—Brig. Gen. Harry K. Rutherford, executive officer to the undersecretary of war, expressed belief today that demands for munitions production would require use of all metal manufacturing concerns in the United States.

Gen. H. K. Rutherford

Rep. Joseph J. Smith [D., Conn.] questioned Rutherford during a house military subcommittee hearing on spreading arms contracts thru small industries.

"Do you think our munitions production will reach a point where all metal manufacturing concerns will be needed?" asked Smith. "Do you think the volume of production will be such that there will be a place for all these metal manufacturing concerns?"

"I very definitely believe so," replied Rutherford.

Output Is High

Detroit, Mich., Oct. 13 (AP).—Leon Henderson, price administrator, declared today that the national industrial machine had pushed production nearly 45 per cent above the 1929 peak, but if America's effort were going to count in the defeat of Hitler more productive energy must be diverted to defense.

Speaking before the Detroit Economic club, Henderson said production schedules charted by OPM call for an increasing diversion of production time to armaments. By January, he said, we should be giving one and one-half hours out of every eight for defense and by June two out of every eight.

"This stepping up of defense production and the drastic stepping down of refrigerators, automobiles, and washing machine production will be painful," he said.

Henderson told the economists that after 14 months of participation in the World war, this country was pouring 25 per cent of its national income into the war effort. Today, he said, only 12 to 14 per cent is going for defense.

Southern Ship Yard Tied Up by AFL Strike

Pascagoula, Miss., Oct. 13 (AP).—A company request that the federal government and international unions "take drastic steps" to prevent stoppage of work on 150 million dollars worth of ships for the navy and maritime commission today followed a plant-wide strike of the Ingalls Shipbuilding corporation involving 2,800 men.

The request came from Monro M. Lanier, Ingalls president, who wired the OPM in Washington that the suspension of work was "without notice to the company, without grievance on the part of the employés, and without sanction of the international unions."

Walter S. Lowry Jr., an AFL business manager, said workmen refused to enter the yards because of an "attempt on the part of the company to start an independent union."

CONSTRUCTION SLOWED.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Construction on the Houston [Tex.] Shipbuilding corporation's new plant yesterday was slowed by an AFL picket line. The concern has 140 million dollars' worth of armament orders.

AFL carpenters set up the picket line following a union protest to Brown & Root company, one of the contractors, against working conditions. Other AFL workers stayed off the job in sympathy.

Federal and state mediators hoped to settle a union jurisdictional dispute which threatens to stop production of army tanks by tying up the output of the Spicer Manufacturing company in Toledo, O., which makes 70 per cent of the tank transmissions in this country.

Boycott AFL Made Goods.

Members of CIO's United Automobile Workers boycotted material produced by the company's subsidiary in Hillsdale, Mich., which has a contract with the AFL-UAW.

Federal Conciliator James F. Dewey estimated that automobile industry shutdowns expected to affect 100,000 workmen were in the immediate offing unless settlement was reached between Midland Steel Products company at Cleveland and striking CIO United Automobile Workers.

Signing of a closed shop contract by the United Mine Workers of America [CIO] and the Harlan County [Kentucky] Coal Operators association was announced at Knoxville, Tenn., by William G. Turnblazer, district president of UMWA. In the last 20 years Harlan county has been the scene of numerous bloody union battles.

Women Approach Biblical Life Span of 3 Score and 10

New York, Oct. 13 [Special].—American women are approaching the biblical life span of three score and 10 years, according to statistics disclosed today by the Metropolitan Life Insurance company. The life expectancy in 1939 was 66.4 years for white women, and 62.6 for white males, an increase of 15⅛ and 14⅛ years since 1900.

Chevrolet Gets 4½ Million Dollar Army Truck Order

Washington, D. C., Oct. 13 (AP).—The war department today awarded a $4,570,501 contract for one and one-half ton trucks to General Motors, Chevrolet division, Flint, Mich.

ROOSEVELT SAID:

In a speech on Oct. 28, 1940—just before his third term election—President Roosevelt said:

"By the Neutrality Act of 1935 and by other steps . . . we made it clear to every American and to every foreign nation that we would avoid becoming entangled (in war) thru some episode beyond our borders. These were measures to keep us at peace. And thru all the years of war since 1935 there has been no entanglement and there will be no entanglement. . . . We shall continue to go forward in firm faith. We shall continue to go forward in peace."

ROCK ISLAND RAIL PLAN FOUGHT BY 2 OWNER GROUPS

Attorneys for Chicago, Rock Island, and Pacific railroad stockholders and holders of underlying bonds, strenuously objected yesterday before Federal Judge Michael L. Igoe to the Interstate Commerce commission approved plan of reorganization, claiming their clients' interests are almost entirely wiped out under the plan.

Harry Hirshbaum, New York attorney, representing holders of 32 million dollars worth of convertible bonds, argued it was unfair for his clients to receive only 4¼ shares of common stock, which he said are worth a total of only $8, for each $1,000 bond. Cassius M. Clay, representing the Reconstruction Finance corporation, said convertible bondholders are receiving stock of $100 a share par value.

Attorneys for preferred and common stock holders objected to the plan on the ground that it wiped out almost 300 million dollars par value.

REQUESTS EARLY NOTICE IF PLANT FACES LAY-OFFS

Washington, D. C., Oct. 13 (AP).—In an effort to turn plants and displaced workers to armament production, Security Administrator Paul V. McNutt urged today that employers anticipating layoffs report their problems promptly to state employment offices.

Wherever feasible the contract distribution division of the Office of Production Management will recommend allocation of arms contracts to firms which otherwise would be forced to close.

Packer Strike Ends as Firms Void Contract

The strike of the Packinghouse Workers' Organizing committee [CIO] against three meat packing companies, which had been in effect since Sept. 11, ended yesterday. The men were back, but apparently the PWOC is no longer sole bargaining agent.

As the strike ended the concerns involved—the Illinois Packing company, the Agar Packing company, and the P. Brennan company—served formal notice on the workers that the companies had canceled their contracts with the PWOC.

The notices were mailed out Saturday, and with them invitations to the strikers to return to their jobs on Monday or be replaced. The notices said union officials and certain members had broken the contract by calling and maintaining "illegal and wildcat strikes in violation of the contract."

Federal Men Urge Arbitration.

There was a flurry of activity Sunday and the Chicago panel of the national defense mediation board, which had been considering the strike issue, issued an announcement urging that the matters be submitted to arbitration.

The union hastily accepted the recommendation, altho it previously had rejected similar suggestions from members of the same board, Mayor Kelly, and the conciliation office of the federal department of labor. Under the recommendation the dispute would be decided by an arbitrator appointed by the mayor. The immediate issues concern the dismissal of 18 union men after a wildcat strike in August.

Up to a late hour yesterday the packing companies had not yet agreed to arbitration. Spokesmen said their position was that the union had lost the strike and was no longer recognized by the companies as sole bargaining agent.

Says Notice Wasn't Given.

J. C. Lewis, national PWOC chairman, replied that the union would insist on arbitration and would not recognize the contract cancelation. He declared the company had failed to give a required notice of 30 days.

In any event, the packing houses involved were operating at capacity yesterday, compared with 70 per cent during the 30 day strike. It was said that only 900 of the union's 1,500 members had obeyed the strike call and that they had lost $200,000 in wages. More than 200 new men were hired during the strike, and work will be found for them, the employers said.

WARNS GROCERS TO KEEP PRICES OF FOODS DOWN

OPM Aid Threatens Federal Control.

Food distributors were warned yesterday by Douglas G. MacKeachie, purchases director of the Office of Production Management, to avoid speculative buying, cut out frills, keep their profit margins at normal level and encourage consumers to buy substitutes for scarce food products. He spoke before 450 persons at a luncheon opening a three-day convention of the National Association of Food Chains in the Drake hotel.

If food prices are permitted to rise beyond the retailers' normal profit margin, MacKeachie said, the government thru the Office of Price Administration will enter with firm action. An advisory committee from the food distribution industry will be formed shortly, he added, to aid the OPM and OPA in stabilizing food prices.

Threatens Use of "Ceilings."

"Do not let yourself be deceived by the fact that so far only one food product—sugar—is under a price ceiling," he said. "Other food products will go under a price ceiling if the necessity arises.

"The Office of Price Administration is absolutely determined to do all it can to stabilize food prices. If the food distribution industry fails to do its full share to keep those prices stable you may be very sure formal action will follow."

MacKeachie told the food retailers that there will be no food shortage but that the supply of certain kinds of food, like cheese, butter and eggs, will be limited. He conceded that food prices were at a "very low level" when the arms program began and that a reasonable price rise is proper.

Stimulates Wage Demands.

"The price of food is a major factor in the cost of living for every one," he declared. "It is where the average person feels a rise in living costs first. There is no surer stimulus to a demand for wage increases, for example, than the discovery by the worker and his wife that it takes more money to fill the weekly market basket this week than it did a few weeks ago."

In discussing the progress of the armament program, MacKeachie asserted that a declaration of war is not necessary to awake the nation to the seriousness and magnitude of the requirements. He predicted that by 1943 the country will be devoting one-third of its total production to military goods.

Check Volume Dips When Oct. 1 Tax Slows Buying

With the slackening in consumer purchases after the "beat the tax" buying scramble before Oct. 1, check transactions in the week ended Oct. 8 thru banks in 274 cities dropped to $10,201,000,000 from $11,505,000,000 in the preceding week, the federal reserve board reported yesterday. The year ago total was $7,895,000,000.

WISCONSIN LABOR PEACE LAW UP TO SUPREME COURT

Milwaukee Hotel Unions Granted Review.

Washington, D. C., Oct. 13 (AP).—A group of labor organizations were granted a Supreme court review today of decisions holding constitutional provisions of the 1939 Wisconsin employment peace act outlawing what were described as unfair labor practices by employés.

A local of the United Electrical, Radio and Machine Workers of America contended that the legislation violates the national labor relations act by depriving persons who "may commit unlawful acts of minor disorders in the course of a strike" of their employé status.

Unions Charge "Speech" Ban.

Five hotel labor unions contended they were deprived of freedom of speech in Milwaukee by an order holding they had committed an unfair practice by picketing and boycotting without first obtaining approval for a strike by a secret ballot of the employés affected.

Swift & Co. was granted a review of a decision sustaining yardage charges by the Union Stock Yards and Transit company, Chicago, on livestock shipments. Swift contended the charges were for services not necessary or desired and consisted of holding and weighing the animals.

The court agreed to review a decision setting aside an order by the federal power commission directing the Natural Gas Pipeline Company of America and the Texoma Natural Gas company, both of Chicago, to reduce rates sufficiently to lower operating revenues $3,750,000 annually.

NLRB Wins a Review.

The NLRB was granted a review of a decision denying enforcement of an order directing the Automatic Maintenance Machinery company, Chicago, to disestablish a union of company employés.

The board contended that the federal circuit court at Chicago had "substituted its own views of the weight and credibility of testimony for those of the board."

Steel Mills Boost Week's Scheduled Rate of Output

New York, Oct. 13 (AP).—Operations in the nation's steel plants this week are scheduled at 98.4 per cent of capacity, a rate which promises, if maintained, to produce a record output of 1,626,000 tons, the American Iron and Steel institute announced today. Last week the operating rate was 98.1 per cent of capacity.

★SMALL BUSINESS★ MAN'S DEPARTMENT

This department is prepared to help the small business man who is seeking information on priorities, substitute materials, and related subjects. Inquiries should be directed to the Small Business Man's department, Chicago Tribune, Chicago, Ill. All inquiries will be given careful attention. Letters on subjects of broad interest will be published with comment.

SCRAP.

In the new priority control order for scrap, how does the priorities division of the Office of Production Management define scrap?

Answer: Scrap is defined in general preference order M-24 as "all ferrous materials, either alloyed or unalloyed, of which iron or steel is the principal component, which are the waste of industrial fabrication, or objects that have been discarded on account of obsolescence, failure or other reason."

PAPER BAGS.

I know that many storekeepers like myself have been having trouble in getting paper bags at a reasonable price. Is the government doing anything about it?

Answer: Price Administrator Leon Henderson has announced that the manufacturers' prices for common brown grocery bags have been stabilized temporarily by voluntary understandings.

The Office of Price Administration is completing a study of the paper bag industry's prices. Pending the adoption of more permanent policies, the manufacturers have agreed that prices on the brown paper bags will remain at levels current in the last few months in all territory east of the Rocky mountains.

DIVISION OF PURCHASES.

What is the function of the purchases division in OPM?

Answer: The purchases division of OPM furnishes expert purchasing advice to the army and navy. The division has been active especially in aiding the quartermaster general's food buying program. The division makes no purchases of its own. The letting of contracts remains an army and navy function.

POWER IMPLEMENTS.

Has improved farm income been reflected in the profits of the Minneapolis-Moline Power Implement company? I also would like a general report.—O. N. G.

Answer: Net income in 1940 made a strong recovery from a severe slump the preceding year. Earnings have been irregular but on a profit basis since the heavy losses of the years 1931 thru 1934. Results for fiscal years ended Oct. 31 follow:

	Net sales.	Net income.	Per com. shr.
1940	$16,367,628	$1,165,737	$0.75
1939	13,445,881	64,140	.....
1938	14,630,983	727,033	0.19
1937	16,538,508	1,534,585	1.26

The company's net income for the 1941 fiscal year was estimated at about $1,750,000, or $1.60 a common share. Late last month, the total value of prime and subcontracts for rearmament, excluding miscellaneous machining work, was placed at more than $11,000,000.

At the end of 1940, there were 700,000 shares of $1 par common and 98,700 shares of $6.50 no par cumulative preferred stock outstanding. There is no funded debt.

No dividends have been paid on the common stock since the company was incorporated in 1929. Arrears on the preferred amounted to $44.12½ a share last Aug. 15. A payment of $6.50 was made in December, 1940, but no distributions have been reported so far this year. Nothing can be paid on the common until preferred accumulations are cleared.

Minneapolis-Moline manufactures agricultural implements and related power machinery, including tractors, harvesters, threshers, and combines. Most of domestic sales are made normally in the middle west and southwest. Plants are at Minneapolis and Hopkins, Minn., and Moline, Ill.

SWEETS, INC.

What have been the earnings of Sweets Company of America, Inc., in the last two or three years? What about dividends? Does this company trade-mark its products?

Answer: Profit declined from $104,584 in 1938 to $31,975 in 1939, then rose to $33,780 last year. For the six months ended June 30 this year, profit was $46,498, after allowing $20,000 for estimated federal income taxes. This compares with a loss of $45,801, before taxes, in the same 1940 period. No dividends have been paid on the capital stock since 1932. The company's candy rolls, nut rolls, and caramels are sold under the trademark "Tootsie."

BENTON HARBOR FRUIT PRICES.

BENTON HARBOR, Mich., Oct. 13 [Special].—Today's fruit market prices were: Grapes, Concords, 12 quarts, No. 1, 60 to 65c; No. 2, 50 to 60c; four quarts, 25 to 27c; apples, bushels, Jonathans, 2½ inch, $1.15 to $1.40; Delicious, 2½ inch, $1.35 to $1.50; Spys, Baldwins, Kings, 2½ inch, 90c to $1.10; Grimes Golden, 2¼ inch, 70 to 90c; pears, bushels, Kieffers, 2 inch, 50 to 65c; 2¼ inch, 60 to 75c; tomatoes, 12 quarts, No. 1, 50 to 60c; No. 2, 15 to 40c; lima beans, 12 quarts, 40 to 65 cents.

Flower Gardens.

October 13, 1941.

FALLING leaves, nippy weather, and light early morning frosts have given their warning that the fall flower garden work must begin in earnest. The time has come for preparing the flower gardens for winter, and for the next week or so the gardener will be busy digging and storing his bulbs.

The dahlia bulbs will be left in the ground until a hard frost and then will be dug and stored. The gardener makes a practice of leaving these bulbs in the ground as long as the foliage on the plants remains green. This enables the bulbs to store up food to be used by the new sprouts next spring.

Digging the Bulbs.

When the time comes, the old plants will be cut off near the surface of the ground and the bulbs will be taken out. Care is necessary so the bulbs will not be broken during the digging. The dirt will be washed off, and the stems split open to be dipped in sulphur dust, which kills decay organisms. The bulbs will be stored in the basement where it is dark and cool, and where there is no danger of them freezing.

Tulip bulbs have been planted in the greenhouse, and the garden bulbs will be left in the soil over the winter. In 10 pots the gardener planted 90 bulbs. The pots now rest in the cold frame where they can benefit from what sunshine there is.

The beds in which bulbs have been left will receive a heavy mulch before cold weather sets in. Manure with a high percentage of straw will be used to keep the bulbs from being hit by a hard freeze. The practice of mulching against harsh weather is used for the trees and bushes as well as the flower beds at the farm, as the gardener believes the practice invaluable in saving plants from damage during the winter.

Gladioli Bulbs.

The gladiolus bulbs will be dug soon and stored away with the dahlias. After they have been lifted from the ground it is a good idea to spread them out for several days to allow them to dry. When dry the plants can be broken off at the top before storing the bulbs.

The rough, outside skins on the bulbs should be stripped off and burned. This destroys any insect eggs which might later develop to harm the bulbs. It is well to treat the bulbs with naphthalene flakes at the rate of half a pound to a pound of bulbs.

The bulbs should not be left in the ground for more than two years in succession because the plants will become too thick and produce small flowers. Also, the new bulbs which form each year on top of the old ones gradually will work themselves to the surface. When this happens the plants have to be staked to keep the tall flowers from falling over.

LIVE HOGS DROP TO LOWS FOR ABOUT 14 WEEKS

Hog prices fell to the lowest level in 14 weeks under pressure of the heaviest Monday receipts of the season. Reductions ranged from 15 to 25 cents. Buying demand broadened as workers in three strike bound plants with lend-lease meat contracts were ordered back to work, but the increased outlet was not enough to offset the heavier selling by farmers.

Steers and yearling cattle averaged about steady with last week's close, but were lower than a year ago. Top loads brought $12.75 a hundred pounds, which was 90 cents under the same day in 1940. Heifers sold steady to 15 cents lower. Cows were weak.

BUTTER STORAGE SUPPLY IS SECOND BEST IN HISTORY

Commercial reserves of creamery butter in storage thruout the United States on Oct. 1 totaled 200,542,561 pounds, the largest commercial reserve on record, the Chicago Mercantile exchange reported yesterday. A year before the figure was 128,014,000 pounds.

Federally-financed holdings totaled 2,127,439 pounds, to bring the total reserve to the second highest figure on record. The record for total reserves was 210,703,000 pounds on Oct. 1, 1938, when federal agencies controled nearly 102 million pounds.

Cheese reserves on Oct. 1 totaled 156,801,000 pounds, a new all-time high, which compares with 128,104,000 pounds on Oct. 1, 1940.
